Henry Villard will not return to his "Widerland" a pauper. He is still worth over half a million, and is only 65 years old.

Potatoes are a drug in the New York market, and are rotting there by the hundreds of barrels.

Ireland, it is said, is overflowing with tourists, and it is reported to be next to impossible to procure a bed at a decent hostelry in Scotland.

Prohibition St. John now feels how sharper than a thankless tooth it is to have a serpent child. His boy in the land office swears he will vote for Blaine.

The cabalistic symbols "19 D. H." at the bottom of Blaine's telegram of April 16, 1872, to Warren Fisher prove that in at least one enterprise he was a deadhead!

Justice Bradley, of the United States Supreme Court, says of the newspaper dispatch announcing his intention of resigning: "It is interesting news and the first I heard of it."

"Attorney General Brewster, I am told," writes the gossip of the Washington Capital, "wants the place on the United States Supreme Bench Mr. Justice Bradley is expected to vacate this winter."

The latest in dress for gentlemen is the "Father Hubbard." Simply drop the suspenders and wear the shirt loose over the top of your pants, instead of tucking it in, and you have the "Father Hubbard."

The Canadian Voyageurs who enlisted to go up the Nile with Wolsley are becoming frightened at the climatic dangers which threaten the expedition, and a number of them have fled to the United States in order to escape.

Ex Secretary Fish highly complimented Governor Cleveland, and he doesn't very fully endorse Blaine, but he will vote for Blaine. He was quoted for Cleveland and against Blaine just long enough for the Blaine organs to discover what a political dude and dotard Hamilton Fish had become; but now they will take it all back and rank him as a statesman and patriot.

Three C's—There are three c's that see the children and carry them off, and the sorrowing mother, wiping seas of tears, sees her little one borne away to the cemetery. The three c's are cold, coughs and croup. Mothers! Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup saves the little one's life!

THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. VIII. WILMINGTON, N. C., TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1884. NO. 227

Years ago, in New York, Powers' nob's statue, the Greek Slave, was not considered what poor Artemus Ward called "a moral show," and was exhibited to ladies and gentlemen on alternate days, but never at the same time.

A relic of the olden time has just died in Paris, in the person of a wonderfully attractive old lady, the actress Amalia Hainziinger. She was eighty-seven years old, and had acted in the presence of Napoleon I and of Goethe, who mentions her in his writings.

Charles H. Emerson, of Yonkers, has raised a pole seventy feet high from a ledge of rocks in front of his residence at Hawthorne avenue and Hudson street, suspended from which is an American flag bearing the names of Cleveland and Hendricks. The flag can be seen from all parts of the city.

It is said that James Gordon Bennett has entered into a bond with a heavy penalty attached not to drink any more liquor. The betting men of New York have made big wagers on the result, and the Buffalo Courier asserts that they would give $50,000 to the man who succeeds in tempting Bennett to drink a glass of whiskey.

According to the St. Louis Republican a patent has been secured for a chemical process for cleaning the lint from cotton seed, and a syndicate representing a working capital of $8,000,000 has been formed to apply it in the mills of crushers in Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee and other States. Already cotton seed oil vies with olive oil for many purposes, but the oil made of seed cleaned by the process here mentioned will, it is thought, compete successfully with the best refined olive oil in the market.

Straightened Up. After suffering with a lame back for a long time, Mr. G. N. Boyer, Carillon, Quebec, Canada, says he was completely cured by St. Jacobs Oil, the great pain-reliever.

We understand that the elegant organ ordered for St. Thomas' Church is not expected now until the 15th of October. It was promised for the 20th inst., but could not be completed at that time owing to some accident to the machinery at the manufactory.

Personal.
Dr. W. T. Ennett, of Burgaw, was in the city yesterday, for the first time in months. He has been quite sick recently, and we are glad to see that he has recovered.

False Alarm.
There was an alarm of fire at about 2 o'clock this morning, which was reported to be on the corner of Market and Seventh streets. The firemen turned out in quick time, but there was no fire to be found. It was a false alarm.

