WILMINGTON, N. C.

TUESDAY, MARCH 11, 1890.

Entered at the Postoffice at Wilmington, N.C., as second-class matter.

In France during the year 1886, official figures show that the unmarried represented 92 per cent. of the entire population. Celibacy continues under the republic, as under the empire, the strongest factor in the progressive diminution of the population, traceable also to intense selfishness and penurionness. Schemes to tax the unmarried have been discussed by French legislators since the great revolution of 1789, with the resulting admission that such taxation would be impotent as a remedy or stimulus to marriage and offspring.

An interesting controversy is under way in the English papers as to whether ladies should ride man fashion, it having been hinted that several well known lady riders contemplated taking a bold step this season in that direction. Field, in a long editorial, condemns the scheme, declaring that the side saddle is a better seat for the woman than the cross saddle, safer and more comfortable while riding and less dangerous in case of accident. Among other arguments it advances is the one that the natural roundness of a woman's limb renders her unable to keep a secure seat on a cross saddle. Plump and round-limbed men, it asserts, can never be good riders.

There has just been an extraordinary and unprecedented funeral at Larchmont, on Long Island Sound—that of the Rev. Thomas Allen Horne, a retired clergyman, who for several years had lived on a small farm there. It was a photograph funeral, the instrument being regulated by a nephew of the deceased. First the hymn: "We shall meet on that beautiful shore," was heard in a voice easily recognized as that of the clergyman's wife, who died only a few months ago. The address that followed Mr. Horne had in life delivered to the photograph, which repeated it, and then came a prayer and the hymn: "There is a better land." In the latter the voices of Mr. Horne and his wife were blended. Even at the grave the services and the benediction issued from a photograph in the voice of him who had beautifully arranged it beforehand. The effect was weird, to say the least.

"The people of this city," says a New York correspondent, "will always attribute the loss of the Columbus Fair to 'Me Too' Platt and Matt Quay, and just now it looks very much as though Platt had succeeded in bringing about what he pretended to be working against—a sweeping Democratic victory in 1892 more or less due to the Fair. Two years is a short time in politics and the wires are already being laid for the campaign of '92. If Platt is not hoisted by his own petard then or sooner several miracles will have to be worked meanwhile. The men who have labored honestly and without partisan bias to get the Fair for New York very gracefully say they will do everything they can to make it a success in Chicago. That is all right, but it is not the temper of the people. The feeling is that an unpardonable slight has been put upon the metropolis; that her greatness and real importance have been belittled, and that there is now no hope of having an international exhibition worthy the country or the anniversary that is to be celebrated. Time will modify bitterness, but the treachery that caused it will not be forgiven."

Remarkable Rescue

Mrs. Michael Curtin, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taking ten bottles, found herself sound and well, now does her own housework and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at R. R. Bellamy's Wholesale and Retail Drug Store, large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

The rejected lover who had determined to hang himself finally compromised by hanging his head.—Florida Times-Union.

Consumption Surely Cured.

TO THE EDITOR—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their express and post office address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M.O., 181 Pearl St., New York.

"I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla as having passed above the grade of what are commonly called patent or proprietary medicines," said a well known physician recently. "It is fully entitled to be considered a standard medicine, and has won this position by its undoubted merit and by the many remarkable cures it has effected. For an alterative and tonic it has never been equalled."
