The Women Praise B. E. B.
 The suffering of women certainly awakens
 the sympathy of every true philanthropist.
 Their best friend, however, is B. E. B. (Botantic Blood Balm). Send to Blood Balm Co.
 Atlanta, Ga., for proofs.
 H. L. Cassidy, Kennesaw, Ga., writes:—
 "These bottles of B. E. B. cured my wife of scrofula."
 Mrs. R. M. Laws, Zalah, Fla., writes:—
 "I have never used anything to equal B. E. B."
 Mrs. C. H. Gray, Rocky Mount, N. C., writes:
 "Not a day for 15 years was I free from headaches. B. E. B. entirely relieved me. I feel like another person."
 James W. Lancaster, Hawkinsville, Ga., writes: "My wife was in had health for eight years. Five doctors and many patent medicines had done her no good. Six bottles of B. E. B. cured her."
 Miss S. Tomlinson, Atlanta, Ga., says: "For years I suffered with rheumatism, caused by kidney trouble and indigestion. I also was febrile and nervous. B. E. B. relieved me at once, although several other medicines had failed."
 Rev. J. M. Richardson, Clarkston, Ark., writes: "My wife suffered five years with rheumatism and female complaint. A lady member of my church had been cured by B. E. B.
 She persuaded my wife to try it, who now says there is nothing like B. E. B., as it quickly gave her relief."

We clip this from yesterday's New York Herald:
 A work is now in progress in which all English churchmen will feel an interest. It is the preparation of a photographic fac-simile of the original manuscript of the Prayer Book which for about two centuries and a quarter has been in use in the church of England. This liturgy dates from the days of Charles II., when, having received the sanction of convection, it was confirmed by the Act of Uniformity, to which royal assent was given in 1662. The veritable manuscript of the book was attached to the roll on which the act was engrossed, and for about a hundred and fifty years the two were preserved together in an ancient tower near the chapter house of Westminster Abbey.—Paris Editor of the Herald.

Here is an item of news that will interest a number of persons in this city. It is part of a special from Charleston to the Herald:
 The yacht Oneida, from New York, steamed into Charleston harbor to-day with her colors at half mast. Mr. H. M. Flager and other members of his family had arrived here from St. Augustine on Monday to await her arrival, expecting his daughter and other members of the family.
 As soon as the yacht was signaled Mr. Flager engaged a launch and boarded her as she came across the bay to find the dead body of his daughter, Mrs. F. H. Benedict, lying in the cabin. Mrs. Benedict died about 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon, just as the yacht had sighted Morris Island Lighthouse. There was on board her husband and brother, Dr. Shelton, a New York homeopathic physician, and three trained nurses, all from New York.
 Mr. Benedict is the son of E. C. Benedict, the well-known New York broker. Mrs. Benedict was very ill when she left New York and the sea voyage had been recommended as a last resort. By a singular coincidence she died just about the time that her father, Mr. Flager, reached this city. Mr. Flager is the owner of the famous Ponce de Leon Hotel at St. Augustine.

A special train with the remains passed here last night for New York. Mr. Flager had previously met his daughter in Norfolk on his yacht and she seemed somewhat better. He then left for Charleston, expecting to meet the yacht there and accompany his daughter and her husband to St. Augustine.
 For a short chapter of horrors we think the following exceeds any thing of the kind we have ever yet seen in print. It is from Reading, Pa.:
 Farmer Ephraim Lander was aroused from sleep at half past twelve this morning. His house near Palmyra, Lebanon county, was on fire below and all egress by the stairway was cut off. He called loudly to Miss Emily Shade, the domestic, who slept in a room above, seized his two children, one in each arm, and leaped from the second story window to the ground. His wife also leaped and fell by her husband's side.
 William Schaeffer, a neighbor, rushed to the rescue and groped his way up stairs to rescue the girl. He seized her to carry her out, but dropped to the floor nearly suffocated. Schaeffer rolled down the stairway and was taken out just as the upper floor fell.
 Farmer Lander climbed to the roof of a wagon shed to pour water on the flames when he slipped and fell to the ground and was fatally injured. The cattle turned loose from the stables bellowed and stampeded among the spectators, and William James and Henry Butler were severely injured by being tossed on the horns of the maddened beasts.
 In two hours everything was swept away. The family escaped only in their night clothes. At dawn nothing could be found of the body of Miss Shade. She was twenty years of age. The young man to whom she was betrothed arrived on the scene, and when informed of her fate he became temporarily insane.

