MRS. JENKS SOARS INTO SONG. AIR-Capt. Jenks of the Horse Marines.

I'm mistress Jenks of the "Anderson Greens,' I've come to be witness from New Orleans; All Butler's knaves I'll trump with queens As I bother the Potter army. I'll teach my sex how to swear, how to swear, how to swear, To bother the Potter army.

SPOKEN. Yes, the committee of lawyers, half-calf, you know, out of the library, have been kind enough to cross-examine me. I always divide fairly—so I took the exami-ning, and left them to bear the cross. Anderson, did you say? Yes-My Jo John; I've heard of him. Weber too? Certainly -her first name was Lisa-she taught me this captivating walk-thus. One in the land of shadows-the other-in the land of shad! And a night editor, too! But I know the time of day!-

CHORUS. I'm Captain now of the "Anderson Greens," Pray serve me up the "Ways and Means," For I've finished the Potter army!

The visiting statesmen wanted to run; But I bade them stay and enjoy the fun, While I euchred Weber and Anderson. As I uchre the Potter army; When I left home, mamma, she cried mamma, she cried, mamma, she

"Beware of that Potter army?"

SPOKEN. I said, "Now, my dear mamma, pray do you just look at my figure and fan! Do I look like a person who does not know how to pose and say 'forsooth' and 'anon' and 'prythee,' and keep even Butler's eyes straight on me and play him like a Cascepedia salmon with a silver doctor? Oh, yes, mamma, I'll be a dutiful witness, and yet-Mr Butler's, yours truly!

CHORUS. And teach all my sex how to swear, how to swear, how to swear, When subpænaed by Potter's army!

The very first day I sate in the chair Did Shel-la-bar-ger my text prepare; I picked up all the points while dressing my

For teasing the Potter army; The lawyers all did shout and pout, Tried to take me in and catch me out. But I knew too well what I was about, To be tripped by Potter's army!

I said, Gentlemen, you put me out in my evidence? Not much! A very good joke that, acushla machree, which is Louisiana Conkling, of course. Any fool can see ing, my esteemed General Butler, you will ever find me yours truly.

In vain you shout to put me out, This poor little woman knows what she's Much more than the Potter army!

[Platte City Landmark.]

One day last week Miss Mar-Fleshman, daughter of Perry Fleshman, living two miles east of Platte City, had a thrilling adventure with a rattlesnake. She was riding on horseback alone through the woods, when she dropped her glove. She dismounted to secure it, and as she was stooping to pick it up she discovered a large rattlesnake, at least six teet long, coiled and in the act of striking. It did strike, but failed to reach her, and fell at her feet. She sprang back with a cry of horror, but almost instantly the snake recoiled and struck again. This time the venomous fangs stuck in the front part of her bonnet, and the hold tearing out with the force of the blow and the weight of the snake, it fell on the ground at her feet. Instantly it reared up in front of her, its venomous breath right in her face. Scarcely knowing what she did, she seized the snake just below the head with both hands, and, holding it for a moment, with desperate energy she slung it from her and fled.

No Wonder it Happened. Miss Grundy's Washington Cor. New York Graphic.]

Mrs. Godfrey, whose name has been made most unpleasantly conspicuous of late in connection with an accident which may or may not have occurred, is a young and remarkably beautiful widow whose husband died in March, 1877. She is the sister of Mrs. Benjamin Willis, of New York, and greatly resembles her in form, feature and coloring. Both have plump, compact, well-shaped figures and perfect complexions, whose delicate sea-shell tints evidently owe their exquisite coloring only to youth and good health. With the skins of blondes the sisters have nut brown hair and large, wide-open, innocent-looking gray eyes, fringed with long, dark lashes. The shape and poise of the heads of these ladies add much to their beauty, and they invariably arrange their hair in such style as to show the form of the head."

Her father's name was Murdock, and he was drowned while in the Confederate army, near New Orleans. Her mother was a doctress, and practiced quite extensively among the poorer class of politicians.

MR. DILLARD'S ACCEPTANCE.

[Correspondence.] FLEMINGTON, N. C., June 20th, 1878. Hon. Jno. H. Dillard, Greensboro,

DEAR SIR-At the State Democratic Convention, held at Raleigh on the 13th inst., you were unanimously nominated for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North

By resolution of the Convention I was directed to inform you of your nomination, and to request you to accept the same.

