CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

EDITOR STAR: -- Recalling the fact that you have ever shown yourself favorable to the efforts of the Young Men's Christian Association in our city, I ask for the use of your col umus in that direction. My special purpose is to show that the Association is a power for good without in any way conflicting with the work of the churches. Such an effort on my part is rendered necessary by the fact that there are in our city a large number of citizens who have con tracted the idea that in some way the Association will compromise the church by tresspassing upon its pre rogatives, and assuming work immemorially ascribed to it Perhaps I am not very clear, but possibly it is not my fault, for really the no tion partakes more of the nature of a vague fear than of a well defined idea, and I know not how better to designate it. I admire the pirit of conservatism which doubtless prompts those who entertain the idea, and I am sure that they will thoughtfully weigh the facts I may be able to present.

I would like to premise this paper by saying that the Association, as an organization, is in no wise responsible for the ill-advised acts of rare local associations, or for the rash utterancces of individual members, nor should it be judged by such things, but the declarations of its conventions and the practices of the great association body. This is the way in which other organizations are estimated, and certainly the same will be accorded us. The sessions of the International Convention of the Young | day the market was dull and weak at Men's Christian Association, which 10c. for middling uplands. embraces the United States and Can ada, have iterated and reiterated the fact that the Association is not in conflict with the church, does not do the work of the church, is an adjunct of the church, works entirely within the church, and that the authority and direction of the church are paramount to those of the Association. These declarations have been approved by the State Conventions all over this country.

A little reflection will reveal that there can be no conflict, for no man can have a voice in its management except he be a member in good standing of some evangelical church, and certainly a body consisting solely of church members, will not prosecute a course that would mititate against any church represented, or in any way prescribe its field of action.

It may be answered that the mem bers might be weaned from the church. Well, that means proselyting, and in this case carries its answer on its face, for there can be no proselyting unless there is a substitute for the doctrines and practices supplanted, and the Association bas nothing to substitute. It has no distinctive tenet." It holds to and supports only those fundamental truths held and practiced in common by all evangelical bodies. The work of the Association with any man stops where denominational differences be gin, and he must then seek his own proper fold. If by the grace of God the Association reclaims a young man from the paths of sin, his pastor is immediately informed, and the young man is urged to connect himself with the church of his choice. I think it will be found that those churches which wisely foster this organization, formed at least in part, from its own ranks, will reap the greatest harvest from its labors. Man is dependent almost entirely for what he is upon education, and this means upon the aggregate influences, moral and otherwise, constitut ing his environments from infancy. The child learns its first words from the nurse. Its first acts are imita tions of those it sees. The youth has the ideas of his companions engrafted upon him and goes on to manhood s product of his environments as surely as the tree is a product of the soil, or the flood in the valley of the melting snows of the mountains. Every mortal of this fallen world is subject to the influences of the two great antagonistic schools of vice and virtue. If the one claims him as her pupil, he becomes a disgrace to himself, an evil to society silent and insidious it may be, and a pilgram to the realms of woe. If the other enroll him on her register he is a joy to himself, a blessing to society, open and pronounced, and a dweller in the abode of everlasting peace. Arthe head of one stands the devil, at the head of the other the church of the living God, and below each in varying degrees of efficiency the organizations that make the sum of the influences of each school. The Young Men's Christian Association seeks to be an humble factor in the school of virtue. It seeks to of the American continents. They throw around young men social influences of the better sort. It strives American republic, and that its chief to give him advantages for develop- infant industry is the manufacture of The Character of the aged Dr. W. And it endeavors to lead him by all these agencies and by personal work to give his heart to God, to de vote his taients to the upbuilding of the cause of christianity rather than to dissipate his time and energies in the pastimes that tend to deteriorate every phase of his nature. These objects the local association of our city is endeavoring to accomplish. It is studying the wants of the community and endeavoring to equip itself to meet them. We earnestly pray that by the help of God we may save at least a portion of the young men vote his talents to the upbuilding of at least a portion of the young men | sense.

When we appear before the public and ask for help, let them remember that it is to be applied by an association of church members, which of itself should be a guarantee that the funds will be properly ex-pended. The entire work of the Association is done by church members, and its policy is directed by a board selected from the leading churchmembers in the community. We the interests of the church are in no If we can add something to the influences already at work here against vice and corruption we will be glad, though not contented, for our wish is to be such an aid to the Church as will make us a most useful agency. If we succeed it will mean that the young men of the community, whether working for themselves or others, will do better, more faithful and more intelligent work, and that means a better city in every respect, for the young men must direct it at last. New York Commercial Chronicle. FRIDAY, Nov. 28,1888.-The move ment of the crop, as indicated by our telegrams from the South to night, is given below. For the week ending this evening (Nov. 28), the total receipts have reached 266,262 bales, against 262,369 bales last week, 272,091 bales the previous week: making the total receipts since the 1st of September, 1888, 2,358,371 bales, against 2,874,549 bales for the same period of 1887, showing a decrease since September 1, 1888, of 516,178 bales.

