eyes and lips and hand And the throngs that pass and pender that weird masterpiece sublime, Little think it is the picture of the solemn lapse of Time;
Of the thoughtless lapse of Time,
With its melancholy music and its sad, heart broken rhyme. Ozing, trickling, bubbling, gleaming, Laughing, weeping, sobbing, streaming, Wailing, murmuring, sighing, dreaming, Flowing, flowing on.

So, stand we that fountained statue, God's great masterpiece of art, the lapse of time is flowing on thro' each oblivious heart; Seconds, minutes meeting, fleeting into days and months and years, Swell the rapids of the ages till at last Time disappears

With its flood of hopes and fears,
Through life's dimly-lighted valley, thio'
the valley of our tears,
Tinkling, plashing, rippling, sleeping,
Bounding, sparkling, dancing, leaping, Foaming, billowing, tumbling, sweeping, Gliding, gliding on.

Military Review-Magnificent Display -Ninety-Five Hundred Troops in Line-Safe Arrival of the Connecticut

[By Telegraph to the Morning Star.] YORKTOWN, October 20 .- The military review took place this morning, and the column was one hour and twenty minutes passing a given point. Gen. Hancock and staff rode at the head of the line, and when they reached the grand stand they fell out and took a position on the stand with President Arthur, the Cabinet and foreign guests, while the column passed in review. There were 9,500 men in the line.

The President was quite enthusiastic over the magnificance of the discharge.

the magnificence of the display. The only colored troops on parade were two colored companies from Richmond Va. They were loudly cheered by the spectators from the North.

The steamer Charleston, with the Gov-ernor of Connecticut, staff and troops, about which there was some anxiety, ar rived this morning. The pilot did not know Yorktown harbor, and anchored at the mouth of York river until he could get a pilot to bring the vessel into port.

The marching of the troops generally was very fine and excited great interest among the military men and elicited cheers from the mulitude. Gen. Hancock and Gen. Fitzhugh Lee were both loudly cheered wherever they appeared, as a tribute to the blue and the grey, and a recognition of the fact that both are now marching under the same flag of a common country. ing under the same flag of a common country. The State troops vied with each other in drill and discipline, and the friends of each claim the palm for some crack corps. The regulars excited general admiration.

Howgate's Counsel Promise to Bring Him into Court-Counsel Assigned for Guiteau-Howgate Committed to Jail-Receipts and Coinage of For-

[By Telegraph to the Morning Star.] WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 .- In the Criminal Court, this morning, counsel for Capt. Howgate promised to bring Howgate into court. The District Attorney waived the right to have a bench warrant issued for his arrest.

Judge Cox has assigned Leigh Robinson, of the firm of Elliott & Robinson, as counsel for Guiteau.

Washington, October 22.—Capt. How-gate appeared in court to-day and pleaded not guilty to the indictment. His counsel stated that the plea was merely formal, and the right was reserved to afterwards interpose such motion, demurer or plea as might be desired. The District Attorney, in asking that bail be fixed at $40,000, said that the grand jury had indicted Howgate for forgery in addition to the embezzlement indictments. dictments. THE COTTON CROP.

Reports from Alabams, Georgia, Lou-isians, Mississippi and Tennessee— The Outlook More Promising.

(By Telegraph to the Morning Star.) NEW ORLEANS, October 22.—Dispatches to the Democrat, from all portions of the cotton country, show the condition of the crop to date to be as follows:

Alabama—Weather good, cold and dry; picking progressing rapidly and will be over by the middle of November; the yield is much better than was anticipated, and will come within ten per cent, of last year's; the staple will be much better; about three-fourths of the crop has already been gath-

Georgia—The crop prospects have improved greatly during the past few weeks, and it is now believed the crop will be as great as last year; two-thirds of the crop is gathered; cotton is being marketed slowly.

Louisiana—Rains have fallen during the past week, which will injure the cotton in-considerably in the fields; the weather has been cool and there have been several frosts; farmers are backward in preparing the staple, very little of which has been marketed; it is estimated that three-fourths of the crop has been gathered; if the pres-ent bad weather continues the crop will be mississippi—Rains have fallen throughout the State, doing, however, very little damage to cotton; some damage has been done by worms; eighty per cent. of the crop has been picked; the yield will be about 75 per cent. of the crop of last year.