Scribner's for April.
 Scribner's Magazine for April is notable for the variety of its contents, which include popular articles on railroad affairs, ship building, mountain climbing and the anatomy of contortionists; literary reminiscences of Scott, De Quincey, Burns, and Dr. John Brown; a paper on Ibsen, the great Norwegian dramatist; and one of the much praised series of End Papers, the writer for this month being Walter Pater, author of "Marius the Epicurean." The illustrations show equal richness, variety and interest. A paper which is sure to cause wide discussion is "The Prevention of Railroad Strikes," by Charles Francis Adams, president of the Union Pacific. The leading illustrated article is "Climbing Mount St. Elias." The building of an "Ocean Greyhound," describes picturesquely and effectively the marvellous industry of the great Clyde ship yards, where the swiftest trans Atlantic steamers are made. Dr. Thomas Dwight, of the Harvard Medical School, describes fully, for the first time in a popular article, the peculiar "Anatomy of the Contortionist." Mrs. James T. Fields writes of "A Second Shelf of Old Books." The present instalment of Mr. Stevenson's "Master of Ballantrae" contains a great duel scene. John R. Spears writes an exciting and humorous sea story: "A Sailor called the Parson." John E. Curran tells the first part of a story of sentiment, "Jeannie"—to be completed in May. The poetry is by A. Lammiman, Louise Imogen Guiney, Celia Thaxter, and Elsie Kendall.

Anniversary Parade.
 Wilmington Steam Fire Engine Company, No. 1, had an anniversary yesterday. It was the 20th of this excellent organization, but it was allowed to come and pass so quietly that nothing was known of it until it was almost gone. There was no formal celebration, but the engine was taken out at 5 o'clock in the evening for practice, and after this was concluded the members partook of a collation at their hall, tendered them by the new officers, Mr. W. N. Jacobs, foreman; Mr. C. H. White, first assistant, and Mr. Martin T. Davis, second assistant.

This Morning's Fire.
 The alarm of fire this morning at 9 o'clock, sent in from box 41, was caused by the burning of two one-story frame buildings, on Church, between Seventh and Eighth streets, belonging to Dave Bryant, colored, and damaging one owned by Cornelius Evans. Bryant had $800 insurance on his two buildings, one in the Sun, of New Orleans, and the other in the Springfield, of Massachusetts, represented here by Messrs. Northrop, Hodges & Taylor. Evans was insured for $300, in the Northern, represented here by Mr. M. S. Willard.

"For Richer, For Poorer."
 Our young friend, Mr. Geo. W. Jackson, was married last night at the Fifth Street M. E. Church to Miss Ida Conklin, a beautiful and accomplished young lady of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Beaman, the Pastor of the Church, in the presence of a large number of the friends of the young couple. The ushers were Messrs. A. Q. Marshall, John Scholar, Robert Williams and H. J. Perdue. At the conclusion of the ceremonies at the Church the newly married pair drove to the residence of Mr. N. F. Brandt, on Sixth between Ann and Nun streets, where a reception was held. The wedding presents were numerous and handsome.

PLEASANT NOTICE
 We will be glad to receive communications from our friends on any and all subjects of general interest, but
 The name of the writer must always be furnished to the Editor.
 Communications must be written only on one side of the paper.
 Personalities must be avoided.
 And it is especially and particularly understood that the Editor does not always endorse the views of correspondents unless so stated in the edit columns.

Don't forget the festival of the ladies of Fifth Street M. E. Church at the City Hall to night. There will be plenty of nice things to eat provided and a pleasant time for all.
Indications.
 For North Carolina, light rain, followed in the interior by fair and colder weather.
First of the Season.
 Bock Beer, which is usually one of the forerunners of Spring, is coming in this year a little earlier than usual. Mr. E. Kuhblank, agent here for the Robert Portner Brewing Company, received notice to-day of the shipment of the first car load of the season. It will be here Friday and be dispensed on Saturday. There will be a rush for it on that day.
A Dry Town To-day.
 Wilmington was a dry town to-day. All of the saloons were closed and the old toppers will go thirsty to bed to-night. The most thirsty ones of the whole lot, however, are those who were so provident as to lay in a supply last night, which they drank before they went to bed and didn't have any left for this morning. On and after to-morrow morning they can get as much as they want, if they have the wherewithal to pay for it.
Medicos Coming South.
 Dr. Thos. F. Wood has received a letter from a friend, Dr. Wm. C. Chase, a prominent physician of Washington City, cordially inviting him to be one of a party of medical men who are shortly to visit Florida, on a tour of sanitary inspection. The legislature of that State has extended the invitation, through Dr. Chase, to a number of prominent physicians, among others to Surgeon General Hamilton, who will be of the party. Charleston and Savannah are to be included in this tour and an effort will be made to get the party to stop here. With this end in view a joint meeting of the Chamber of Industry, the Chamber of Commerce and the Produce Exchange is called for to-morrow, at noon, to consider the matter. The party will arrive at the depot in this city at 3:10 p. m. on Tuesday next, April 2nd.