The exports for the week ending this evening reach a total of 193,027 bales, of which 128,997 were to Great Britain 12,374 to France and 51,666 to the rest of the Continent.

To-day an early deeline, in sym pathy with Liverpool, was followed by a recovery, on a demand to cover contracts, but the total absence of any outside interest caused a dull, weak closing. Cotton on the spot advanced 1-16c. on Monday and declined 1-16s. on Tuesday. There was a fair demand for home consumption, and less complaint was made of disproportionately free offerings of low grades. Yesterday the offerings were more liberal. To-

for the week are 390,200 bales.

Allow me to add: Your most excellent journal richly deserves all the praise that has been bestowed upon it since reaching its twenty-first birthday. The MORNING STAR is indeed a paper well worthy of an exalted place in the hearts of the people of this grand old State, for it stands unequalled as an able, fervid, true exponent of sound Democracy and as an advocate of true morality and a "pure and undefiled religion," and as an educator in every sense of the word. It should be in every household in the State. As a South Carolinian it gives me real pleasure to thus express myself. May the STAR rise and shine many, many more years. Respectfully, JOHN C. SQUIER. Supreme Court Decistons.

Digested by Raleigh News-Observer. State vs. Deaton. The general statute (Code, section ,078), providing that if any person shall retail spirituous liquors by the small measure in any other manner than is prescribed by law is not repealed by the provisions of the revenue act. Lee vs. Moseley. Ouly residents of this State are entitled to the homestead exemption under our Constitution and laws. Whether one who has moved to another State has thereby abandoned his residence here is a question under the circumstances of each case for the jury to determine. That the person ieclares he had the intent to return to his former home is not itself conclusive as to the right of homestead, and may be rebutted by circumstances as to that right. McAuley vs. Morris. It is not irregular for the Justice of the Peace before whom a judgment has been obtained to put the execution in the hands of a constable; and the constable so charged has authority to cause the personal property exemption of the defendant to be set apart. The procedure in such cases the hands of the sheriff and the constable may administer oaths &c , as the sheriff may do in like cases. Upon objection the issue is to be docketed in the Superior Court as in other The return of the appraisers should be made by the constable to the Clerk of the Superior Court; if improperly made to the Justice, steps should be taken to correct the error. The clerk should file the return on the judgment role and certify a copy to the register as in other cases.

State vs. Wilson. An indictment under section 1014 will be sustained when the defendant charged was the servant of a private person; that the defendant is described as not being within the age of 18 years satisfies the statute.

N Y. T mes, Iad. Rep. It would not be a bad thing for Mr Quay and one or two of the other managers of the Republican party machinery to take a vacation from their arduous labors and devote a little time to the study of a good map appear to have conceived the notion that the United States is a Centra revolutions As here has been a terprise. The occasion, they think, is a fortunate one. The county has just elected 825 members of the House of Representatives, and curiously enough public opinion was so evenly divided that it is impossible at present to tell whether 163 of these are Democrats and 162 of them RepubliCURRENT COMMENT.

---- We believe Governor Waller is sound in his view of the matter. A comparison of the votes by counties in 1884 and 1888, furnishes no ground for the claim that the tariff killed the Democratic Cock Robin. Sowden, of Pennsylvania, and Foran, of Ohio, two of the most conspicuous anti-tariff reform Democrats, would have secured a re-election to Congress if tariff reform was as distaste ful as it is claimed it is. The issue is stronger to day than ever. - New Haven Register, Dem.

- Tariff reform is gaining in New England. We shall not forever be compelled to pay tribute to the ironmasters of Pennsylvania and the millionaire ranchmen of the western plains. By lectures, debates, the continued circulation of instructive documents and special investigations of the harm done by the present unscientific tariff system, the active members of the principal tariff reform clubs propose to illuminate Massachusetts during the coming year. Their efforts are worthy of the most cordial co-operation. - Bos ton Post, Dem.

- There is no doubt but that a large portion of the Republican party favor tariff reform and tax reduction, but that large portion is powerless to act because of the other part of the Republican party the trusts and combines who contributed the money and other aid which caused Republican success control the party's machine and will prevent any movement in the right direction. The tariff will cause the disruption of the Republican party because of the division upon the proper lines of reduction, - Cleveland Plaindealer

-- If a professedly Christian nation cannot find means to put an end to the purchase and sale of votes, religion itself will eventually be looked upon as a sham. No part of the social body will escape the infection of a tainted fountain of power, and finally when wealth hat corrupted and worn away the moral sense by which alone it is protected, then wealth itself will be engulfed in the common ruin. All the steps which led to the French Revolution may be repeated here, and will be if the legitimacy of the source of power can be called in question .-N. Y. Evening Post, Ind. Rep.

