Harper's Bazar.

ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S BAZAR will continue to maintain its reputation as an unequalled family journal. Its illustrations are of the highest order. Its literature is of the choicest kind, and its Fashion and Household departments of the most practical and economical character. Its pattern-sheet, supplements and fashion plates alone will save its readers ten times the cost of the subscription, and its articles on decorative art, social etiquette, house-keeping, cookery, etc., make it indispensable to every household. Its bright short stories and timely essays are among the best published; and not a line is admitted to its columns that could offend the most fastidious taste. Among the attractions of the new volume will be serial stories by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, Mrs. Alexander, William Black and Thomas Hardy; and a series of papers on nursing management by Mrs. Christine Terhune Herrick.

The Daily Review.

How He Proposed.

I took her little hand in mine, It quivered like a bird, And as I felt its touch divine A trembling sigh I heard. Moments time! Should I propose? I knew not what to say: As I beheld my blushing Rose I felt my hair turn gray!

I thought of Byron, Scott, and Moore; Ah, could I but recall A bit of their poetic lore! I once had known it all. "Oh, woman, in our hours of ease," I blunderingly said, And then I thought my tongue would freeze

And wished that I were dead. My heart was beating like a flail, And yet my lips were dumb; The clock that hung upon a nail Ticked louder than a drum. I could not see, for strange to tell, The air seemed full of smoke. Then from my tongue the fetters fell.

And then—and then I spoke. "I love you, dear!" I said in haste; "I love you, too," she said; And then I clasped her dainty waist And kissed her lips of red. Then came a flood of poetry, I spouted yards of rhyme, And she is going to marry me In apple blossom time.

—Samuel Minturn Peck.

The Crawfordville (Ga.) Democrat writes: "It is not often we commend patent medicines or recommend their use, but after using Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in a most aggravating case of cough and cold last Sunday, we unhesitatingly pronounce it to be the most effectual remedy we ever tried. We always keep it in the house."

"Now, sir," said the attorney for the defence, knitting his brows and looking severely at the witness, "you say you can remember the exact time during the forenoon at which these events took place because you had been fishing in the creek for more than three hours. Is that correct?"

"It is," replied the witness. "I'll ask you now if you can remember how many fish you had caught and what their size was?" "I had'n't caught a fish. Hadn't had a blamed nibble."

"We will have to change our tactics, whispered the lawyer. "We can never impeach this man's testimony."

SHE IS "GRATEFUL."

"I saved the life of my little girl by a prompt use of Dr. Acker's English Remedy for Consumption." —Mrs. Wm. V. HARRIMAN, New York. Munds Bros., druggists

A wretched looking tramp went into a saloon and begged with tears in his eyes for the barkeeper to give him a nickel with which to get something to eat. He got it. As soon as he got it in his hand he slapped it down on the bar and in a loud, vociferous, peremptory tone of voice said: "Beep!"

"It was several minutes before the barkeeper could catch his breath, and then he was eloquent. "Well, if that ain't gall I hope I may never live to see any. Why, you—you—you—"

"No speeches. Begging is my business and beer jerking is yours. Just you attend to your business and I'll attend to mine. It is going to be a cold winter, and if you want to keep your job you had better attend to it," said the mendicant.

The partially paralyzed barkeeper handed out the schooner, the tramp downed it slowly and drifted out, perfectly satisfied with that little business transaction.

Celery. It is strange that so healthful a vegetable as celery should be used so little, for while in season it ought to be used like any other reasonable green thing. The celery glass, with its bouquet of vivid green, is a bright, attractive ornament to the dinner table. The majority of people never think of eating it in any way but its raw state, yet there are ways in which it may be served that are much more palatable.

Boiled or steamed celery is very nice. Cut up the stalks into inch pieces, put in a saucepan and add just enough water to cover the whole. Throw in a little salt and let boil until soft, but not enough so that it falls to pieces. Drain off the water, put the vegetables into a dish and while hot serve with butter.

Creamed celery is very nice. Cut in inch pieces and cover with milk, to which, when boiling, add salt and a small piece of butter. Serve hot. This way of cooking celery is delicious.

The green stalks and leaves, usually thrown away, are all useful. Cut the stalks into small bits and use them for flavoring soups, broths, etc. Put the leaves into a pan or dish and place in the oven to dry. Watch them that they do not burn and when dry crumble them and place away in a wide mouthed bottle and keep closely covered. This will be found good for flavoring soup when the celery is out of the market. Celery seed is good to keep in the house for flavoring, and celery salt is, to many, a necessary condiment.

This plant is a great nerve and those suffering from any nervous trouble are much benefited by a liberal use of it. It is also recommended for rheumatism, some authorities going so far as to say that when freely eaten it is a sure cure for this painful disease.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To the EDITOR—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their express and post office address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 151 Pearl St., New York.

Their Business Booming.

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at R. R. Bellamy's Drug Store, as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free of charge. Every bottle warranted.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Col. W. K. Nelson, of Brooklyn, came home one evening feeling a peculiar tightness in the chest. Before retiring he tried to draw a long breath but found it impossible. He suffered four days from pneumonia and the doctors gave him up. Dr. Acker's English Remedy for Consumption saved him and he is well to day. Munds Bros., druggists
