ERAL MANAGER.

The reports of the Fresident, Hon. Manager, Mr. H. Walters, give details of operating the roads and its condition. The closing fiscal year the freight and passenger business Wilmington, Columbia & Augusta Kenly. Railroad shows that the gross earnings were $779,988.82, the expenses passengers as compared with 1887, and an increase of $17,880.52 from local passengers. The increase for the same time on the Wilmington & Weldon road and branches was $25, 867.53 from through passengers and $17,690.42 from local passengers. The total number of passengers transported during the year on the W. & W. road was 251,494, and on the W. C. & A. 213,919.

Of the work accomplished the past year, the following is an epitome:

It is gratitying to note that there has been a considerable increase in the local freight and passenger business, the number of local passen gers having increased 24.4 and the revenue 13.5 per cent., and this too while the local passenger rates were decreased 121 per cent., and an additional train, both North and South bound, was run the year round to serve the local business of the road. It has given such satisfaction to the public that the General Manager recommends that, while its receipts should be continued as a permanency. The trucking business developed by the Atlantic Coast Dispatch Line, for the shipment of early vegetables and fruits to Northern markets, has been beyond the expecta tions of the most sanguine, and a large increase in this business is anticipated the coming year, particu larly from local points on the Wil mington & Weldon Railroad.

The increased tonnage has required a very large addition to the Coast Line which has been increased with nineteen engines, eight coaches and 381 freight cars. The capacity of the Wilmington Car Shops is about fifteen freight cars per month, and these shops will be kept busy

"On With the Dance."

Figurately speaking, it "rained cats and dogs" last night, but yet the heavy downpour did not prevent a good attendance at the ball given last night in Adrian Hall. Our German citizens had determined upon having a good time and when they make up their minds to this effect a few buckets full of rain water, more or less, are not allowed to interfere with the programme. It was a de lightful occasion, notwithstanding the weather, and the contrast between the lights and the music and the general enjoyment in the Hall, compared to the wild night outside but seemed to add to the zest of the occasion. The dance was on and joy was unconfined. An elegant supper was served at midnight and the festivities were kept up for hours afterwards,

Mr. Arnold's First Lecture. Rev. Mr. Arnold's lecture last night at the St. James lecture room was not largely attended, but there were some who braved the fury of the elements and who were well repaid for venturing out in such inclement weather. It was the first of the series which Mr. Arnold is to deliver on the Evidences of Christianity, but was more of a prologue than one of the regular number of lectures and those who attend the next will hear the first of the regular series. Mr. Arnold spoke of "Robert Elsmere," the recent publication which is being so extensively read, and outlined the subject matter treated there, speaking of the work of the minister and of his gradual fall into disbelief and into the new and disquieting theory that so many of the opponents of Christianity are now spreading abroadthat the gospels are not authentic and that the Messiah was himself merely a good man and a wise man, perhaps a prophet, and altogether denying his divinity. The series promises to be one o the most interesting ever delivered in this city and those who attend will find that the time has been well and profitably employed.

A Paradise for Sportsmen.

This section ought to be a veritable paradise for sportsmen. There is hardly another on the Atlantic Coast that can equal it. Wild game of all kinds is literally abundant. There are thousands upon thou sands of ducks in salt water and in fresh water; partridges, squirrels and rabbits abound everywhere.-Occasionally a panther is treed and killed and deer are very plentiful. These latter seem to make their headquarters on the coast. None are found in the red clay counties in the interior and but few in the mountains. Near this city there are hun dreds of them and they abound in the woods in Brunswick, Columbus, Major Dixon and Jno. Faison, dis-Bladen, Pender, Sampson, Onslow known them to be killed within four miles of the city. Some years ago the black tongue got out among them and numbers died, but of late Harry Dunsen, enticing seamen to years they have been very healthy and have increased wonderfully. And in addition to this there are many black bears in the swamps, notably in Columbus and Pender counties. Those who are fond of fine sport could find it here. Headquarters could be made in the city and hunting parties could branch out hence for some of the best sporting ground in North America.
