THE TWO OUTSIDE MOVE-MENTS. There is an important distinction, says the New York World between the Prohibition movement which has put ex-Goy. St. John, of Kansas, in nomi nation for President, and the so-called Anti-Monopoly movement which has nominated Benjamin F. Butler.

The Prohibitionists contend for what they regard as a great moral reform which they sincerely, if erroneously, believe to be essential to the public good and to the happiness of the people Neither of the political organizations is a faithful advocate of this reform. Democracy is in open opposition to it as inconsistent with the individual rights of citizens Republicanism has been its friend wherever intolerance could be practised with impunity, but has been ready at all times to sacrifice Prohibition to political expediency. Hence the earnest and true champions of Prohibition can only hope to advance their cause by making their power felt so that the Republican party, their natural but faithless ally, may be compelled to respect them in the future.

The so-called "Anti-Monopolists" pretend to uphold a principle which is one of the articles of Democratic faith and "study the history of Annias and and to which the Democracy has always been true. If sincere in their professed desire to check the growing power of Monopoly and to project the people from the aggressions of aggregated capital, they would by all the So, as some of the Democratic papers Grover Cleveland President. The so-called Anti-Monopolists by independent action betray the cause they pretend to uphold.

nomination, thus forcibly sets forth the issue involved in his campaign:

The Prohibition party was not organized as a mere threat or menace. It is the outgrowth of a rapidly increasing crystalized sentiment against the great evil of the age-an eyil that the old parties dared not attack, but against which this young party of the people, in defense of the homes of the nation. has enterted upon a warfare that shall never cease so long as the flag of our country waves its protecting folds over legalized dramshops. In this struggle a little of everything he picks up, and et us ever remember that we are .accountable to God, that our duty to him paratus. Our digestive apparatus is s paramount to our allegiance to any political party; that political ties will never in his sight excuse a ballot for the stomach to be disposed of. In two years of service as Governor he has vetoed three or four bills which they think he ought to have signed, and has made one or two appointments which do not suit them. On this account they ask the workingmen of the country to throw away their good votes on a blatant demagogue and fraud to keep the Democratic party, the workingman's true friend out of power and to extend the twenty-four years' lease of the Republican party, which has built up all the existing monopolies, fostered a dangerous centralization of power, trampled down the rights of the people showered undue favors on Capi- take if you should club some of them, tal and left Labor in its present suffer- Florence. ing condition.

Lewis urged the agent to furnish another mate, saying that he did not like the looks of Walker, but there was no time to make a change. It is shown that Lewis, who had been ill, died several days after leaving port, expiring almost immediately after re- of Nerve Generative System, there is ceiving a potion from Walker and none equal to Allen's Brain Food, Gomez. There he was arrested, his story having preceded him, and was put in jail; and now Gomez, on attempting to return to New York, has suffered the same fate. Half a century ago this plot might have founded a prolonged freebooting expedition in the Spanish Main; but stealing and selling piecemeal a ship's cargo is no easy matter.

The attack upon Governor Cleveand's private character, undertaken by desperate Republicans, has failed stantly. to distract attention from Mr. Blaine's corrupt public record. Cleveland will survive and live down and triumph over a personal misfortune long atoned for. Blaine can never lay the ghost of Mulligan. Day by day, he is confronted with the damning evidence, and his campaign orators make poor show of defending him. Carl Schurz and the Democratic press are keeping the public gaze fixed upon the main issues of the canvass, and demonstrating that Mr. Blaine not only made merchandise of his office as Speaker, but that he perfidiously read in the House only 15 of the 19 letters he promised to make public omitting deliberately the most damaging missives. He added mendacity to corruption, and so convinced in 1876 was Murat Halstead of the fact that he then advised him withdraw from Presidential aspirations not dead, as reported and as the Republicans fondly hoped. He will be heard from in time, and need not come from the grave, like Banquo, to testify. ligan Guards."
