Carroll goes on by himself, however. He will take a small army with him from Zanzibar, having contracted for 200 natives, who will be armed with Snyder rifles that have already been shipped from Birmingham. Carroll's personal armament con sists of five Winchester repeating rifles, one 12-bore Holland, one 45calibre double barrelled Rigby, one 50-calibre double barrelled Grant, and half a dozen navy revolvers. Carroll leaves Naples for Zanzibar on November 14th, and expects to reach that place about December 1st and meet Mr. Chanler there. The two will then take Sir John Willoughby's route to Mambasaand through Masailand, where elephants, rhinoceros and buffalo

He estimates the cost of completing the canal on his plan at $50,000,000.

Bliffers -- What's wrong to-day, Bluffers? You look blue.

Bluffers-I'll never forgive myself. I kicked a caller out of my house last night.

"Well, these old codgers have no business to be coming around sparking young girls. I kicked out one of that sort last week.'

hints were dropped which seemed to show that he was indisposed to wait so long. Much will depend, of course, both on German domestic politics and on the European outlook in the spring, which people are again beginning to shake their heads doubtfully about; but there seems a distinct probability that he will cross the Atlantic before long and take a look at the great Republie and its people. One of the palatial German liners would doubtless be taken over and remodelled for his use, because his own vacht is not quite big enough for so long a cruise, and it still would be accompanied by an imposing escort of new ironelads."
