The Blair Educational Bill-Bills Introduced by Senators Ransom and

by Telegraph to the Morning Star. WASHINGTON, Dec. 19 .- The Blair Edunational bill reported to the Senate to-day received the unanimous endorsement of the Committee on Education, and contains but one slight change from the bill as it passed the Senate last session. It provides for a total appropriation of $79,000,000, to be expended in eight years. The report accompanying the bill, among other things, says: "Although the committee believe that no measure of greater, if there be any of equal importance, will engage the attention of the Senate, they have not deemed it necessary to enter upon a general discussion of the bill or to enlarge upon the serious nature of the public emergency which r. quires its enactment. * * * * The neasure was devised and has been pressed to secure a removal of alarming and in-creasing illiteracy, and its baneful consequenes, and not as a means of expending surplus revenues, although their existence removes all excuse for failure to pass it. The bill was proposed before the large surplus existed. It should become a law, even if additional taxation were necessary. * * * Illiteracy grows with the coun try and keeps full pace with its increase in population. Increase of population adds continually to the number who require attention, while the means of education are not and cannot, and therefore will not, be provided without temporary assistance from the funds of the nation. The temporary aid proposed in the bill should have been given at once upon the close of the war. To bestow it now is but to provide a long deferred obligation, the neglect of which has already greatly enhanced the grave perils to the nation. "Who," it asks, "shall estimate the evil consequences which will befall us from a continuance of that low and unfortunate motherhood which, under the influence of illiteracy and ignorance, is now bearing one-fourth of the children of the Republic ? If there can be no centiment of patriotism which can stir us to action, the instinct of self-preservation, which confers a certain degree of wis

Assistant Secretary Thompson has re ceived the report of the Board, of which Lieut. Commander Casey, of the United States Navy, was chairman, appointed to investigate the charges of neglect of duty misappropriation of government property, and of offensive partisanship preferred by H. L. Worthington, Philip Morrisett, and others of Norfolk, against M. L. Odell, keeper of Cape Henry Light Station. The report says that the investigation was as fair, impartial and as thorough as it was possible to make it, considerable latitude being given to complainants in the matter of the testimony, in order that there might be no grounds of complaint. The conclusions of the board were that the charges preferred by Morrisett were part of a scheme to oust Odell in order to secure the place himself; that Odell had not been derelict in the discharge of his duties, but on the contrary was a good and efficient officer; that the object of Worthington in attempting to secure the removal of Odell was not on account of inefficiency, but in order to strengthen the political party of which he (Worthington) is a mem-

Odell was extremely offensive and ob-noxious as a Republican partisan was, that in 1885 he had taken part in the Convention which nominated John S. Wise for Governor of Virginia, and that he had acted as judge of election in the same year. The board reports that these acts occurred prior to the President's order of July 14th, 1886, in regard to official interference in political movements, and that since then Odell has not taken the slightest interest in politics. The board therefore recommends he dismissal of the charges and that no further action be taken in the matter so far as Odell is concerned. They suggest, however, that the interest of the service would be benefited by the removal of Geo. R.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The President to-day transmitted to Congress the report of Edward Atkinson, of Mass., who, he says, "was specially designated by me, under the provisions of successive acts of Congress, to visit the financial centres of Europe in order to ascertain the feasibiliy of establishing by international standard a fixity ratio between the two precious metals in free coinage of both." Mr. Atkinson's report, with its appendices, makes a volume of 280 pages. He summarizes the results of his inquiries under four heads, as follows: 1. There is no prospect of any change in the present monetary system of European States which can modify or influence the financial policy of the United States at the present time. 2. There are no indications of any change in the policy of the financial authorities of the several States visited by me which warrant any expectation that the subject of a bimetallic treaty for a common legal ten-der coupled with free coinage of silver, will be seriously considered at the present time by them. 8. There is no indication that the subject of bimetallism has received any intelligent or serious consideration outside of a small circle in each country named, as a probable or possible remedy for existing causes of alleged depression in trade.

