Is the gate forever shut?

Just a young man in the rain
Saying (the last time) "good night!"
Should he never come again
Would the world be ended, quite?
Where would all these rose-buds go?— All these robins? Do you know? But-he will not come? Why, then, Is no other within call? There are men, and men, and men-And these men are brothers all!

Each sweet fault of his you'll find Just as sweet in all his kind. None with eyes like his! Oh-oh! In diviner eyes did I Look, perhaps, an hour ago. Whose? Indeed (you must not cry) Those I thought of-are not free

To laugh down your tears, you see. Voice like his was never heard? No-but better ones, I vow; Did you ever hear a bird?-Listen, one is singing now!
And his gloves? His gloves? Ah, wel There are gloves like his to sell.

At the play to-night you'll see, In mock-velvet cloaks, mock Earls, With mocked jewelled swords that he Were a clown by! Now, those curls Are the barber's pride, I say; Do not cry for them, I pray.

If no one should love you? Why, You can love some other still; Philip Sidney, Shakspeare, ay, Good King Arthur, if you will Raphael-he was handsome, too. Love them, one and all. I do.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

The Potter Investigation-The Plen Garfield Comes to the Pront-Who [Special to Richmond Dispatch, 8th 1

WASHINGTON, June 8. Mr. McKenny, clerk of the Electoral Commission, was before the Committee to-day, and was questioned in regard to the forged certificates. The important fact elicited was that Gen. Garfield called to see him five weeks of the electoral returns from Louisiana. During the examination he held one copy and Garfield another, and the Republican leader of the House the importance of which he would understand in a few days. This disclosure created no little sensation, for the House of the Potter resolution.

LEVISEE SWORE HE VOTED FOR PRES-SAME TIME.

At the close of his testimony Levisee swore that as an elector he voted, same time, and the Constitution repolitical circles, and proves that not | was discussed. only was there fraud and forgery in order to get the vote of Louisiana for Hayes, but that after it was stolen the Constitution and the law were violated in casting it.

MATTHEWS DECLINES TO APPEAR-BUTLER'S SPEECH. He said he wanted to get at the bottom facts—the country wanted to amount to a great deal more than know them. He had no friends to people think they will. He can him-reward and no enemy to punish in self swear that Anderson showed him reward and no enemy to punish in this matter. He said the House of Representatives not only has the power to impeach high officers for high crimes, but it sits as a grand inquest of the nation to bring high criminals to trial. To do this, requires the highest power to obtain denied. He thinks Sherman's intitestimony. Before the lowest court having jurisdiction in the lowest misdemeanor case every man summoned must appear under pain of contempt, letter. and be subject to punishment. How much more, then, before a body legal in form and judicial in action must every man, high or low, be bound to appear when requested, and give evidence. Whether the deliberations of this committee will result in the impeachment of any official depends on the testimony, and if it can't get the testimony how can it do its duty? If one man is permitted to stay away others may, and injustice may thereby be done the United States and those implicated in the matter under investigation. It is no excuse to say I don't know anything, and therefore need not come. With his views of the duty of a citizen and the powers of the committee, he offered a resolution that a subpæna be issued summoning Mr. Matthews to appear before the Committee. If he is not made to come, never again, said Mr. Butler, would he vote to imprison any misguided poor fellow who failed to obey the summons of a House committee. He cited as precedents the the Bishop's guilt, announced that fact that Messrs. Ferry and Colfax they would bring the Bishop to trial both appeared before a House committee, and that in thirty years he had never known a Senator to refuse an invitation as Mr. Matthews had done. If Mr. Matthews threw down the glove he took it up quickly, and degree. From Washington. [Special to Richmond Dispatch.] REPUBLICAN CHAGRIN OVER THE POT-TER DEVELOPMENTS.

10 VO WASHINGTON, June 10.0 The Republicans make no effort to conceal their chagrin at the developments of the Potter investigation. and admit that they are bound to lose all in the end, whatever may hereafter happen. They say, until the adoption of the Potter resolution by the House, they had the Democrats on the run, and now they themselves are on the defensive, and will be during the coming canvass. The more candid among them frankly concede that the next House will be Democratic, not because of the result in Oregon or the admitted gains for the Democracy in Ohio and Missouri, but because of this unfortunate investigation. When asked about Sherman they say but little, and seem to hope that his resources are so boundless that he will manage one way or another to get out of his troubles, but they pronounce Matthews a baby in politics, who needs a nurse. Each fresh step he takes, they admit, but takes him more hopeleasly into the mire. And yet he is an able lawyer and a shrewd debater, and in morals as high above Sherman as Morrissey was above the common bunko swindler.

DECLINE TO SERVE ON THE MATTHEWS COMMITTER

There was no little sensation to-day when Messrs, Jones, of Florida, and Whyte, of Maryland, and Davis, of Illinois, announced to the Senate their unwillingness to serve on the Matthews investigating committee, and this was increased when it was further stated that Mr. Edmunds, of Vermont, would also decline. The Senate refused to excuse them. Their reason for not wanting to serve was that they desire to get home. Stanley's troubles do not come singly.

Validity of the Count.

That the electoral votes had never informed him of the forgeries, and yet been properly counted, and he told him it was an important matter hoped the investigation now in progress would result in developing such a sentiment as would compel this Congress to count the votes. Such it showed why Garfield so persistently expressions as these have caused and bitterly opposed the adoption by much comment to-day, but only because the conclusion is jumped at, and most probably without foundation, DENT AND VICE PRESIDENT AT THE | that they represent the views of Mr. Tilden. WASHINGTON, June 11.
SENATE.—The President pro tem laid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of War, enclosing a letter from the Commanding General of the De-partment of Texas, calling attention to the difficulty in obtaining information to follow orders, and recommending the erection of a line of telegraph along the Neuces river. The Secretary approves the recommendation of Gen. Ord, and asks that an appropriation be made for that purpose. Ordered to be printed and lie on the table. Mr. Conkling, of New York, from the committee on Commerce, reported, without amendment, House; bill to organize the Life-

Saving Service. Placed on the calendar. He also reported from the same committee, without amendent, House bill to aid vessels wrecked or disabled in waters contiguous to the United States and the Do-minion of Canada.
