Dean Stanley Portrayed. [Philadelphia Press.]

As he stood in the pulpit surveying | ing him by the neck: "If you ever the vast concourse assembled to greet him, the Dean accomplished two objects. He had leisure to survey the multitude and to gauge them as a fairly representative gathering of the better class of American citizens, and he gave the multitude an opportunity to study him as the representative of a higher and nobler class of the theologians of to-day. Clad in the vestments of the same style as those of other clergymen present, he differed from them in one particular. Around his neck he wore a broad band of crimson, to which was suspended a small golden symbol. This simple ornament-one sought by the proudest and noblest peers of England, and a patent of nobility only conferred upon the highest and the best-was the insignia of the Order of the Bath. Of this order the Dean is Chaplain. There is something singularly winning about the expression of this old man's face -for he is an old man now, having passed his seventieth birthday. It has nothing coarse or commonplace about it. A fine, high, broad forehead, encircled with iron-gray hair now rapidly turning white; a pair of keen and yet withal kindly, sparkling eyes; a long, straight nose-perhaps the best proof of good blood in England; thin-marvellously thin-lips and a well-formed chin; these, with a those who have three servants, and pair of whitish-gray side-whiskers, so on. He showed statistically that fine chance for display of the workings of the noble features, complete the description of the fine face which gazed with such an interested expression at the congregation assembled to do him honor yesterday morning. Dean Stanley is not, as the expression goes with us, an able speaker. In point of fact nine out of ten Americans would call him a very bad | South Carolina, on the question of speaker. A Brutal Family. As the New York Express remarks, the McGlory family of that city bears a strong resemblance to the Fro-chards of the play of "The Two Orphans." A short time since a man was nearly beaten to death in the concert hall of the male McGlory, and now there comes a story that the wife of this amiable creature enticed a young girl into her house, where she was vilely treated, kept a prisoner at the mercy of brutal negroes and whites, and beaten when she tried to very highly, regarding it as one of escape. The Enquirer charges the result in the city to fraud, corruption and terrorizing of the timid by deputy U. S. Marshals, and the defection of a portion of the Irish vote. It concedes the State by from 5,000 to 10,000 majority, and claims eleven of the twenty Congressional Districts, not counting Goss, Dem., in the Second District.

The Gazette claims that Young, Rep., is elected over Goss, Dem., in the Second District, and says there has been an error in counting. It claims it as a victory of honest money and good faith in public and private contracts over the scheme of false and slippery money, which many thought would carry into office any party that adopted it.

The Democratic ticket in Hamilton is carried by a majority of from 1,000 to 2,000.

At Chillicothe fifteen out of twenty-three precincts give a Republican gain of 344. The rest will increase this gain. At Springfield the Republicae county ticket is elected by something over 1,000

At Dayton the Republicans probably elect the Sheriff and possibly the Probate Judge. There are indications of a Republican gain on the county ticket of over 400.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9. - Complete and reliable returns from this county give Barnes, Rep., for Secretary of State, 1,641 majority over Paige, Dem. Butterworth, Rep., in the First District, has 1,066 majority over Sayler. Young, Rep., in the Second District, has 1,080 majority over Goss, Dem. An error in the count of the latter vote was discovered and corrected this morning.

The Eighth is in doubt. In the Ninth Orth, Republican, is elected. The Tenth and Eleventh are Republican; the Twelth Democratic, and the Thirteenth Republican.

Indianapolis, Oct. 9.—The election returns continue to come in slowly. We have reports from 280 townships and wards, which give the Democrats a gain of 1,870 votes. The National vote in the same precincts is 7,522, an increase over the Greenback vote in 1876 of 4,458. The same ratio of increase in the Democratic vote in the State will give the Democratic ticket 1,400 majority. Only 21 per cent. of the entire

State has been heard him. In Marion county the Republicans elect their entire county ticket, which gives them four Representatives. The joint representation in Shelby and Marion counties is in doubt. English, the Democratic candidate, is probably elected. In twentyseven wards and voting precincts in Marion county, Hanna, Rep., for Congress, has 472 himself, his laws and his Commonmajority, with eleven voting places to hear from. The District is still in doubt, both wealth by deciding to discredit the solemn judicial records of a sister

