Not Necessarily Dangerous.

Whenever a person spits blood a feeling of great alarm is usually ex cited. In view of the fact that consumption frequently announces itself in this ay the feeling is not unnatural. Still, it does not always necessarily involve great danger. Bleeding from the back part of the nose and throat may cause the hemorrhage; it may come from the stomach or even from the mouth, Then there are a certain number of cases in which blood is spit which comes from the lungs most undeniably, and yet accomplishes no mischief. Sometimes it relieves congestion, or takes the place of loss of blood elsewhere. Again, and in a not inconsiderable number of cases, disease. I of once commenced to Darbys Prophylactic Fluid, diluted about one half, as a gargle, when great lots of hard membrane and mucous came from my throat and the attack passed off. I am satisfied of its efficacy as a preventive and cure for Diptheria."—W. P. WOODWARD, Frankford, Pa.

Is There a Future Life For Animals. We answer, John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, though there So did those eminent Christian Bishops, Jeremy Taylor and Bishop Butler. Coleridge advocated it in England, Lamartine in France and Agassiz in America. Agassiz, the greatest scientist we ever had on the continent, and a man of profound religious convictions, was a firm believer in some future. life for the lower animals. A professor of Harvard University has complied a list of one hundred and eighty-five European authors who have written on the subject. Among the leading clergy of Boston, who have publicly expressed their belief in a future life for animals, are Joseph Cook, Trimtarian, and James Freeman Clark, Unitarian. Some ten years ago a man left by will to Mr. Burgh's New York Society, about a hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Relatives contested the will on the ground that he was insane because he believed in a future life for animals. The judge, in sus taining the will, said he found that more than half the human race
