MASON & HAMLIN ORGANS, $22 to $300.
The cabinet organ was introduced in its present form by Mason & Hamlin in 1821. Other makers followed in the manufacture of these instruments, but the Mason & Hamlin Organ has always maintained their supremacy as the best in the world.
Mason & Hamlin offer, as demonstration of the unequalled excellence of their organs, the fact that at all the great World's Exhibitions, since that of Paris, 1867, in competition with the best makers of all countries, they have invariably taken the highest honors. Illustrated catalogue free.

PIANOS, GRAND & UPRIGHT.
Mason & Hamlin do not hesitate to make the extraordinary claim for their pianos, that they are superior to all others. They recognize the high excellence achieved by their leading makers in the art of piano building, but still claim superiority. This they attribute solely to the remarkable improvement introduced by them in the year 1852, and now known as the "Mason & Hamlin Piano Stringer," by the use of which is secured the greatest possible purity and refinement of tone, together with greatly increased capacity for standing in tune, and other important advantages.
A circular, containing testimonials from three hundred purchasers, musicians and teachers, sent, together with descriptive catalogue, to any applicant.

The Daily Review.

JOSEPH T. JAMES, Editor & Prop'r.
WILMINGTON, N. C.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 9, 1888.
Entered at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N.C., as second-class matter.

The New York Herald says: "There is a curious rumor which comes to us over the commercial cable that Cardinal Manning, the head of the Catholic Church in Great Britain, will be made a life peer should Lord Salisbury's proposed measure become law. There are many reasons why it would be useful to introduce Manning into the peerage. He represents an important class—namely, the English members of the Roman communion. He would be an invaluable channel of communication between Rome and the Government. His peerage would be representative, and England could give no better assurance of respect for freedom of conscience than to ask the Catholic Archbishop of Westminster, worthy to be a nobleman from the splendor of his intellect and the lofty beauty of his character, to sit in the House of Lords beside the Archbishop of Canterbury."

There is a good deal of talk about some new and very interesting improvements in typewriters. A new typewriter is to be put on the market in two or three months which, it is claimed, will be capable of one-quarter more speed than those now commonly in use, and will have the advantage of displaying the writing to the operator while it is being done. To some kinds of operators this will undoubtedly be a good deal of assistance. The speed will be improved in one way by the use of perhaps a dozen combination keys. These keys will strike combinations of letters instead of a single letter at a time. "Th" and "ng" will be, of course, among these combinations. It requires the striking of two keys, and the space bar now to print these letters. By the new device a single stroke, it is obvious, will be all that is necessary. Inventors who are acquainted with the improvement which has been made in typewriters in the last few years say that an operator will be able to write 100 words a minute on the typewriting machine of the future.

A CARD.
It has been, and is the desire and purpose of the undersigned to maintain a modest and decorous attitude in the matter of the nomination for State Auditor which meets on the 30th of May, preferring that his friends should present and urge his claims rather than seem in a public manner to do so himself. The publication of this card, he hopes, will not be regarded as in contravention of such a desire and purpose, in view of the following explanations respectfully submitted. For the past two months inquiries have come in from all sections of the State as to whether the writer desires the nomination for Auditor, and these inquiries have invariably been accompanied by the assurance, "We are for you against the field if you want the nomination. Please let us hear from you." During these same two months I have been kept closely confined, and my attention entirely absorbed by the severe and, finally, fatal illness of a member of my family. It has been and is, therefore, utterly impossible for me to write to my friends singly and make known to them my desires and wishes in the premises. Hence the necessity for this card, which I am an Editor (Agricultural) and so, in some sort and measure, entitled to the courtesy which obtains among the editorial fraternity, I ask the publication of at the hands of the Democratic Press throughout the State.
Twelve years ago I was laid aside by overwork from the active duties of the ministry, with a permanent embargo against engaging again in theological study or ministerial work, except in an incidental way, but with the full assurance by eminent advisers that I could very well engage in, and was fully competent for, any other sort of work. This withdrawal from the active ministry was, and is, fully understood by my brethren, who make it no cause for censure but rather take pleasure in honoring me whenever opportunity presents, as I am still ever glad to serve them in any and every way I can. This explanation is made for those who are disposed to adopt the sentiment of the old proverb that "the shoemaker should stick to his last," and who look with no favor, as I do not, upon a voluntarily secularized ministry. The explanation is made, too, because, the situation not being understood, this particular objection was used effectively last year to defeat me for an office which I much desired and which would have been peculiarly congenial to my tastes and training. After an enforced withdrawal from the active ministry in the manner stated I chose to be a farmer and that has been, and is, my only and exclusive occupation to date. My name will be presented, with my full consent, as a candidate for State Auditor at the Democratic State Convention which meets this month. I feel that I am fully competent for the office and that it will be generally so conceded. If I were not perfectly assured as to my competency I would neither seek nor want the position. To the old soldiers of the State with whom I sustained a fellowship of service and suffering throughout the four years of the war—from the beginning to the last day at Appomattox—and who, having manifested their appreciation of one soldier by giving him an eight-year-term in office, now seem disposed to give another old soldier a chance; to the farmers and industrial classes of the State, for the promotion of whose interests I have wrought long and faithfully both with tongue and pen; to that largest voting element in the Democratic Party, which, while having in its ranks an abundance of the best talent for the filling of any office in the gift of the people, has been allowed but one representative on the Democratic State ticket throughout the whole of the 23 years that have elapsed since the war—to that element, as well as to people of other faiths who believe in fair play and do not construe the demand for "the separation of church and State" to mean simply and exclusively the separation of one particular church from participation in the honors and emoluments of the State; to the leaders and to the rank and file of the Democratic party of North Carolina—I present my most respectful solicitation for nomination and election to the high and honorable office to which I aspire. If elected I pledge every faculty I possess to the faithful and efficient discharge of its duties. Very truly, &c.,

G. W. SANDERLIN.

Don't Experiment.
You cannot afford to waste time in experimenting when your lungs are in danger. Consumption always seems, at first, only a cold. Do not permit any disease to impose upon you with some cheap imitation of Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, but be sure you get the genuine. Because he can make more profit he may tell you he has something just as good, or just the same. Don't be deceived, but insist upon getting Dr King's New Discovery, which is guaranteed to give relief in all Throat, Lung and Chest affections. Trial bottles free at W. H. Green & Co.'s Large bottles $1.
