Evangelical Alliance.

The Evangelical Alliance of Wilmington, N. C., met last night in its annual meeting at the First Baptist Church.

After the devotional exercises and the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, Rev. T. H. Pritchard, D. D., presented his annual report.

On December 28, 1887, five or six of the pastors met in response to a call through the public press and organ ized a Pastor's Conference. > Dr. Pritchard spoke of the mutual acquaintance among the ministers and people of the various churches, their fraternal feeling and the unity of aim and purpose and endeavor as one of the first ends that had been secured by the Alliance.

Another valuable end was the proposition that was made by this organization for the Tabernacle services, the committees that were appointed to arrange for the building, to organize a choir and a force of ushers-vll of which work was most efficiently executed, adding unspeakably to the success of those grand meetings, and to the comfort and order of the congregation. Besides this, a regular canvass of the Do you use loaded shells? You city was instituted that every house-

Something might be done by the Alliance in abating the pauper nuisance—the imposition that is practiced by persons undeserving of help going from one to another of the churches for assistance, and this im position reacts to the disadvantage of the worthy poor.

Rev. J. W. Primrose emphasized the fact that "we can do in the Alliance what we cannot do as churches. We are not an ecclesiastical body but an assemblage of Christian citizens." Attention was also called to the fact that the Week of Prayer was observed under the auspices of the Alliance, and that during those services a petition had been forwarded to Rev. Wilbur F. Crofts for the abolition of the Sunday mail and military service, thereby uniting our influence with that of the Alliance all over the country, as well as labor organizations, in seeking this relief at the hands of Congress.
