I seem began to firel the good effects of the medicine, the offender running began to grow less and less and firally censed, the alovers healed, my flesh became firm and solid, and to day, after taking twenty one bottles, I am as halo and stout a man of my age as there is in Ge orgin. I am seventy one years old, but feel now younger and stronger than I did general. than I did when I was twenty five. I weigh about 120 pounds. Nothing is to be seen of the terrible disease, or to remind me of the torture I suffered for so many years, except the sears of the perfectly healed ubcurs.
I want the world to know of the almost miraculous cure effected on me by S. S. s. and I call upon those who wish to know the particulars directly from me to write, and I will consider it a pleasure as well as a duty to answer their letters. I refer to Dr. W. P. Bond, of Lithonia, as to the truth of my statement. Very gratefully yours, B. DRAKE.

The President's Table.

"Breakfast is served at the White House at 9 o'clock on week days and a half hour later on Sundays. It is a big meal with the President and a hearty foundation for the day. Generally the menu covers a half dozen dishes-three or four varieties of meat-asually a game course, potatoes, etc., pretty much as anybody with a good appetite would order in a first class hotel. The President drinks coffee at these early feasts, but the pretty mistress of the mansion likes'tea with toast, chops, soft boiled eggs and other appetizing dishes. Very rarely Mrs. Cleveland takes any other beverage than tea and milk. The Presi dent likes a glass of milk also in the morning, and between chatting over their second cups of tea they manage to while away a half hour at the first meal of the day.

"Luncheon is served promptly at half past one, and if they be a guest, at two o'clock. It is a midday dinner to all intents and purposes, but little time is wasted in its discussion. "Give Them the Cold Steel."

When the gallant Confederate general Armstead leaped over the little stone wall that served as a breatwork for the Philadelphia brigade, on the third day at Gettysburg, he called to his men to give the Union troops "cold steel."