4. There is no considerable politically 4. There is no considerable politically organized body of influential persons in either country with whom a combination could be made, if such combination or co-operation were desirable on the part of a similar body in the United States, for promoting any definite or practicable measure of legislation to bring about the adoption of a bi-metallic theory according to the commonly accepted meaning of that term.

The discussion is as yet almost wholly personal and without concentration of purpose on the presentation of any well devised WILMINGTON MARKET measure capable of being acted upon. Mr. Atkinson's most important conclusion from his observation, is, that it would be unwise and inexpedient for the United States again to take the initiative in promoting action for a general adoption of a bi-metallic legal tender coupled with free of receipts at 854 cents. coinage of silver, for the reason that such TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

His wife was the divorced wife of Crandell's former legal associate. Crandell was once a can-didate for sheriff in Washington county, and was defeated. He was extravagant in his habits. His wife had money and the quarrel was over its control.

The place, known as the "Col. Baker place," was bought by Mrs Stone about a year ago. Her family consisted of Mrs. Stone, her sister Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Crandell and her daughter by a former marriage, and her son-in-law Crandell. Mrs. Stone was about 62 years old; her husband died several years ago, leaving a large property. The daughter refused to accept any proper-ty while her mother was alive. The daughter, Julia V. Crandell, was 37 years old. It is said that Crandell represen himself to be wealthy and worth $40 000, and finally married Mrs. Buckley. Their ily, except Mrs. Ellis, were at table eating breakfast when Crandell began shooting The ladies ran from the table to the kitchen, and he ran after them, firing across the room. His spite seemed to be against Mrs. others at Mrs. Stone. Mrs. Stone ran out doors in the snow some rods from the house. He went to the door and shot at her. She fell exhausted in the snow and died soon after with a bullet in the breast, Crandell then turned about, loaded his revolver, and at short range fired at his stepdaughter Julia. The shot took effect near the navel. It was fired so close that the white apron she wore was burned by the Mrs. Crandell received two wounds in the groin. Crandell then ran from the room and was not seen again until his dead body was found in the cupola of the house. Mrs. Ellis at once raised an alarm and people soon came flocking to the scene. It was too late to be of any assistance. Officers were placed in charge of the house and no one outside was admitted. The coroner was notified. When the reporter left the house Mrs. Crandell was very low and no attempt to n Alabama Faith Doctor Kills a Negro Woman as a Sacrifice Offering-Threats of Mob Violence. SELMA, Ala, Dec. 19 -A horrible murder was committed here to-day. Wm. W. Jordan, a faith doctor, has been living in Selms for the past twelve months, and has in that time acquired a great influence over the negroes, whom he told that he had come to redeem the Jews. He appounced for a Passover Fesst, at the house of two negro women in the outskirts of the city, this morning, and told them that a sacrifice was necessary. Frances Driver said she was willing to offer herself as a sacrifice, and laid her head on a table. Jordon thereupon took a sword and struck her several blows on the neck and stabbed her a number of times, killing her instantly. The body was then dragged out into the street by two other colored women. A white woman witnessed the affair and gave an alarm. Police officer Payne, after a terrible struggle, succeeded in overpowering Jordan, and with the aid of several other officers, conveyed him to the city prison. Two negro men, who were present at the feast, bave also been arrested. The negroes are greatly excited over the nurder, and there are threats of lynching, but the police have a strong guard at the city prison and say that they will be able to prevent mob violence. INFANTILE

SKIN DISEASES.

Our oldest child, now six years of age, when an infant six minths old was attacked with a viru lent, mailgnant skin disease. All ordinary remedies failing, we called our family physician, who attempted to cure it; but it spread with amost incredible rapidity, until the lower portion of the little fellow's person, from the middle of his back down to his knees, was one solid rash, ugly, painful, blotched, and malicious. We had no rest at night, no peace by day. Finally, we were advised to try the curioual Remedies. The effect was simply marvelious. In three or four weeks a complete cure was wrought, leaving the little fellow's person as white and healthy as though he had never been attacked. In my opinion your valuable remedies saved his life, and to-day he is a strong, healthy child, perfectly well, no repetition of the disease having ever occurred.