City Court.
Philip Wright, colored, whose case was continued in the City Court yesterday, was brought before the Mayor this morning and fined $5 for his offense, which was disorderly conduct. In the same case the witness who was required to show cause why he should not be fined $3 for absence from the Court, appeared and explained the cause of his absence and the fine in his case was remitted.

The Health of Burgaw.
We are glad to learn, as we do from Dr. W. T. Ennett, that the health of the thriving little town of Burgaw was not as bad as reported to us a few days ago. Dr. Ennett says that it is really good for this season of the year, better, in fact, in proportion to population, than it was a year ago. The town seems to be on a boom, there having been an increase of about 25 per cent. in the population during the past twelve months. They should build that talk-of-railroad to Jacksonville and then see how fast the place will grow.

At Anniston.
The Wilmingtonians who recently removed from this city to Anniston, Ala., Messrs. J. A. Springer, F. M. King and W. E. King, seem already to have established themselves comfortably in their new home. We have received from that town a programme for the reception which was tendered the citizens of the surrounding country by the merchants of Anniston, on the 17th inst., and we find the names of Messrs. F. M. King and J. A. Springer on two of the most important committees. On the reverse of the programme is printed the business directory of Anniston, and in it appears the names of J. A. Springer, grain and feed, wholesale and retail, and King Bros., hardware, stoves, &c.

Registration of Voters.
EDITOR DAILY REVIEW:—In your issue of 20th you say that "voters will do well to remember that there will be an entirely new registration this year." By the law (the Code, sec. 2,675) a new registration is not required, unless the County Commissioners so order. Probably the Commissioners of New Hanover county have ordered a new registration, and your article applies to that; if not, it may cause some confusion in other counties where the REVIEW circulates, and where no such registration has been ordered.

Sept. 22, 1884. LONG CREEK.
Our remarks were intended to apply to New Hanover only. A new registration has been ordered here but we do not know of any other county in this section where it has been ordered by the Commissioners.

Another large consignment of Sash, Doors & Blinds at Factory prices, just received at JACOBI'S Hardware Depot.

Dead Men Don't Advertise.
It can safely be laid down as a rule in these days of universal advertising that the man who don't advertise either has nothing for sale which will bear talking about or he is so old and foggy in his methods of business that he has got so far behind the times that he will never catch up. There is no surer evidence of snap and energy in a business man or firm than liberal advertising.

In the store or warehouses of a large advertiser the purchaser finds the latest styles, the best material, the most approved patterns, the most reliable goods and the most advanced business methods. Advertising pays, not only in the matter of attracting customers, which is the legitimate aim of all advertisements, but it enables the reader to see who are the really live and energetic men in any business, and by keeping them constantly in mind the reader of the paper can avoid the old foggy tradesman whose greatest mistake in life has been in not getting buried twenty-five years ago. Dead men don't advertise.

We invite the attention of our citizens to the fact that first quality shirts are being made to order at one dollar at the Wilmington Shirt Factory.

Every Farmer ought to get a "Boy Clipper Plow," greatest invention of the age. JACOBI is the Agent.

DISTRESSING SUICIDE.
Capt. W. H. James of this City Dies by his Own Hand.

