The following dispatch regarding the Br. steamship Albany, previous ly reported ashore on Little River bar, was received at the Signal office here last night from the observer at Southport:

The revenue cutter Colfax, which arrived at Southport this forenoon with about 80 bales of cotton jettisoned from the Br. steamship Albany, reported the latter at anchor off Cape Fear bar. The Albany and the Colfax came up from Little River in company last night, but, the weather being thick and stormy, the cutter could not cross the bar nntil daylight. The Colfax and the tugs Jones and Blanche pulled on the steamer for some hours and State, and commenced the practice finally succeeded in floating her shortly after high water yesterday (Saturday) afternoon.

Portable fire-place grates. Just The Albany is a large steamer of 1, the thing for our climate. Are sold 630 tons. She was fortunate in getting assistance so promptly., Had she remained on the bar at Little River The N. Jacobi fidw. Co. still lead a few hours longer, she would have n the sale of the best and cheapest received serious damage. The Col fax had an officer and party of men on board nearly all day, assisting in lightering the vessel. The steamer and cargo are valued at $400,000. For North Carolina, generally fair LATER-Jan. 27th 7:35 p. m. Br. and much colder weather. Cold steamer Albany has left her anchor age, supposed for Newport News or Norfolk.

D'Artagnan, the Young Gascon.

That delightful and captivating hero of Alexandre Dumas' "Three Musketeers" has been transferred to the stage with signal success by that admirable romantic actor, Mr. Frank Mayo. The critics bestow unstinted praise upon the performance in which Mr. Mayo wins distinction as dramatist and actor-as Charles Fechter did in the first successful production of Dumas Monte Cristo. The "Royal Guard" is the title of Mr. Mayo's dramatization. A change has been made in the third act to afford opportunity for additional pictorial display. The scene now lies in "Calais" and Mr. Seavey, the scenic artist and his assistants, have completed from designs an elaborate set for this act, showing the town and port of Calais at night with the old inn in the foreground and Buckingham's ship at anchor. The set will occupy the entire stage and another -fine stage picture is the Porte St. Leon, with a distant view of oldParis. The cabin of Buckingham's ship is also by Seavey.' The work requires a strong company. The organization will number 25. Mr. Edmund Collier, who starred here last winter as Virginius and Jack Cade, will play Athos, the Guards man, and the three female leading characters, Lady De Winter, Anne of Austria, and pretty Constance have able and fitting representatives.

Death of Maj John W. Dunham.

We are again * called upon to chronicle the death of another prom inent citizen, Major John W. Dunham, which took place in this city on yesterday morning at 4.15 o'clock.

Major Dunham was a native Wilmingtonian, having been born in this town in 1842, and consequently was the son of the late Mr. Samuel ing.

W. Dunham, an old and highly respected citizen who died here about Shortly after his maturity, Major Danham removed to Wilson, in this of the law and while engaged in the duties of his profession the war home. broke out, when he immediately gave up his business and joined the Fourth Regiment North Carolina State troops, the late distinguished Brigadier General George B. Ander son being Colonel. He was terribly wounded at the battle of Seven further service in the army, and was compelled to return home with a shattered constitution and was cripple for the remainder of his life.

After the war had closed he was elected to the Senate of North Carolina, representing the counties of Wilson, Nash and Franklin. It was an exciting time in the history of the State. The Governor, Holden, was impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors and Major Dunham, and we hope that all who can will vited to be present. with Gov. Bragg and other prominent gentlemen, appeared for the thus offered of seeing what skill and prosecution and secured the convic tion of Holden and his removal from office, thereby disqualifying him from holding any office of honor and trust in North Carolina for all time to come. How ably Major Dunham sustained himself in that memorable H. C. McQueen, the President, on trial is known of all men and the taking the chair, said: records give abundant evidence. He edited for a time a newspaper in Wilson and for a short period one and painful illness, died this mornin Raleigh also, but his failing Mr. Roddick made this city his home health compelled him to retire from some twelve years ago, and his ge that laborious work and he returned to Wilmington to spend the remainder of hisdaysamidst the scenes and the friends of his youth. When our Criminal Court was established he was elected by the Legislature its Clerk, which position he held continuously until the day of his death, discharging its duties with great acceptability to all who had business with that tribunal. Major Dunham was a man of far more than o.dinary intelligence, had read much and was blessed with a very retentive memory; was a gallant soldier and a high-toned gentleman, loyal to his friends, an affectionate brother and a dutiful and loving son. For more than a quarter of a century he had been a great sufferer from the wounds received in defence of that cause which, in his inmost soul, he believed to be right, but scarcely a murmur es caped him. He was at his post at all times, though racked with pain incessantly, until nature finally succumbed and with a firm and expressed belief in the mercies of the Saviour he yielded up his spirit without fear and in the blissful hope of a glorious immortality. The obsequies of the lamented deceased were held at the residence of his sister, Mrs. H. B. Jewett, on Princess street, at noon to-day. Rev. Robert Strange, rector of St. James' Church, officiated. At the conclusion of the services the remains were conveyed to Oakdale Cemetery for interment, followed by a large procession of relatives and friends. Judge O. P. Meares and Capt. S. W. Vick were honorary pall the State of his adoption, and when bearers, while the following gentle- smitten by an incurable disease submen constituted the regular pall mitted patiently to the will of his bearers: Col. B. R. Moore, Maj. T. full assurance of hope.

Fatal Accident.

About 8 o'clock last night as Mc Fadyen's flat, with another one lashed longside, was drifting down the Cape Fear, impelled by the strong freshet that prevailed, and when near Pridgen's Landing, it struck a dead tree which was across the pathway of the boat. The tree fell and in its descent struck Isaac Jones, of Goldsboro, who was one of the crew of the boat, and it was thought for a time that the man had been knocked overboard and either killed or drowned. He was found, however, shortly after in the ture will fall to forty degrees or lower cabin of the flat, whither he had been precipitated by the blow, in a most deplorable condition. His left thigh and right leg were broken, and there were severe contusions on his head and face. The steamer Cape Fear, Capt. Tomlison, soon came along and owing to the emergency of the case, and the need of obtaining surgical assistance quickly as possible, took the suffer er on board to bring him to this city but he died when opposite Point science can. do.

The Late Mr. Wilkin Roddick.