The Sixth, Seventh and Eighth Districts are doubtful. In the Ninth District, in six counties, semi-official and estimated majorities give Orth, Republican, 231 majority, with fourteen counties to hear from. Both parties claim the election. In the Tenth District Calkens, Republican, is elected. In trict Baker, Republican, have been elected. In the thirty-eight townships and wards heard from, the Democratic majority on the State ticket is 4,660, being a net gain of 2.798. The Nationals show an increase of about 30 per cent. West Virginia. CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.-A Charleston, W Va., dispatch says the election was carried on with great energy, each party doing its utmost to bring out every voter. The indications are that Kenna, Democrat, in the Third District will have 500 majority over Walker, Republican and Greenbacker. The county officers are in doubt. The Legislature is largely Democratic.

Parkersburg advices show that Wilson, Democrat, for Congress, carries that county by 200 majority. All of the Democratic ticket is elected except the Clerk of the Circuit Court. CINCINNATI, Oct. 9.-A Huntington (W. Va.) dispatch says Howey, Republican and

Beports of its Condition in North Carolina, Georgia, Fiorida, Alabama and Mississippi. [By Telegraph to the Morning Star.]

NORFOLK, VA., Oct 8.—The Cotton Exchange has received 25 replies from 18 counties in North Carolina; 15 report the weather in September favorable, and 10 say it was unfavorable. Some damage by rust is reported, but very little from any other cause. Picking has progressed rapidly. The yield is reported about the same, or probably better than last year, and about two hundred to two hundred and twentyfive pounds of lint cotton to the acre.

SAVANNAH, Oct. 8 .- The crop report of the Cotton Exchange for September, in Georgia, says: The general report of the weather, with a few exceptions, has been favorable, clear and warm, causing the bolls to mature quickly and open freely. There have been no storms, and only the south-western portion of the State was visited by worms, and the damage there was slight. Where not injured by rust the plant is well fruited and retaining its bolls. Picking is progressing rapidly. The extraordinarily fine open season has enabled the farmer to gather up to this time a larger proportion of his crop than usual, and that, too, in better condition. The grade is staple and the preparation of the crop is excep-tionally good. The yield varies from three hundred to four hundred and fifty pounds to the acre. While the crop of this State will undoubtedly exceed last year's, the per centage of excess will depend upon an early or late frost, the rains in August having caused the plant to put forward heavy Florida. - The weather has been clear and warm during the past month, causing the bolls to open freely and the cotton to be gathered in good condition. No storms have occurred and the damage from rust and worms has been slight. The bottom crop was well fruited. The middle was injured in certain localities, somewhat, by rust. The top crop, where not affected by rust, is dependent upon the seasons. Planters are well up with their picking. Dip. The yield per acre varies, the average being about three hundred and fifty to four hundred pounds of seed cotton, or about a bale to every three and a half acres, and is a little in excess of last year. The sea island portion of the State was visited by a succession of equinoctial storms, and has the official quotations: suffered more or less from the caterpillar.

The melancholy affliction suffered by the Crescent City, in common with so many other Southern cities, has shown the benefit derived by that community in establishing and maintaining the Louisiana State Lottery Company in 1868, which was incorporated for educational and charitable benefits, and which in its regular contributions to schools and hospitals nobly distinguished itself.

LIVER IS KING.—The Liver is the imperial organ of the whole human system. When it is disturbed in its proper action all kinds of ailments are the natural result. It has been successfully proved that Green's August Flower is unequalled in curing all persons afficted with Dyspepsis or Liver Complaint, and all the numerous symptoms that result from an unhealthy condition of the Liver and stomach. Three doses will prove that it is just what you want.

TRICKY TRADERS.—The attempt to establish a business by closely imitating the name and style of a favorite article has new illustration in W. F. Taylor's Labor Saying Detersive Soap. For many years this brand of soap has been made solely by Colgate & Co., New York, which fact together with its popularity has made it a shining mark for the unscrupnious imitator. Buyers should remember that each genuine wrapper and bar bear the name of W. F. Taylor. Its reduced and present low price ensures its being sold everywhere as heretofore, sent 18 d a w Sw
