The WOMEN Endorse

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS

When a woman expresses her opinion upon the merits of anything she has used, it is, in almost every case, given in words direct from the heart, and free from the dictations of pecuniary interest or policy, which too frequently influence the actions of the sterner sex.

MRS. F. CADO, of Chicago, Ills., says:
For the last two years have had frequent severe attacks of Neuralgia. Brown's Iron Bitters has given me quick and lasting relief.

MRS. H. HOLBROOK, of Boston, Mass., says:
I have experienced great relief from indigestion and nausea in the throat by the use of Brown's Iron Bitters.

MRS. CLARA M. JOYCE, of Louisville, Ky., says:
Used Brown's Iron Bitters for dyspepsia and stomach troubles. Am now enjoying perfect health after five years of misery.

MRS. A. R. PIERCE, of Maysville Ky., says:
Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of palpitation of the heart. I take pleasure in recommending it.

MRS. MARTHA ASHTY, of Bloomington, Ills., says:
A severe attack of heart disease left me weak, not able to walk. Brown's Iron Bitters restored me to my old-time good health.

MRS. M. COOK, of Newark, N. J., says:
I had always thought of indigestion as the "King of evils," but it was overcome in my case by the use of Brown's Iron Bitters.

MRS. A. E. RICHARDSON, of Boston Highlands, says:
Have been taking Brown's Iron Bitters for general debility; am improving rapidly and feel highly gratified with results.

MISS MARY WOODBURY, of Portland, Maine, says:
Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of headache, with which I had been greatly troubled for two years.

MRS. W. A. HALL, of Dorchester, Mass., says:
Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of dyspepsia; was suffering from the most aggravated form of that distressing complaint.

MRS. LOUISE S. LOCKE, of N Charleston, N.Y., says:
Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of nervous affection. I gladly recommend it to all who are suffering from like troubles.

MRS. D. W. JACKSON, of Millington, Ills., says:
Brown's Iron Bitters cured me of weakness, especially in the lower limbs; my general health is also greatly improved.

The Daily Review.

JOSH. T. JAMES, Editor & Prop.

WILMINGTON, N. C

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1884.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N. C., as second-class matter.

A New York letter says: "The Stock Exchange has about half made up its mind to deal in ten share lots—that is, to make ten instead of one hundred (as at present) the unit of transaction. For a long while the proposition has been resisted on the assumption that its effect would be to degrade the Exchange to the level of a bucket shop; but the bucket shop now is taking away so much business that pride apparently is yielding to considerations of self-interest. The Exchange is approaching the question by indirection, in the form of petitions asking the governing committee to act in the matter, but the final result, probably, will be to let themselves down to the ten-shares level, the rule going into operation with the beginning of the new year."

A curious technicality has arisen in West Virginia which may change the State government, and possibly give the electoral vote of the State to Blaine. At the October election a Constitutional amendment was adopted changing the election of State officers from October to November. A number of Prohibitionists immediately put a ticket for State Officers in the field. It also bore the names of the Republican Presidential electors, and in the Fourth district the name of the Republican candidate for Congress. At the November election about 1,500 of these votes were cast—500 in two counties in the Fourth district. These were thrown out, electing a Democratic candidate by 161 majority. A recount is called for, which it is said will elect the Republican Congressional candidate, and will probably elect the Republican electoral ticket. This would not affect the result in the nation.

The widow of ex-Mayor Eastman, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., is wealthy and lives in an elegant mansion in that city. Her husband during life was President and proprietor of the Eastman Business College. C. C. Gaines, of Danville, Va., became a student at the college soon after Mr. Eastman's death, but was so poor that he was barely able to pay his tuition. He became Mrs. Eastman's favorite scholar, and was given a room at Mrs. Eastman's house. When he graduated he was made an assistant teacher and continued to reside at Mrs. Eastman's. On Wednesday, October 29, Mrs. Eastman and Mr. Gaines were married. She is fifty-two years old and he is twenty four. The arrangements for the wedding were conducted quietly and relatives were not made aware of the widow's intentions until a few hours before the ceremony wes performed. The difference in the ages of the bride and groom has caused much gossip, and President White, who succeeded Mr. Eastman, has resigned. The majority of the faculty of the college have withdrawn and will start an opposition school. This will place Mr. Gaines at the head of the Eastman Business College.

A New York letter says: "In the way of wholesale trade here there is not much to be said just now, except that nobody is looking for any especial activity until the beginning of the new year. There are not a few facts that justify that expectation, not the least of which is the certainty that stocks of merchandise in the hands of jobbers and retailers throughout the country are down to low-water mark. On this point there is undoubted testimony from many sources The remark applies more particularly to the dry goods trade, but it is not less true in a general sense as regards other leading lines of business. The implication is that a demand for the replenishment of exhausted stores must soon set in, the effect of which will be felt in a wide circle of industries. The retailers are already busy with the holiday trade, which, notwithstanding a good deal of croaking about hard times, bids fair to equal in volume that of any preceding season, though profits will probably be much lower. This is the belief of intelligent and impartial merchants that are engaged in the trade. There is more or less apprehension as to further commercial embarrassment towards the close of the year, and also as to distress among the working classes consequent upon the shutting down of factories and reduction of wages; but the predominating feeling is that if we get through the Winter without any mischievous tinkering of the tariff by Congress, the country will have turned the corner of the existing depression and entered upon a new career of material prosperity"

Ben Perley Poore, a Jumbo of a man, has reduced his mountain of flesh 64 pounds by a severe regimen of twenty-seven weeks on stale bread and sweet skimmed milk, unrelieved by the slightest variation of diet. He says his health has marvelously improved by the reduction of avoirdupois.
