Something Sorely Needed.

One thing greatly needed here is a wood inspector. As it is, not everybody that buys a load of wood gets a quarter of a cord. We have seen some loads that would not make more than two-thirds of a quarter. This is a serious matter for people at this season. Wood is high, but it must be had at any price and when a man pays for a thing he ought to get it. There are but few families who can get along on less than a cord of wood each month the year round and when a householder gets but three-fourths of a load instead of an entire load, it amounts to a positive deficit of three cords in the year, representing to him at least $12.

There should be a wood inspector and he should be a city official, sitthat Dr. Primrose would go to Eu- uated so that he can act without rope for evaugelistic work. Every- fear or favor. He should be a salabody knows, of course, that we ried officer and a small tax on each (until 8 o'clock) so that we may have worked hard and have tried to be faithful and we don't know that we have anything special to regret or to take back. Regrets are fool ish and "take backs" are not in our line. We haven't made much money out of those 4,300 days of hard work. but as we don't owe a dollar to day that we can't pay on sight there is at least much to be thankful for. And we are thankful; thankful first to the Giver of all good for health and strength and purpose and ability, thankful to the kind friends who have stood by us so cleverly and whose patronage and appreciation we have enjoyed, and thankful that we are still in the land of the living to continue the labor allotted us to

The Cutting of Mastarior.

A brief dispetch was received here vesterday stating that Mr. R. R. Taylor, formerly of this city, but now of Norfolk, where he is a lumber inspector, had been severely out on Thursday night. In the afternoon Mr. McEachern, his brotherin-law, received a dispatch that Mr. Taylor was badly but not dangerously wounded. The Norfolk papers publish a long account of the affair but there seems to be much secrecy about it as Mr. Taylor cannot, or will not, say who cut him.

The Last of the Season.

The New York Theatre Co. will close their week's engagement here at the Opera House to-night. They played last night to a large house, the best of the season, and the entertainment was very good indeed. We have known worse shows here that charged a dollar for admission.

They have not been so well supported as their merits justified. Perhaps it was unfortunate that they opened on Monday night with a love-sick play. Had they given the "Galley Slave," or "A Mountain Pink" on that occasion, we think they would have had crowded houses every night this week.
