The Charleston schools have just had a public exhibition. At one of the schools the following poem was recited by a bright little fellow named Sheppard Pearlstein, that fairly brought down the house, and was repeated by request:

WADE HAMPTON. No blush of shame upon his name-Deny it he who can! For friend and foe have one acclaim "O, what a knightly man!" With him the great Althurian days Have come again to earth;

And country ways and country praise Renew their golden birth. The gorgeous splendor of the past Which fabled legend tells, Through him is brought before our gaze In living miracles. No booted knight, in arms bedight, E're wore a lordlier name, And glory never hallowed round A grander, purer name.

He battled for his own, but when Fate hurled his standard down, She still, lest fraud might blight the world Bequeathed him his renown, The hero! whose untarnished sword Gleams brightest in defeat; Who turns in scorn from fortune's horde, To kneel at Honor's feet,

Hats off! although no victor he, The laurels he has won Are greener than the proudest bays The proudest brow upon Hats off! a hero passes by! The rose of chivalry, Who shows the world how grand a thing A conquered man can be.

How He Worked the Market. [Reidsville Times.]

We have tobacconists in Reidsville They are up to snuff. One was in Greenville, Tenn. some time since, and orders were dull, and he found himself with but one bare ten dollar greenback bill in his pocket. It was a fresh green pretty thing and was all he had. The next day was Sunday, and he enquired for the principal church and went to the Presbyterian, walked solemnly down the aisle and took a seat in the amen corner. The hat passed around. He deliberately took out the ten dollar bill and unfolded it and dropped it in the hat. A young man sitting by him nudged him. "Didn't you make a mistake?" he whispered.

"I don't think I did," replied our tobacconist. "That was a ten dollar bill you put

"That was what I took it for." "You're pretty liberal."

"Dunno, no use giving to a church unless you give something." The whispering ceased and both settled down to join in the singing of the hymn. The next day business opened in Greenville for that tobacconist. He was overrun with orders. The young man he sat by happened to be the son of a prominent tobacconist who was a Presbyterian elder, and it is well known that the Presbyterians always rally around the man who is liberal with his money to God. Reidsville has had a good run on the Greenville market ever since. The old elders shut their eyes and go to sleep on a quid of Reidsville to-

THE MISSISSIPPI ROUTE.

The Davenpert (Iowa) Gazette of he 6th instant says:

"Yesterday the grain firm of Boat wright, Fernald & Co., in this city, sold 5,000 bushels of wheat to an agent of J. W. Adams & Co., of St. Louis, for direct shipment from this port to Liverpool. This quantity does not go alone, for another 5,000 bushels was picked up from among several other grain-dealers. The 10,000 bushels is to be loaded on a barge, towed to St. Louis, where it will be put with a tow of five barges, and so be taken to New Orleans and transferred to an ocean vessel bound for Liverpool. What is the freight rate from Davenport to Liverpool? Why, just forty cents per hundred pounds (or twenty-four cents a bushel)—the same rate of grain by railroad from Davenport to New York city! Though now and then wheat will be taken from this city to New York by rail for thirtyfive cents per hundred pounds. But think of wheat conveyed from this city to Liverpool for only five cents more than the rail rate from New York harbor.

The Income Tax.

[Washington Star.] The plan for the income tax that the Ways and Means Committee will submit will be to assess a tax of two per cent. on all incomes exceeding $2,000 and not exceeding $5,000 three per cent. on all incomes that are more than $5,000 and less than $10,000; and four per cent. on all sums exceeding that sum. The exemptions proposed are military and naval pensions, and $2,000 of ordinary income, $2,000 for each five persons of every religious or social community holding all their property and the income therefrom jointly and in common; national, state and municipal taxes paid within the year; all losses actually sustained during the year, arising from fires, floods, or shipwrecks, or incurred in trade or debts ascertained to be worthless (but not estimated depreciation of value); sums paid for interest and labor, to cultivate land or to conduct any other business from which income is derived, rent of residences, amount paid for ordinary repairs of residences, and salaries of President of the United States, and of all officers, executive, judicial, and legislative, of every State of the Union. The first assessment will be for the year ending December 31, 1878.

"MR. IRA B. WHEELER: My Dear Sir-A few weeks since, after long months of mental anguish, I told, as you know, a few friends whom I had bitterly deceived, that the charge brought by my husband, of adultery between myself and the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, was true, and that the lie I have lived so well the last four years had become intolerable to me. That statement I now solemnly reaffirm, and leave the truth with God, to whom also I commit myself, my children, and all who must suffer. I know full well the explanations that will be sought by many for this acknowledgment of a desire to return to my husband-insanity, malice, everything save the true and only one, my quickened conscience and the sense of what is due to the cause of truth and justice. During all the complications of these years you have been my confidential friend, and, therefore, I address this letter to you, authorizing and requesting

TRUE INWARDNESS OF THINGS.

Senator Conkling on the Great Fraud -The Facts Bound to Come Out- WILMINGTON MARKET. There was Some Kind of a Bargain-Hayes' Administration fleeking With Corruption-The People do not Know him-The Point of Peril not in the South but in the West-Grant at his Witte End, &c.

NEW YORK, April 17. The World publishes a six column interview with Senator Conkling. The following is an extract: "Well, Senator, I would like to know whether you think the true history of the Louisiana business will ever be told in Congress, and if so, how soon."

Mr. Conkling paused a moment, and then began very slowly, warming up with his subject as he proceeded: "Yes, I think it will. I cannot see how it can be kept down. There are -too many avenues of information opened to day to make con-cealment of avail much longer. No reasonable man can doubt that there was some kind of a bargain between the friends of Nicholls and that man Hayes, and that Stanley Matthews and Sherman were privy to it. A great many people have become exceedingly curious to know precisely what the bargain was, and exactly how it was carried out, and Yankee ingenuity will be sure to find some means of getting at it."

"What will be the result?"

"The result will be that the whole country will be appalled by the dishonor of this administration. I tell you, sir, that never in the history of this nation has there been in the entire four years of an administration so much corruption, bartering of offices, rewarding of political families traffic with political leaders, and bargain and sale of the electoral franchise, as during this past year. People will not believe it until the proof is shown them, but the proof will be forthcoming. People say that Hayes is a good man, and means well, but they do ot know what they are talking about, When all the facts are known about this administration no one will attempt to excuse the man on account of his supposed goodness, nor yet because he is weak and ignorant. The point of peril was not in the South, but in the West. It was understood that the Republican leaders had determined to have Vice President Ferry count the votes at all hazards and declare Hayes elected, and the West had determined on resistance. It was to be no child's play in that section. General Steedman had 70,000 men enrolled and assigned to regiments for the purpose of seating Tilden in office in case Vice President Ferry carried out his programme. You may look astonished, but these things are true. President Grant was at his wit's end. He confessed to me that he did not know what to do.'

We call attention to the following concerning the NATIONAL SURGICAL INSTITUTE, Atlanta. Ga., taken from the "Atlanta Constitution," of January 20th, 1878:

"The National Surgical Institute is the largest and most prosperous medical institution in the world. It has no quack methods; it employs no secret nostrums; it makes no empiric claims. It simply holds that it is enabled through its aggregation of machinery, braces, instruments, gymnasium, &c., to give better treatment of chronic diseases than can be anywhere else."
