

LET EVERY SUBSCRIBER TO THE WEEKLY STAR READ THIS.

Under the new law which goes into effect January 1st, 1876, we are required to pre-pay postage on the WEEKLY STAR.

Under this new arrangement we shall enforce the cash system more rigidly than ever before.

Under this new arrangement we shall enforce the cash system more rigidly than ever before.

Under this new arrangement we shall enforce the cash system more rigidly than ever before.

Under this new arrangement we shall enforce the cash system more rigidly than ever before.

Under this new arrangement we shall enforce the cash system more rigidly than ever before.

Under this new arrangement we shall enforce the cash system more rigidly than ever before.

Under this new arrangement we shall enforce the cash system more rigidly than ever before.

Under this new arrangement we shall enforce the cash system more rigidly than ever before.

Meeting of the State Democratic-Conservative Executive Committee.

At a meeting of the Central Executive Committee of the Democratic-Conservative party this day held, it was resolved that a meeting of the State Executive Committee be called to assemble in the city of Raleigh, on Wednesday, the 10th day of March, 1876.

Each member of the Committee is earnestly requested to be present.

W. R. COX, Cashier.

J. J. LYONS, Sec'y.

RANGERS AND GLORY OF EXPLORATION.

Livingstone died. Stanley and Cameron are now in the fearful African wilds, literally holding their lives in their hands.

But the sacrifice is always made with a cheerful alacrity worthy of Christian martyrs or Athenian heroes.

We take pleasure in announcing that we have employed Mr. GEORGE W. HARDWICK as general assistant in the editorial and business management of this MORNING STAR.

As is most and right the subject of the currency is not permitted to disturb the harmony of the Democratic party in Congress.

The schooner ashore near New Inlet, which turns out to be the Yantic, Captain Jester, bound from Norfolk to the port which was made in our last issue.

The schooner ashore near New Inlet, which turns out to be the Yantic, Captain Jester, bound from Norfolk to the port which was made in our last issue.

The schooner ashore near New Inlet, which turns out to be the Yantic, Captain Jester, bound from Norfolk to the port which was made in our last issue.

The schooner ashore near New Inlet, which turns out to be the Yantic, Captain Jester, bound from Norfolk to the port which was made in our last issue.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says Mr. Blaine gets half a bushel of letters per day, from all parts of the country, praising him for his recent performance in the House.

Referring to this statement the Lynchburg Virginian says that soon after the end of the late war, his editor happened to be in New York on business, and had several interviews with the late Horace Greeley.

The great editor was even then in favor of a liberal policy towards the South, as the best that could be adopted to heal the wounds made by the then recent strife.

Mr. T. B. Kingsbury, an able and graceful writer whom we have many times commended in these columns, is preparing a series of articles on seven eminent living North Carolinians for the Oxford Northlight.

The schooner ashore near New Inlet, which turns out to be the Yantic, Captain Jester, bound from Norfolk to the port which was made in our last issue.

The schooner ashore near New Inlet, which turns out to be the Yantic, Captain Jester, bound from Norfolk to the port which was made in our last issue.

The schooner ashore near New Inlet, which turns out to be the Yantic, Captain Jester, bound from Norfolk to the port which was made in our last issue.

The schooner ashore near New Inlet, which turns out to be the Yantic, Captain Jester, bound from Norfolk to the port which was made in our last issue.

The schooner ashore near New Inlet, which turns out to be the Yantic, Captain Jester, bound from Norfolk to the port which was made in our last issue.

The schooner ashore near New Inlet, which turns out to be the Yantic, Captain Jester, bound from Norfolk to the port which was made in our last issue.

The first day of the month is usually what may be termed a "gala day" with the poor.

The first day of the month is usually what may be termed a "gala day" with the poor.

The first day of the month is usually what may be termed a "gala day" with the poor.

The first day of the month is usually what may be termed a "gala day" with the poor.

The first day of the month is usually what may be termed a "gala day" with the poor.

The first day of the month is usually what may be termed a "gala day" with the poor.

The first day of the month is usually what may be termed a "gala day" with the poor.

The first day of the month is usually what may be termed a "gala day" with the poor.

The first day of the month is usually what may be termed a "gala day" with the poor.

The first day of the month is usually what may be termed a "gala day" with the poor.

Lester from General Longstreet soon after Gettysburg.

