There is a cold wave missing somewhere. The signal still floats but the wave fights shy of this latitude. If anybody sees anything of a cold wave, or a cool wave, enquiring the way to Wilmington, they will please start it in the right direction for this locality.

The cold wave did not get here on time this morning but we think it may surely be looked for to-night. The atmosphere was very oppressive last night and a gentleman who rose at 5 o'clock this morning says that it was almost as warm then as it often is at that hour in midsummer.

Nearing the End.

from on the extension of the was beg. & Yarkin Valley R. R. April, 1888, till to Wilmington this year trains end of the line in ularily through from before April of the mountains. The "wing" reg-laid from this city to a "vast" to miles above and within 21 miles Fayetteville, the entire distance between the two cities being 83 miles. Four streams are crossed, Moore's Creek, Black River, South River and the Cape Fear at Fayetteville. The bridges and trestle work for all of these is now completed, except that at Fayetteville, which will be ready for the iron in a few days. When this bridge is ready the rails can be laid from both ends simultaneously and the result can easily be three miles per day. It is stated, confidently, that the entire work will be done and a train run through from Wilmington to Fayetteville on the first day of February.

We were one of a small party who yesterday accompanied Capt. J. W. Fry, the General Superintendent, in his private car on a trip over the road as far as Parkersburg, 50 miles from Wilmington and 33 from Fayetteville, which is considered the present terminus of the road. There were in the party also Capt. W. E. Kyle, the General Freight and Passenger Agent, Mr. R. W. Bidgood, the Auditor, Mr. J. C. Murchison, Master of Trains, Mr. Thomas C. James, Freight and Passenger Agent at Wilmington, Mr. Jos. H. McRee, Resident Engineer, Mr. William Woodroffe, contractor on improvements, and Capt. Dodson, conductor.

The road leaves Wilmington at the Point Peter terminus and passes up through the Mt. Misery sandhills, as dreary a section of country, by the way, as the sun generally shines upon. There is about twelve miles of this and then the character of the country rapidly changes, and some fine farming lands and heavily timbered districts are soon encountered. Moore's Creek is 18½ miles from Wilmington and the road crosses this historic stream about 300 yards East of the monument which stands on the revolutionary battle field. From thence to the crossing at Black River the road runs in a Northwesterly direction and with but very few curves. It leaves Long Creek to the right, about four miles, and Point Caswell to the left, about two miles. It does not pass near the rich farming section which borders the river but a few miles in the interior. It is a virgin country and but few settlements are visible but much of it is a rich farming country and will rapidly assume all the phases of living life. Already a number of have located on the line and there are three sawmills now in operation, even before the road has been opened to traffic. Very soon there will be a dozen or more of these mills, instead of three. Houses will be built rapidly when the lumber is convenient.

The road is well laid and much of it has already been ballasted. It is remarkably smooth and solid for a new road-bed. The bridge over Black River, with the long trestle approaching it, is a magnificent piece of work. The bridge itself is of iron and stands 45 feet above the water, thus obviating the possible necessity for a draw. The trestle is three fourths of a mile in length and is in some places 40 feet high. It approaches the bridge in a perfect and beautiful curve. It is very strongly built and ought to withstand the heaviest freshets.

The party did not go beyond Parkersburg, although the track is laid 12 miles beyond. Parkersburg is a new creation. A few months ago it was an old field and to-day it exhibits evidences of a healthy growth. It is located in Sampson county, midway between the Little Coharie on one side and South River on the other, and but two miles from either.

It is expected now that that the road will be open for traffic, as far as Parkersburg, on the 20th inst. Our statement yesterday as to the 13th was correct but late in the day Capt. Fry decided to make it the 20th.

The property owned by the company here is very valuable. They have 35 acres at Point Peter, and the freight warehouse there and the wharf in front is in the city limits. This warehouse is a large and commodious structure 211x100 feet and 17 feet of water is had at the wharf. Some little distance above is another warehouse, intended for the storage of guano, which is 50x142 feet. There are ten tracks leading into the warehouses, from the main the a half mile above, and just at has lost, of the sandhill, Capt. Fry supplied a yard which will be for making up a necessary tracks.

On the city side looking of trains, well known that the river it is the valuable wharf property owned Mulberry Street, South side, foot of they have recently erected a Here warehouse 100x132 feet. The oge and waiting rooms will be located in the brick building in front and from there a covered way is being created, under which passengers can proceed to the wharf and embark on the fine steamer Compton, and be taken under the sheltering wing of the genial Capt. Smith.

She Cured Him.
"And thus she cured him, and this way I will take upon me to wash your liver As clean as a sound sheep's heart, That there shall not be one spot on it." This is done by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which thoroughly cleanses the system of all impurities of the blood—washes out the liver clean—banishes pimples, boils, blotches, scrofula, tuberculosis, and all tendencies to Consumption. Dr. Pierce has prepared this remedy "As you like it," and placed it with all the drug stores, where the daughter of the Duke as well as the clown, or Orlando, may obtain it for their cure. It is warranted to benefit or cure, or money paid for it will be refunded.
