

W. T. JAMES, Editor & Prop. WILMINGTON, N. C.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1884.

That was an admirable speech made by Senator Bayard at the big Brooklyn meeting on Monday night. The Herald says of the assemblage: "Eight o'clock last night was the time for the Democratic ratification meeting in Brooklyn, but long before that hour all seats in the great Rink in Clermont avenue were filled, and two or three thousand men were struggling for standing room. Many hundreds of ladies were present. Any old resident of Brooklyn who had failed to see the papers in the past three months would have been puzzled to know if the meeting were Republican or Democratic, for all over the house could be seen the faces of men who voted for Lincoln and have been working Republicans ever since, yet who last night were as frequent and hearty in applauding as any one else."

The Herald gives a brief synopsis of Mr. Bayard's remarks, which we reproduce here. After analyzing the difference between the two parties, Mr. Bayard said: "What but a disregard of the care of public property leads to the wholesale abuses and corruptions that are seen all over the land and in every branch of the public service, until they seem to have become the very law of Republic administration? Is it not palpable, when the highest officers of the executive branch convert the war vessels of the government into their pleasure yachts and naval reviews into spectacles for the amusement of a crowd of idle and luxurious citizens; or when a Speaker of the House of Representatives offers, in letters written by his own hand, his rulings in the chair and his influence out of it, promising to be 'no dead-head in the enterprise,' and reminding Mr. Caldwell of his aid as Speaker in an opportune and critical moment, as his contributory share in a valuable copartnership depending for its profits upon the legislative power of the government; or is it not visible when high officers in the Postoffice Department raise the compensation of star mail routes, pay enormous sums for fictitious services and share the plunder with the star route gang, every one of whom is naturally to-day an anxious supporter of the Republican candidates, and who when brought to trial in the courts, through the inefficiency of the department charged with their prosecution, and the corruption which has contaminated the federal jury box, go unwhipped of justice; or when the navy yards are filled with superfluous workmen just on the eve of an election; or when the confidential officers of the United States Senate, including even the chaplain, who has unavailingly prayed for the moral progress of his bearers, are openly bargained away to secure the vote of an unscrupulous adventurer, to assist him in corrupting the public sentiment of an ancient Commonwealth and affix the stigma of reputation or readjustment upon her people; or when we see every department of the executive branch controlled as to its appointments in one of the States by the dictation of the same unscrupulous political leader at whose bidding meritorious officers are removed and unfit men are appointed; or when contracts for the supplies of the government in every direction are given solely to those of the same party faith, who, out of their excessive profits, contribute to keep in power the party that feeds them?"

THE AMERICAN IDEA. My object is to restore and invigorate in the North and in the South, in the East and in the West, what I have termed the "American idea" of government—that the powers delegated to our rulers and officials shall be regarded as a trust for the American people, with justice and equity to all and favor to none. That in antagonism to the "mercenary idea" of government, no public property and the fruits of no public powers shall be perverted to individual or class profit—least of all, by that breach of trust by which an official enriches himself by illegitimate use of the public powers entrusted to him. BLAINE'S CHARACTER. After arraignment Mr. Blaine for his share in Republican misrule Mr. Bayard said: "I have referred to Mr. Blaine entirely as a public man, and the public record of his action while in office is all that I shall criticize. He has been pictured by a very large body of his fellow citizens who, as independents, declare their unwillingness to vote for him and who give their reasons publicly and in full. They are impressive witnesses, because for the last twenty-five years they have been his party associates, and have, therefore, a longer and more intimate knowledge than his lifelong opponents—the Democrats—can have. They give the reason why they recoil from placing him at the head of the affairs of the nation. They deplore his election as a national calamity, and foretell a downward plunge of the national character and the national interests when his influence shall be allowed to control them. I, as a Democrat, believe and feel what they say is true, and for other and additional reasons, which I have given you, I believe his election would be a public calamity."