At about 9 o'clock this morning the report of a pistol was heard on the second floor of the brick building on North Second street, between Princess and Chestnut, occupied by Capt. W. H. James and his assistants as an office of enquiry, and by himself as a residence, and in a moment of time a young man came rushing down the stairs for a physician, stating as he hastened along that Capt. James had shot himself. A crowd was collected at the entrance almost instantly, and few went up stairs to find Capt. James prostrate upon his back, the blood oozing from a fearful wound in the back of his head, about on a line with the bottom of the right ear and half way between that organ and the centre of the skull. The pistol lay upon the floor a few inches from the right hand, from which it had evidently fallen immediately upon being discharged. Drs. Love, and Hartfield were in attendance in a few moments, and were with Capt. James until he died, which was in about 15 minutes after the wound was inflicted. Officer Allen, of the police force, was also present and took charge until the arrival of the Coroner, who had been at once notified of the occurrence. Upon the arrival of the latter, which was in a few moments, the charge was at once transferred to him. The weapon was a Smith & Wesson six-barrelled revolver of 32 calibre, and an examination showed that five of the chambers were loaded and that the other was empty. The Coroner immediately summoned and impelled the following as a jury of inquest: L. J. Otterbourg, foreman; John Nutt, W. H. Gerken, Henry Middleton, E. M. Green and G. W. Sheridan. The jury proceeded at once to take testimony, the first witness being Dr. J. A. Hartfield, who, being duly sworn, said that he was called upon at a little after 9 o'clock this morning and hastened immediately to the scene. Found the deceased prone upon the floor as already described, breathing hard. Ceased breathing in about five minutes, although the pulsations continued four minutes longer, when they also ceased and life had become extinct. He thought that the shooting was suicidal.

Dr. F. W. Potter, being duly sworn, said that the ball entered the back part of the head and passed clear through the brain, lodging just behind the right eye. The wound was necessarily fatal and in his opinion the shooting was suicidal.

Lewis Belden, a young lad who took care of the room for Capt. James, being duly sworn, said that he entered the room between 7 and 8 o'clock, at which time the deceased was asleep on the bed. That he soon after went for ice, and while he was gone the shooting took place, and when he returned he found a crowd gathered and the captain dying upon the floor, and was sent immediately for a physician.

Messrs. J. C. Lodor and Mr. J. N. Blauvelt, two assistants in the office, testified that they were at work at their desks in another room when they heard the report of a pistol and the fall of a body, upon which they rushed to Capt. James' room and found him as already described. They had neither of them seen him during the morning until after the shooting.

This closed the testimony, and upon this the jury rendered a verdict as follows: "That the deceased came to his death by a pistol shot wound inflicted in the head by his own hand."

Capt. James came here in 1863 and entered at once upon duty in the Confederate service as captain of engineers, in which position he remained until the surrender, his family residing at Wadesboro during the time. Soon after the surrender he formed a copartnership with Capt. J. K. Brown, of this city, and engaged in civil engineering, a business which they conducted under the firm name of James & Brown, until about three years ago when the partnership was dissolved. Since that time Captain James has been engaged in his profession, mainly in the employ of the government on the improvement of the Upper Cape Fear and its tributaries, and was thus engaged at the time of his death. About ten years ago one of his sons was accidentally shot and killed by a companion just as the two were starting on a hunting expedition. Since then the deceased has lost by death his wife and remaining children, save one,

Mr. W. Alden James, who is now at Fayetteville on duty for the government as a civil engineer. Capt. James was an engineer of high attainments; as a citizen was peaceable, quiet and unobtrusive; as a companion, was affable, genial and whole souled, with a high sense of honor, which had never been tarnished. He was about 55 years of age and died by his own hand, without an enemy in the world. What prompted the terrible act will probably always remain a mystery, and we would not, if we could, penetrate the veil and expose to the public gaze the keen tortures of a generous and noble heart which could only find rest in the untroubled sleep of death.

Painful Accident.
Friends at Burgaw have furnished us with the particulars of a painful accident which happened yesterday to two worthy residents of that town. Messrs. R. W. Moore and J. H. Moore were at work during the day on a scaffold built up against the latter's house, some twelve feet from the ground, and at 3 o'clock this scaffold gave way, precipitating them both to the hard ground below. They fell on their backs among a lot of blocks and planks and were both painfully injured. Mr. R. W. Moore was the most severely injured of the two. He was bruised on the hip and back, in two places, while Mr. J. H. Moore was injured on the arm wrist and hand. They were unable to walk without assistance and were carefully conveyed to their homes where necessary attention was rendered. One of our correspondents says that Mr. R. W. Moore, who is an aged gentleman, is in a critical condition.
