Says a Washington correspondent When Speaker Thomas B. Reed gets angly his feathers assume a most benignant aspect, and an al most seraphic smile illuminates his countenance. Those who know him best say that this is the time to stand from under. It is when he smiles good naturedly that he is most dangerous."

It is a sad and demoralizing feature of the influenza epidemic in Paristhat ladies and gentlemen very partial to alcohol escaped, while those leading temperate lives were the worst sufferers. Physicians noting this immediately advised the the result that 1500 persons were arrested in the streets within three days for drunkenness.

The civil service examiners have some queer experiences. An applicant for appointment on the police