THE MULLIGAN LETTERS. I have here the document report No. 176 of the House of Representatives, Forty-fourth Congress and first session. It contains the depositions under oath of James Mulligan, a citizen of Boston, made in the presence of Mr. Blaine. This witness is not only to this day wholly unimpeached, but his veracity and integrity have been sustained unquestionably. Having fully read these depositions, I am unable to see how any man can doubt that Mr. Blaine's conduct in this case—obtaining from him certain letters by false pretences, kneeling down to him in solemn terror, and falsifying the truth in relation to the transaction—renders him honest citizen for the great position of President of the United States. If any man doubts, let him read the depositions of Mr. Mulligan and Mr. Blaine himself in the document referred to, and I believe his doubts will end.

BAYARD TO CLEVELAND. And I now come to the character of the Democratic candidate. If any man has ever imputed to him a corrupt use or intent to use public power I never heard it, nor I think have you. He is not, as I have heard, a "brilliant" man nor a "magnetic" one, but he is a man of sound judgment, of vigorous intellect and habits of laborious performance of duty. He has the industry and capacity to form independent opinions, and the conscience and the courage to maintain those opinions. This has brought him in sharp and positive conflict with vigorous and able men, and has displeased them, deeply offended them; but among them all I have never heard an imputation, accompanied by the slightest evidence, upon his good faith or his personal truth, honor or integrity. "There is a kind of evidence known as 'unconscious proofs.' It consists of the unguarded disclosures of a man's motives and impulses, made without reflection and unaccompanied by any intent—sudden rays of light falling upon the more secret recesses of his heart and giving a better knowledge of his nature than any premeditated act or word. I have read a letter of Grover Cleveland, written in the unthinking confidence of family affection to his brother on the day of his election as Governor of the State of New York. It was an echo from his heart and a true reflex of his feelings at a time when high honor and great responsibilities had come upon him. That letter had the true ring of honest manhood, with but one aspiration, and that to do his duty. Mingled with that aspiration came the memory of his dead mother, and that her gentle influence seemed then to revive and strengthen and purify his thoughts will not lessen the sympathies of the American people with the son who mourned her absence in the day of his renown and promotion among men. But this is the leading influence in the character of Grover Cleveland as I discern it—not love of money, not to achieve success nor arouse noisy admiration, but chiefly to perform his duty in that station of life to which it may please God to call him. He had done this alike in offices comparatively humble as well as in those of great distinction and power, for he has governed the Empire State and 5,500,000 of people honorably, honestly and well for the past two years. As a son and brother he has done his duty; as a citizen he has done his duty; as a Sheriff he has done his duty; as Mayor of Buffalo he has done his duty; as Governor of the State of New York he has done his duty, and God willing, as President of the United States he will do his duty."

Workers and Eaters. It is sound doctrine, that if any man will not work, neither shall he eat. And it is just as true that if any man cannot eat, neither can he work. There are thousands of people whose indigestion is so poor that they cannot with any comfort eat a square meal. How can we expect such sufferers to do a fair day's work? Brown's Iron Bitters strengthens weakened digestion, tones up the whole system, enables people to eat, to work, and enjoy prosperity. Any druggist will supply you."

SEPTEMBER SQUIBS. Drawing materials—mustard and water.—Life. Never dispute with a woman about her weight. She's always bound to have her own weight. A wall in the Southern part of China is said to be entirely made of fish. It ought to be an easy one to scale.—Statesman. A Philadelphia father makes his baby sleep with the nurse three-quarters of a mile off. It must be the second one.—Courier-Journal. "Do cats reason?" asks a correspondent. "Certainly. There are two in our neighborhood that are reasoning with each other all through the stilly night.—Baltimore Day. "Why am I like a Wall street financier?" asked a young farmer as he returned from the barn. "I give it up," replied his father. "Because I have been watering the stock."—Brooklyn Times. The old saw, "Never kick a man when he is down" is a good one, because to kick a man when he is down is cowardly. Now we give another. "Never kick a man when he is up," because it is reckless.—Evansville Argus.

Thin People. "Wells' Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sexual Debility. $1.00. SHORTS. Homer's Iliad is to be translated into Bengali verse. There are 580 Icelanders in Manitoba engaged as farmers. A deaf mute in Illinois has inherited $28,000 from Germany. The bad character of the Philadelphia water has created a boom in Appolinaris. Just what a "mugwump" is has not yet been satisfactorily settled. Authorities disagree. Although Can'on, China, has a population of 1,500,000 there is not a newspaper in the place. Taxation is already onerous in France, and the foreign war is not popular outside of Paris. The actors' fund paid the expenses of seventy-four funerals during the last two years. A California vine-grower gathered seven tons of Zinfandel grapes from an acre of vines this season. The Salvation Army, according to the commander, Major Moore, numbers 20,000 soldiers and 200 officers. During the last six years 87,247 young men have left Prussia to escape compulsory military service. A barber in St. Louis advertises to keep his establishment open all night

THE GENTLE SEX.