I am, yours truly, H. B. SHORT, Pres't State Dem. Convention.

Democratic Convention: Dear Sir-I have the honor to acknowledge your letter of the 20th of this month, wherein you notify me of my nomination for Associate Justice of the Supreme Court and request my acceptance of the same.

I do not feel at liberty to decline a nomination made by my brethren and others in the late State Convention, and I therefore accept the nomination and agree to abide the decision of the people at the ballot box.

Yours truly, John H. Dillard. Samson and John Pope. [Baltimore Gazette.]

Apropos of the controversy be-

ween General Pope and Fitz John Porter, it may be well to revive a little story about the former which was current during the war. It is related that one of the soldiers of Halleck's army was lying ill in the hospital when a chaplain came in to shed consolation. It was just after Pope had written that famous, lying dispatch about the way in which his division captured and slew the retreating rebel army which left Corinth between two days in June, '62. The chaplain sat down beside the sick soldier, and picking up a copy of the Scriptures chanced to light upon that marvelous account of the way in which Samson destroyed the Phillistines with the jaw bone of an ass. He read it for the edification of the sick soldier. When he had French for Not if I know it! I understand | finished the poor fellow turned over my letters perfectly well, thank you. # CAPTAIN BERNARD'S GALLANT

A Desperate Hand-to-Hand Fight-List of Killed and wounded.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28. In the recent attack of Major Bernard's command upon the hostile Indians, the latter are reported to have had in the fight 1,500 warriors. The Indians were not aware of the presence of the soldiers, and their stock was unguarded. Major Bernard, addressing his troops, informed them that they were "close to the enemy and could whip them." He charged his men not to retreat; if they did, he said, they would be shot, and they might as well die by the savages as by our own men. The soldiers went silently forward and attacked the savage force, which was three times greater than ours. When within 500 yards of the enemy the order was given to charge. Capt. McGregor's company was near at hand, and they charged also. The savages fled in dismay. Large numbers of them were killed. A single-handed conflict took place between Bearskin, a Bannak chief, and Sergeant Richmond, of Captain McGregor's company. The sergeant finally killed his man. Between one and two o'clock of the morning of the 24th instant the hostiles were compelled to retreat. They were pursued by Major Bernard ten miles. Generals Howard, Downey and Miles subsequently arrived on the ground; also Captain Benner and his company.

forty-one years, and leaves a wife and two children. Sykes is a penitentiary convict, and was but recently discharged from the State prison. Both had been drinking-Green very freely. It was some reference made by Green to Sykes' imprisonment in the penitentiary which caused the difficulty, which was twice renewed, and Green was finally killed. Sykes fled, but was pursued and caught and taken to jail.

Anchor Line Steamer and an Elevator Destroyed by Fire-Narrow Recape of Crow and Passengers-one Man Burned to Death-Loss over $200,-Мемента, July 2.

The Anchor Line steamer Capital City while lying at the elevator, was totally destroyed by fire this morning. The elevator took fire and was totally consumed. About 2 o'clock a fire broke out near the boiler head of the steamer Capital City, and in a few moments the whole boat was wrapped in flames, the officers, crew and passengers barely escaping with their lives, and leaving their clothing and everything

A strong westerly gale was blowing at the time, and before the fire engines and tugs could reach the scene the elevator was on fire, and the gale drove the flames through the building, where were stored a thousand barrels of oil, bagging and other inflammable articles, which caused such a terrific heat that it speedily drove back the firemen, but not until a man named Conner had been dangerously burned.

As soon as the fire was discovered Capt. Crane ordered the boat to be cut loose, in order to save the elevator, but the gale held the boat hard against it until it was pulled off by a tug, when it floated down a hundred yards among some trading and wood boats, and burnest to the boiler deck, after setting those boats on

The elevator was soon burned to the water's edge, and with a large amount of valuable merchandise is a total loss. There are numerous conjectures as to the number of lives lost, but up to this writing only one body has been found, which lies on the deck of the Capital City, only the trunk being left, and this is not identified.

One passenger was severely burned in trying to save his baggage. Capt. Crane thinks the fire was the work of an incendiary. The total loss will exceed $200,000, the greater portion of which falls on the Anchor Line Company of St. Louis. As the books and papers of the boat and elevator are lost, it is impossible to obtain a reliable lost of either the losses or insurance.

WASHINGTON.

