Senator Quay in the Senate wanted to quote the fourth commandment - in a resolution offered but referred to the fifth. He got within one of it and that was doing pretty well for a Republican politician.

The Chinaman is coming to the front, and is catching on to the dynamite bomb. Recently the establishment of a shop-keeper in a Chinese town was blown to flinders because they didn't like his style.

About the safest place to be in England, to escape accidents, is on the express trains on the main railways. Last year there were only five passengers killed on all the railways in England, Ireland and Scotland, while on the streets of London there were 147 persons killed and 5,784 injured by accidents.

Ex-Chairman Clarkson's paper, the Iowa State Register, says "This ought to be a clean, truthful campaign. Let no liar lie on the stump." Deprived of this prerogative, what is the Republican campaign orator going to do? Does Clarkson really wish to defeat Harrison by urging the stumpers to tell the truth.'

The determination of Mr. Stevenson to go to New York to meet the Committee which is to inform him of his nomination shows him to be of an accommodating disposition. By doing so he has saved a number of gentlemen the trouble and expense of traveling all the way out to Bloomington, Ill., to impart that informa-

His parents were under this impression, and Jesse enjoyed the joke until the other day when he informed them that they were mistaken and that Jesse was alive and kickin'.

It is said that the appointment of the negro Crum as postmaster at Charleston, was in pursuance of a bargain entered into before the Minneapolis convention, by virtue of which Mr. Harrison was to get the vote of South Carolina and Crum the postoffice appointment. It would be a long time before Mr. Harrison would appoint a negro P. M. in a Northern city.

FOUL PLAY SUSPECTED. The Killing of Capt. Walter Chamberlain

the A. C. L. Conductor. A special to the Richmond, Va., Dispatch, from Petersburg, Va., in regard to the death of Capt. Walter Chamberlain, the A. C. L. conductor (an account of which was given in yesterday's STAR) says the officers of the road in that city have some doubts regarding the theory of accident. The special says:

"As soon as the train arrived at the depot in this city the accident was re-ported to Superintendent Sully, who, with other officers of the road, promptly went to the scene in a special train and made a thorough investigation as to the cause of the accident. The place of the accident was at a siding known as Acree. The siding is about half a mile in length, and the two tracks are eight feet apart. About midway of the distance and four feet from either track is a whistling-post, and it was thought that Captain Chamberlain, while leaning from the platform, had been struck by this post, but great doubt hangs upon this point, and their theory is that he was knocked or shoved from the platform by some one, as it is known that he had great difficulty in preventing some of the negro passengers from riding on the platform and had several times ordered them into the cars.

"One in particular, whose name could not be learned, was heard to make threats against the Captain, and this same negro was the first one to report the accident. He was also seen upon the same platform with the Captain at the time and place of the accident. This theory is the one generally belived, and is strengthened by the statement of the only witness of the fatal fall—an old negro who was standing on the side track watching the passing train.

"He says he saw a man plunged forward as though violently pushed from the platform. He went to the body and found it to be that of Captain Chamberlain, already dead. The body lay fully thirty yards from the post, and the latter bore no evidence whatever of any collision. At the time of his death Captain Chamberlain was leaning forward watching a bot box which had given him trouble. The general belief here is that his death was an act of malice."

Death of Mr. T. F. MoGill.

Mr. T. F. McGill, a well known salesman of this city, died yesterday afternoon at his residence on Dock street, after an illness of two weeks with typhoid fever. He was about thirtyfour years of age, and leaves a wife and two small children, who have the sympathy of many friends in this sad bereavement, Mr. McGill was from Elizabethtown, Bladen county, but had made Wilmington his home for several years past. At the time he was taken sick he was clerking for Mr. M. Rosenman. His remains will be taken for interment to Favetteville, N. C., where his wife's family resides.

Industrial Manufacturing Company. The annual meeting of stockholders of the Industrial Manufacturing Company, called for last Thursday night at the City Hall, was adjourned until Thursday, the 28th inst., without transacting any business of public interest. Mr. Brinson. the manager, says that the company has all that it can do now; that it is difficult to keep up with the orders. They are working on butter plates and are 6,000,000 behind. They will soon catch up, however, and hope soon to be even with all orders.

At the Encampment Grounds. Quartermaster General Harrell of the N. C. S. G., says that in a few days every thing at the encampment grounds will be in readiness for the First and Second regiments of the Guard, who go in camp on the 21st inst. The water is very good and enough pumps have been put down to furnish more than will be needed, and enough tents have been put up to keep the boys from being crowded. New flooring has been put down in each tent. The cooking sheds and dining sheds are better than ever before.

ceident to the Steamer Crostan. The Clyde steamer Croatan, Capt. Hansen, arrived here yesterday in disabled condition, having broken her engine-shaft last Monday morning about twenty miles south of Cape Lookout. She was brought into Southport by the Clyde steamer Iroquois, which fell in with the Croatan Tuesday. The Iroquois was bound to New York, from Savannah, Ga. The damage to the Croatan's machinery will be speedily repaired, and will not interfere with her regular

The State Supreme Court.

The Raleigh News and Observer says: "Our Supreme Court, to avoid the necessity of counsel travelling on Sunday to attend that Court, have adopted a rule that hereafter no arguments will be heard on Mondays. To make up for the time so lost the number of hours devoted to hearing arguments on other days is increased. This will also have the advantage of requiring counsel to remain a shorter time in Raleigh before their cases are reached."

Funeral of Mr. Deumelandt. The funeral of Mr. Gus Denmelandt took place yesterday from St. Paul's Lutheran Church. The pall bearers were Messrs. C. Schulken. W. H. Gerken. H. Hutaff and Wm. Genaust on behalf of Germania Lodge No. 4, K. of P., and Messrs, T. O. Bunting, S. G. Hall, S. P. Wright and I. L. Greenewald, from the Iron Hall.

Cotton Region Bulletin.

The rain-fall was not so great in the cotton region yesterday as it has been for several days past; but a liberal supply was accorded to Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi. There was no rain in the Texas district, and only a "trace" reported from the New Orleans and Memphis districts. Goldsboro, Weldon and Newbern were the only stations in North Carolina at which rain was reported.
