as second-class matter. The development of gold mining in South Africa and Australia this year has been remarkable. South Africa for the first six months of this year produced £750,000 against £400,-000 for the same period last year. Queensland during the first six months of the year produced £1,400,-000, whereas the product of that province for all of last year was only £1,590,000. It is believed that £3, 000,000 of gold will come from Queensland alone this year. The output of gold is undoubtedly increasing, but silver continues to hold its own and to gain in the estimation of the commercial world as a measure of value worthy of a conderation equal to that bestowed

Despite the alleged success of the experiments with soundless powder there are some serious objections to it. It creates a very offensive and nauseous odor, which is likely to sicken troops. A still more serious objection is urged by a Berlin paper. It is that the use of powder which produces no smoke will tend to demoralization because it will enable every man to see the carnage about him. In the smoke and confusion of battle such things are obscured and soldiers behave gallantly who might not be able to stand the test of a cold and clear slaughtering match, such as would occur if smokeless powder were generally used. The real value of this invention for practical warfare cannot be determined until it has had a severer test than sham battles and fancy manœuvres can give.

party in this way: "The most resolute and vigorous attempts have been made for the last thirty or forty years to assert the Protestant character of the Church of England and to stamp out ritualism. What has been the result? The Church Association has again and again succeeded in obtaining decisions against certain practices. Have those decisions been obeyed? Are or three clergymen have been suspended and imprisoned. But the pant as ever. Strip off the vestments if you can, put out the altar lights, extinguish the incense, forbid the bowing and the crossings, and all the parody of Rome, unless you can shut the muths of these men the doctrine will remain. It is my con viction that any attempt to put down ritualism will be a disastrous

In 1880 New Hampshire adopted a 'valued policy law"-that is, a law sued by them, irrespective of loss sustained by the insured. As soon as this law was enacted all the outside companies withdrew and the people of New Hampshire were compelled to rely on State com panies for insurance. It was prophesied that the "valued policy law" would prove fatal to all these companies, but they have managed to go ahead, and their business has increased. Somewhat of a sensation has been caused by the announcement that the Ætna, of Hartford, one of the richest fire insurance companies in the country, has with drawn from the compact into which it entered in 1880 with the other outside companies, and will again be a competitor for New Hampshire business. If other prominent companies follow the example of the Ætna the advocates of the "valued policy law" will feel that they have scored a substantial victory.