- Unless there had been an understanding before election that the Philadelphia merchant and Vienna manufacturer was to be compensated for his large expenditures and small services in the campaign by a Cabinet office, it is extremely improbable that Mr. Harrison should have announced his intention to give him one. Such an understanding is too scandalous to be attributed to the President elect without convincing proof that it was made, and this we shall not be likely to get. The nearest to convincing evidence that could be had of the existence of such an understanding would be the appointment of Mr. Wanamaker. That could hardly be explained on any other hypothesis that it had been promised in return for the money contributed. Until such proof is furnished we will not believe Mr. Harrison will commit so offensive a blunder. - N. Y. Times, Ind. Rep.

-- The Trusts recognized the fact. They foresaw that the continuance of the Democracy in power meant ruin for them; they knew that, in the accession of a Republican government, lay their only hope of a continued existence with all its unexploited possibilities of undisguised plander. They were openly invited by the most prominent Republicans to throw in their lot with the fortunes of the party. For the man who is most popularly mentioned for the speakership of the House in the Fifty first Congress, "Tom" Reed of Maine, had the hardshood to stand up in his place among the Representatives of the people and holdly avow his approval of, and his promise of support to, those conspiracies to defraud. And hardly had J. G. Blaine set his foot on the soil of his native country on his return from his foreign tour than he hastened to warn his countrymen from approach ing the sacred preserves of the Trusts. They were private affairs, he said, with which neither President nor people had any right to interfere. It was not surprising therefore that the Trusts took the side which they did take in the election. It was not surprising that they fried their fat and threw the drippings in the shape of millions of dollars into the lap of Quay and his National Committee to rescue them from threatened destruction.-Augusta Chronicle, Protection.

Men who had various holdings were, as a rule the flower of the tenantry; they were thrifty, energetic farmers who saved money for the purpose of land investments It would be unwise to exclude these men from the benefit of the act. Savannah News, 24th. It begins to look as if the Richmond Terminal would have some business at Atlanta this winter. Bills and resolutions have been introduced into the Legislature in which it has a deep interest. There appears to be a disposition in that body to find out all about the deal by which the Richthe Georgia Central, and to prevent such deals, so far as Georgia railroads are concerned; also to nullify any which may have been made within the last year. Mr. Rankin's resolution, which was published in the dispatches of the News yesterday, provides for the appointment of a committee to inquire whether the purchase of a controlling interest in the Georgia Central by the Richmond Terminal is contrary to the spirit and letter of the constitution of the State, and if so, to report what action is necessary to be taken to annul it.

There is a bill before the Judiciary Committee of the House the purpose of which is to prevent any railroad, operated under " Georgia charter, from getting control of a competing railroad which enjoys privileges from railroad corporation or combination ontside of the State from getting control of a competing road within the State. In a word, the intention of it is, so far as it is in the power of the Legislature to do so, to make it impossible to put an end to competition

It cannot be stated with certainty. of course what action the Legislature will take on resolutions and bills of this character, but the chances are that there will be an investigation of the deals by which the Richmond Terminal obtained control of the G orgia Central and the Kast Tennes see, Virginia and Georgia and it is not improbable that a strong effort will be made to annul them.

But of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup we can speak from knowledge; in our own family it has proved a blessing indeed, by giving an infant troubled with colic pains, quiet sleep and the parents unbreken rest at night. Most parents can appreciate these blessings. Here is an article which works to perfection, and which is harmless; for the sleep which it affords the infant is perfectly natural, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." And during the process of teething its value is incalculable. We have frequently heard mothers say that they would not be without it from the birth of the child till it had inished with the teething sleep, on any consideration whatever. SCRATCHED 28 YEARS. A Scaly, Riching, Skin Disease with Endless Suffering Cured by Cutieura Remedies.

If I had known of the Cuticura Remedies.

If I had known of the Cuticura Remedies twenty-eight years ago it would have envel me $300.00 (two hundred dollars) and an immense amount of suffering. My disease (Peorisals) commenced on my head in a spot not larger time a cent. It spread rapidly all over my buty and got under my nails. The scales would drop of of me all the time and my suffering was endiese, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieded of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ring-worm, psoriasis, etc. I took and and sarring-worm, psoriasis, etc. I took and and the cure I went to two or three doctors and no cure. I cannot praise the Cuticura Remedies too much. They have made my skin as clear and free from scales as a bab's. All I used of them was three boxes of Cuticura, and two cakes of Cuticura cap. I you had been here and said you would have cured me for $100.00 you would have had the money I looked like the picture in your book of Paorlasis (picture number two, "How to cure skin Disease"), but now I am as clear as any person ever was. Through force of babit I rub my bands over my arms and legs to scratch once in a while, tut to no purroe I am an well. I soratched twenty-eightyea s, and itwo to one a kind of second bature to me. I than to you a thousand times. Anything more that you want to know write me, or any one who reads this may write to me and I will answer it.