Cholera moustaches, perfumed with carbolic acid, are worn by Marseilles women. Fifteen young women from Mt. Holyoke, Mass., are taking a tramp in the Adirondacks. There is a housekeeper in Salem who is 91 years old and has had her place for 66 years. The Boston girl is considered accomplished when she can sneeze without dropping off her eyeglasses. Clara Louise Kellogg says this has been the greatest season for the American girl abroad that has ever been known. The wife of a wealthy Logansport, Ind., jeweller eloped twice in one week, and yet the women ask for more rights. Women and girls own nearly one-half of the deposits in the savings banks of Massachusetts, having to their credit $117,932,399. "The Arctic regions are not without their pleasures. The Esquimaux girls are very pretty; dance, sing and do not care for ice cream." According to the Boston Transcript. A Colorado woman has discovered and done the assessment work on fourteen mining claims. In addition to this she has kept a hotel and supported her worthless husband and two children. "Captain Joe," the local chief of Warho Indians, says that there is a squaw living in the outskirts of Carson, Nev., who is nearly 150 years old. Her grandson, at the age of 90, was one of Gen. Fremont's guides when he crossed the plains. The Southern papers report that Miss Maud St. Pierre, of Washington City, has bought 14,000 acres of coal and timber lands at Anderson, Tenn., and will at once proceed to build a model town, with all the modern conveniences. Hall's Hair Renewer makes the hair moist, soft and glossy, and is unsurpassed as a hair dressing. Low shoes, with plain colored hoses, are worn on the streets. EMORY'S LITTLE CATHARTIC PILLS are sufficiently powerful for the most robust, yet the safest for children and weak constitutions.—15 cents. eod Married ladies frequently wear black lace over shot silks of light color.

For the Campaign. THE POLITICAL CAMPAIGN UPON which the people of North Carolina are just entering, is one of great excitement and of vital importance to them. It will be no child's play. All that is needed to insure Democratic success and continued prosperity to the State is a plain, truthful statement of what are now the facts of history, or are daily becoming so. The reasons for Democratic victory, and the even stronger reasons for Republican defeat, are abundant, and it is the purpose of THE REGISTER to do its full part in laying them before the people. In answer to the power to this end, and in answer to appeals, THE REGISTER will be furnished at such low rates as to put it in the reach of every one during the present State and Presidential campaigns. If we all do our full duty, "victory will surely be with us; but that duty will leave us no idle time. There must be early work, late work, work all the time. If good government, recovery and prosperity will be worth working for, let us all get to work, and at once."

CAMPAIGN RATES. THE REGISTER will be furnished to Clubs, until November 15, at the following rates: One copy, 50c; five copies, $2.50; ten copies, $3.75; twenty copies, $7; fifty copies, $15; one hundred copies, $28. In every case the paper will be sent until the return of the election shall be received and published, and we invite the attention of Executive Committees of Counties and Townships, and of all others interested, to the Campaign Register as a sure and cheap means of furnishing information to the people. Address RALEIGH REGISTER, Raleigh, N. C. DOCUMENT NO 1.—1884. DEMOCRACY vs. REPUBLICANISM. HANDBOOK OF NORTH CAROLINA POLITICS FOR 1884. The Platforms, The Parties, and The Issues Thoroughly Discussed. The influence of "Document No. 1," issued by the Democratic State Executive Committee in 1882, was generally recognized as decisive in that year's campaign. A similar Handbook has been prepared for this year's use, and will be issued immediately after the session of the Chicago Democratic Convention. The Handbook will be a well printed pamphlet of about 150 pages, 8vo, and will contain the fullest information on matters involving the year's elections. Document No. 1, for 1884, will be supplied at TEN DOLLARS PER HUNDRED, the actual cash cost of type-setting, paper and press work.