Tennessee—Seventy per cent. of the crop has been gathered; the yield, it is now estimated, will be 40 per cent. less than that of last year: the season still continues fa-of last year; the season still continues fa-vorable for picking, which will be finished at a much earlier date than last year.

Manufactured by The Dr. Harter Medicine Co., St. Louis. The following is one of the very many testimonials we are receiving daily:

Gentlemen:—Some three months ago I began the use of Dr. HARTER'S IRON TONIC, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A variation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chills. At this time I began the use of your Inon Tonic, from which I realized almost immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three insides of the Tonic. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I ever did in the same time during my threes, and with double the case. With the bandall nerve and vigor of body, has some also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the Tonic has not done the work. I Garfield's Death.

Senator Terrill, of Texas, closed his speech at Austin, on the occasion of President Garfield's death, with the fellowing touching words:
I am done, and yet there is something which I had not intended to say which I feel constrained to utter. But a few days since, in company with Col. Andrews, of Yazoo City, Miss., I stood in the solitude of the cemetery where the citizens of the capital of Wisconsin bury their dead. Broken shaft and polished granite marked on the right hand and on the left where earth's children who had been favored by fortune slept; but on a gentle slope, and neatly fenced away to themselves, I saw where each upon each 200 sleepers rested. Nature's carpet of living green rose in gentle waves over their rest. We asked whose graves are these, and the answer came, "They were sol-diers of the South who died here in prison." A white board was at the head and foot of every sleeper, on which was neatly painted his name and rank, and stating the day of his death. No noxious weed grew in that enclosure, but everthing betokened gentle care; and, near by, was another bank of sleepers, whose graves gave evidence of just such care, save where some friends reared a monument. Then I asked, "Whose graves are these?" and the answer came, "These are the Union dead of Danr county, slain in battle for the Union." Speaking to one who was standing with us, I said: "I hear that no one of Southern birth lives in Madison, and these Confederate graves must look lonely on your Decoration day?" "Not so," he answered, "for long ago Governor Washburn, when he had finished a speech on Decoration day, said: The war of hate will never end till we learn to respect the memory of those who, right or wrong, died for their convictions. Let those who will, follow me, for I go to place a wreath on a Confederate grave,' and with that the whole of Madison rose and followed him." [Prolonged cheering.] Turning to look upon my companion as we stood in the gleaming of a Northern evening, leaning on his crutch, he said, as the tears dimmed his eyes: "Sir, we have misunderstood these people," and now, as often as spring, with her roses, her verdure and her birds of song come to gladden the earth and learn men that the great law of nature is love and not violence, the maids and matrons of Wisconsin, with impartial hand, deck with roses and evergreens our fallen dead. Today the nation is learning at Garfield's grave, concerning us, just such a lesson as I then read concerning one portion of the North, and thus does the gentle influence of Northern women, moving silent as the fall of the snow-flake in the valley at midnight, gentle as the dews of evening, and ye with the resistless power of a whirlwind, bring all men to understand that our people will be one and again united. In the language of the illustrious dead, uttered when Lincoln fell: "The President is dead, lives." [Prolonged applause.] A WAR ROMANCE.

but God reigns and the government

In a recent letter from Mr. E. J. Hale, to the Charlotte Democrat, he

"There is a romance connected with the South of some interest. When Mason and Slidell were captured by Com. Wilkes, Mr. Slidell's daughter resented an impertinence by one of Wilkes' officers by a slap in the face. Being released with an ample apology, they proceeded to Europe, where Miss Slidell, young, beautiful and accomplished, became a belle and had many offers of mar-riage. She married Baron Erlanger, one of the richest bankers in the world, and has used her influence with him to get up the 'Erlanger Syndicate,' with a cash capital of twenty-five millions of dollars, all to be used in building up her beloved South. This has formed part of the hundred millions of recent investments in the South, of which we have heard so much, and I suspect it was the pioneer in such enterprises."