We published from Scribner on Saturday a letter from Gen. Lee to Gen. Davis, written on the 8th of August, 1863, in which the Confederate chief assumed all the responsibility for the disaster to his army at Gettysburg, and asked to be relieved from the command.

General Longstreet was opposed to the policy of attacking the Union army at the Gettysburg, and so expressed himself to General Lee, but was overruled by his commanding officer, and did the best he could under the mistake into success.

CAMP, CULPEPER COURTHOUSE, July 24, 1863. My Dear Uncle, As to our late battle I cannot say much.

It seems that the course of systematic thievery which has been so rampant for some time past is not confined to the city at large, but is extending its ravages into the country neighborhoods and settlements.

It seems that the course of systematic thievery which has been so rampant for some time past is not confined to the city at large, but is extending its ravages into the country neighborhoods and settlements.

It seems that the course of systematic thievery which has been so rampant for some time past is not confined to the city at large, but is extending its ravages into the country neighborhoods and settlements.

It seems that the course of systematic thievery which has been so rampant for some time past is not confined to the city at large, but is extending its ravages into the country neighborhoods and settlements.

It seems that the course of systematic thievery which has been so rampant for some time past is not confined to the city at large, but is extending its ravages into the country neighborhoods and settlements.

It seems that the course of systematic thievery which has been so rampant for some time past is not confined to the city at large, but is extending its ravages into the country neighborhoods and settlements.

There is nothing important from the examination of G. W. Swenson, accused of the homicide of Capt. A. G. Moore, at Haw River, N. C.

There is nothing important from the examination of G. W. Swenson, accused of the homicide of Capt. A. G. Moore, at Haw River, N. C.

There is nothing important from the examination of G. W. Swenson, accused of the homicide of Capt. A. G. Moore, at Haw River, N. C.

There is nothing important from the examination of G. W. Swenson, accused of the homicide of Capt. A. G. Moore, at Haw River, N. C.

There is nothing important from the examination of G. W. Swenson, accused of the homicide of Capt. A. G. Moore, at Haw River, N. C.

There is nothing important from the examination of G. W. Swenson, accused of the homicide of Capt. A. G. Moore, at Haw River, N. C.

There is nothing important from the examination of G. W. Swenson, accused of the homicide of Capt. A. G. Moore, at Haw River, N. C.

There is nothing important from the examination of G. W. Swenson, accused of the homicide of Capt. A. G. Moore, at Haw River, N. C.

There is nothing important from the examination of G. W. Swenson, accused of the homicide of Capt. A. G. Moore, at Haw River, N. C.

There is nothing important from the examination of G. W. Swenson, accused of the homicide of Capt. A. G. Moore, at Haw River, N. C.

Thursday night a man and woman came to the Gaston House, the man registering as J. W. Moore, and wife, and engaged a room until "train time," after which they took the cars for Goldsboro.

Thursday night a man and woman came to the Gaston House, the man registering as J. W. Moore, and wife, and engaged a room until "train time," after which they took the cars for Goldsboro.

Thursday night a man and woman came to the Gaston House, the man registering as J. W. Moore, and wife, and engaged a room until "train time," after which they took the cars for Goldsboro.

Thursday night a man and woman came to the Gaston House, the man registering as J. W. Moore, and wife, and engaged a room until "train time," after which they took the cars for Goldsboro.

Thursday night a man and woman came to the Gaston House, the man registering as J. W. Moore, and wife, and engaged a room until "train time," after which they took the cars for Goldsboro.

Thursday night a man and woman came to the Gaston House, the man registering as J. W. Moore, and wife, and engaged a room until "train time," after which they took the cars for Goldsboro.

Thursday night a man and woman came to the Gaston House, the man registering as J. W. Moore, and wife, and engaged a room until "train time," after which they took the cars for Goldsboro.

Thursday night a man and woman came to the Gaston House, the man registering as J. W. Moore, and wife, and engaged a room until "train time," after which they took the cars for Goldsboro.

Thursday night a man and woman came to the Gaston House, the man registering as J. W. Moore, and wife, and engaged a room until "train time," after which they took the cars for Goldsboro.

Thursday night a man and woman came to the Gaston House, the man registering as J. W. Moore, and wife, and engaged a room until "train time," after which they took the cars for Goldsboro.