Continuation of the Potter Committee investigation-Jas, E. Anderson and others on the Stand.

WASHINGTON, July 2. At the conclusion of Mrs. Jenks' denial, James E. Anderson explained how he came in possession of the affidavit in question. He stated that he left New Orleans on the 11th of May. He met Jenks, and the latter asked him to use his influence to get him a place. "I told him I had all I could do to get a place myself. He then said, 'Well, you know your jurat is forged.' said, 'You write an affidavit to that effect. He sat down and dictated an affidavit, and swore to it before Notary Seymour, and asked me to show it to Stanley Matthews to help him to a place."

Conquest Clark was called with reference to the mailing of the second set of Louisiana certificates to Washington. He had ogg signing the second set. He thought however, Brewster signed. He did not know who signed the names of the other electors, and did not know at the time that any of the names were forged.

E. L. Weber, brother of G. Weber, who was killed, read a lengthy statement, which he made under oath, setting forth that he had no personal knowledge that Democratic intimidation had existed in the parishes of East and West Feliciana. His brother, Daniel Weber, and James E. An derson, had informed him the two parishes named had gone fairly Democratic. Great influence was brought to bear upon his brother to make his protest, and he had been approached very frequently to use his influence with his brother to effect the signing of a protest. He saw Anderson sign his protest and saw blanks therein, after Anderson had left. Judge Campbell attached the jurat to the paper. It was not sworn to by Anderson. It was a notorious tact in the Custom House that Kellogg. Packard and others were pressing Anderson and Weber to make their respective protests. Mr. John Sherman. he said, was spokesman for the visiting statesmen, and he, Weber, knew that Sherman had given his brother assurances which caused him to allow his protest to stand after it had been made. Weber had in conversation with Sherman explained to him that his brother thought his parish had gone Democratic, and he was disposed to take back his protest, whereupon Sherman assured him that his brother would be cared for. The statement further adds that the Sherman letter was a subject of mortification in the Weber family. Mrs. Daniel Weber had endeavored to find it among her husband's papers. It was afterwards found and destroyed. In this connection the statement adds that Mrs. Jenks had been in no way connected with the authorship of the Sherman letter. Witness referred to his readiness at one time to believe anything against the Nicholls go-

Great Excitement-A General Uprising and a Prolonged War Expec-

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2. Great excitement prevails in the neighborhood of Heppner, Umatilla county, relative to the Indian troubles. News has been received that the Indians have attacked Canon City. No particulars. Parties have commenced moving their families to places of safety. The Umatilla Indians have put their women and children on the reservarion and joined the hostiles. Everybody is expecting a general uprising and a prolonged war.

PENNSYLVANIA. Suspension of Operations at the Collieries.

In accordance with the previously arranged programme of the coal combination. the operators of the Schuylkill region suspended operations at the collieries yesterday. The suspension will continue until the 15th inst. President Gower, of the Philadelphia & Reading Company, has written a letter to the Coal Superintendents of the corporations, to the effect that no further suspension will be made during the present coal season. The shut-down will deprive about 2,500 men of employment.

WHO CAN CALCULATE THE MISERY AND suffering a child endures that is infested with worms? Would a parent or guardian hesitate a mo-ment to expend 25 cents for a bettle of Shriner's Indian Vermifuge to relieve the little sufferer? FOR UPWARDS OF THIRTY YEARS MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for children. It corrects acidity of the stomach, relieves

WIND COLIC, regulates the bowels, cures DYSENTERY and DIARRHEA, whether arising from teething or other causes. An old and well-tried remedy. 25 OILY SUBSTANCES ALWAYS AGGRAVATE Skin Diseases. Ointments are therefore rather hurt ful than beneficial. GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP, which opens, instead of clogging the pores with grease, has, as might have been expected, widely superseded oleaginous compounds as a remedy for scorbutic affections.

Boston Hoot, Shoe and Leather Market, June 29.

[Boston Commercial Bulletin] The number of buyers in town, this week, has been fully as large as last. Orders are being placed in a slow and cautious way, and buyers are bearing the market as heavily as possible. But the result of what business has thus far been done has been upon the whole to impart a stronger tone to the market, and manufacturers are generally firm at prices given at the opening of

The leather market is gaining strength. An improved feeling is apparent among dealers in nearly all kinds of stock, and while there is no hope of a large season's business, there is also no expectation of any further decline.
