The Republicans have nominated B. M. Long, of Walker county, Ala., for Governor. The old gentleman and two of his sons are out-and-out Republicans, while two others are the staunchest Bourbon Democrats in the State, and are heart and soul in the fight to prevent the old gentleman from defeating Colonel Tom Jones in Walker county. John Long, one of B. M. Long's sons of the Republican persuasion, was elected chairman of the Republican County Executive Committee, and started out in the campaign to rally forces sufficiently in Walker, which is a close county, to give his father a majority for Governor. The Walker Democrats are sharp ones, and a bomb has been thrown into the Long campaign by the nomination of Tom Long, one of B. M. Long's Democratic sons, as candidate for the Legislature. The effect of the nomination of Tom Long has been felt, and it is evinced by the resignation of his brother, John Long, who was unwilling to lead the Republican forces against his brother Tom.

The Philadelphia Telegraph, in most respects a Republican paper, says of Henry Cabot Lodge: "He fathered the monster (the election bill), and he was admitted into the ranks of the practical politicians. He is a practical politician in full standing; he is the outspaw of the leaders in the matter of the Federal election bill; he is in the way of getting postmasters and tide-waiters appointed by solicitation and recommendations; but he is no longer an overseer of Harvard. The alumni who once showed their appreciation of his independence, his courage in fighting against odds for pure politics, have shown their appreciation of his desertion of all that made him worthy of the office by refusing to continue him an overseer. Men of high character have no further use for Mr. Lodge. They do not believe, with him, that honesty and fair dealing have no place in politics. He has made a change of principles and an exchange of associates. It is for him to determine whether his filthy bargain with Reed, McKinley, Davenport & Co. has or has not paid. Place and power are something; but so are integrity, honor and good fame, all which he has traded for a mess of political pottage."

The Ohio farmer, like his brethren all over the country, as the Baltimore Sun says, seems to have become thoroughly disgusted with the results of protection, and the Alliance is consequently said to be making rapid headway in that State. The facts revealed by the census just taken add to the general agricultural discontent, as they show that the increase in wealth as well as the gain in population in Ohio since 1880 has been in the cities almost exclusively. A dispatch from Cleveland to the Pittsburg Dispatch states that hardly a county that has extensive manufacturing interest shows any gain in its real estate values, while nearly all the farming counties show a very great decrease. For example, Wayne county, which is one of the best agricultural counties in Ohio, shows a decrease in its real estate valuation from $16,423,680 in 1880 to $14,082,180 in 1890, or 14 1/2 per cent. This decrease is at the rate of about $7 an acre in appraised value, but as the valuation in Ohio is always much below the selling price, ranging in agricultural counties from 40 to 70 per cent of the market value, it is believed that the decrease of $7 an acre in appraised value is equivalent to a decrease of $12 to $20 in market value. The farmers themselves, it is said, claim that the real shrinkage in market value has been in some cases even greater, and has, in every case, ranged from 15 to 30 per cent. The same decrease in the value of the agricultural lands is said to be shown in nearly every section of the State, and it is aptly suggested that the protectionists will have a hard time explaining to the farmer where his share of protection comes in in the face of such figures as these.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. One piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, Druggist, Fort Smith, Ark. Trial bottles of this wonderful Discovery free at Robt. E. Bellamy's wholesale and retail drug store.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, and often leads to self-destruction. Distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels, are some of the more common symptoms. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful, persistent attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet surely and efficiently. It tones the stomach and other organs, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, and by thus overcoming the local symptoms removes the sympathetic effects of the disease, banishes the headache, and refreshes the tired mind.
"I have been troubled with dyspepsia. I had but little appetite, and what I did eat distressed me, or did me little good. In an hour after eating I would experience a faintness, or tired, all-gone feeling, as though I had not eaten anything. My trouble, I think, was aggravated by my business, which is that of a painter, and from being more or less shut up in a room with fresh paint. Last spring I took Hood's Sarsaparilla—took three bottles. It did me an immense amount of good. It gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced."
