The following bit of corrected his. tory, in reference to the much ma ligned ex-President Davis, is from the Raleigh News and Observer:

We are sorry to see in the correspondence of a contemporary the following about the Peace Propositions: "President Lincoln gave the Confederate government his pledge that he was willing for the South to return to the Union in statu quo ante bellum. When this assurance was carried to Mr. Davis he asked: 'Was and nearly ruined the curtains."any provision made for me during this discussion? 'Your name was not mentioned at all, Mr. President, was the answer. 'Then,' said Mr. Davis, 'the terms will never be ac-

The inference from the above is that Mr. Davis made himself an impediment in the way of accepting Mr. Lincoln's terms. "No provision was made for me!" "Then the terms will never be accepted!" That Is essential to good health; but at in January that the Hampton Roads Conference was proposed. No Southern man of prominence was then proposing "unconditional surren-der." Mr. Lincoln's terms were un-

What was Mr. Stephens' purpose? He is quoted by his historian as saying, shortly after his return: "The object of the mission to For-tress Monroe has never been understood by the people. It was to endeavor, if possible, to obtain an armistice. "Lincoln and Seward, of course, would not agree to consider any terms of truce which did not recognize a return of the Southern States to the Union. I urged an armistice 1888 allowing the States to adjust themselves as suited their interests. If it would be to their interest to reunite they would do so; but that according to the principles of State rights and State sovereignty, they could not be compelled to do so."

Mr. Stephens' idea was to propose that a convention should be held of that a convention should be held of all the States, North and South.

His object was to unite our people and divide the North.

"Hereafter the question of the fundamental convents of all political parties, will be malled to any address in the United States or Canada, from JUNE 6th until after the Presidential Election, for 40 cents. all the States, North and South.

and divide the North. "Hereafter the question of the future relations of the States towards each other was to be left for adjustment among themselves—when the great principle of the sovereignty—ultimate absolute sovereignty—of each was first acknowledged. If it should be first settled by the friends new subscribers.

of constitutional liberty, North and South, that there is no rightful JOSH. T. JAMES, Editor & Prop'r. coerce a State; with this principle once acknowledged and settled as the basis of American institutions, then all other questions as to the re-lations of the States among them selves were to be left for time and place to adjust upon the principle of reciprocal advantages and mutual convenience. This was my programme for continuing the war on This line.

Mr. Stephens did not propose un conditional surrender at any time any more than Mr. Davis did-or Judge Campbell or Hon. R. M. T. Hunter, the other commissioners, or any other Confederate of good repute.

In the report in the New York Herald of Mr. Blaine's speech at Bangor the other day it is stated that he said in speaking of trusts:

"I shall not venture to say that the are altogether advantageous or disadvantageous. They are largely private affairs, with which neither President Cleveland nor any private citizen has any particular right to interfere."

In this Mr. Blaine slipped up pretty badly. These "trusts" which the robber barons are getting up all over the country are peculiarly the business of the people, the "private citizens" of this country, and it is also peculiarly the business of the Chief Magistrate of these private citizens. The people are the consumers. It is they who foot the bills and these trusts are nothing but combines, or conspiracies, to make 17th. them pay more for an article than it would fetch in an open and competitive market. Mr. Blaine is simply kicking against common sense and the "private citizens" in this country are not slow to see and realize this fact. November will tell.
