How This Work Is Done at the Sandy Hook Proving Grounds.

Captain Heath has been burning a lot of powder this summer in the big gun at the United States proving ground at Sandy Hook, says the New York Sun, and to people who don't know a big gun from a mortar the most interesting part of these tests has been the method by which the initial velocity of the projectiles has been determined. The difficulty of such a calculation is indicated by the fact that with our modern high power guns the shot is often expelled at an initial velocity of 2,000 feet per second, which is at the rate of a mile in less than three seconds. Accurate knowledge of the velocity of a projectile is of the greatest importauce to the ordnance officer, who has to predict the range of the shot and its penetration, and to determine the accuracy and efficiency of the gun, of the powder, and of the projectile itself.

Captain Heath finds fault with powder that gives an initial velocity of 1865 feet per second to the 1000pound projectile of the new I2 inch rifle at Sandy Hook, when its velocity should be 1,975 feet per second. This is a difference of only 110 feet, and the instrument that records it must be capable of measuring the time interval to within the fivethousandth part of a second. A difference of 200 or 300 feet in velocity means in the big guns an importand difference in the powder used in the tests. At Sandy Hook a delicate electrical appliance called the Boulanger chronograph measures this velocity accurately, and records its own measurements. This is the way it does it:

In testing the large guns at these proving grounds two open frames are set up in front of of the gun at a distance 150 feet from each other. Wires are stretched back and forth across these frames, making a screen through which the projectile must pass. The wires in each of these screens form a complete electric circuit, which includes also an electric battery and an electric magnet, When the gun is fired the projectile the wire in the first screen, interrupts the circuit, and at the same time the armature of the magnet is released. In a very small fraction of a second the projectile has covered the distance to the second screen and interrupting its circuit releasing another armature. The interval of time between the drop of these two armatures represents the time taken by the projectiles to travel one hundred and fifty feet.

This period is so short that it is hardly conceivable. The chronograph, however, registers it accurately. Wires run from each of these screens to the laboratory near them, where are placed the chronographs, batteries, switchboard and other apparatus. The two electro-magnets in circuit with the screens are embodied in the chronograph. The first magnet has an armature, an iron rod about three feet long, which is suspended in a vertical position from its core. When the wires of the first screen are broken this iron rod falls. When the shot ruptures the wire of the second screen the armature of second electro-magnet, which is placed at a short distance below the first, is also released.

It operates as a knife, and, striking the side of the falling rod, makes a slight mark. The distance through which the rod drops while the shot is passing from one screen to the other is indicated by the distance of the cut from the end of the rod. From this the corresponding interval of time is easily computed, and this forms the unit for the calculation of the projectile's velocity in feet per second. When it is necessary to tain very accurate records, several chronographs may be used for testing the same shot.

Of course the rate of a projectile's velocity diminishes rapidly during its flight from the gun, and the calculations of its initial velocity must be confined to a short portion of its path immediately after it leaves the gun. Instantaneous photographs are obtained of the projectile as it strikes the target. From these experiments in velocity the ordnance officer is able to determine the relative strength of different powders.

Dr. Teed Says That He Will Execute Many Marvelous Engineering Feats. Pittsburg Dispatch.

The celibate Society of Economites, whose wealth has been estimated at $150,000,000, has indorsed the doctrine of Dr. Cyrus R. Teed, who came here from the West to interest the members in the new sect of Koresheans, of which Teed is the head. On Saturday night it was decided by the board to support Dr. Teed in whatever way they could. Yesterday the announcement of the proposed change was made to the Economites in church. Teed claims to be a second Messiah and that he is immortal. In an interview concerning his plans he said: "I will in the near future establish a store in Pittsburg on my system of equitable commerce. will establish a big central house in Chicago and expect my co-operative system to come into general vogue in ten years. I did not come here for their money; I want their moral support and credit. Through their influence I expect to bring closer together the five celibate societies in this country.'

Dr. Teed claims that he will execute many marvellous engineering feats after his ideas once get into power, such as building a six-track railroad across the continent and cutting a pathway fifty miles wide through the Rocky Mountains.

HOW LADIES VOTE

Some Characteristic Episodes at a Recer Balloting in Elmira. Elmira Gazette.

The women voted for school commissioners in District No. 1 last evening. A reporter stopped in and asked a few questions as to how the ladies managed it. The first lady the reporter questioned startled him with the reply, "Oh, have we got to tell how we vote?"

"Oh, no! certainly not. I wouldn't have you tell me for the world; it's against the law," said the reporter. "Oh, well, then, I don't care who knows how I vote," and with that the lady unrolled a small bundle of paper and cautiously extracted a ticket which looked as though it had been folded up and pressed out with a hot flatiron.

"There it is," and she held up triumphantly before the reporter's eyes a ticket with John R. Joslyn's name "Why do you vote for htm?" asked

Next came a lady who was in a hurry and said she had to vote right away so she could hurry back home to supper. A lady in a hurry is a dangerous thing to molest or oppose, and all the men down in District No. I seem to agree on that point. They all made way for her without saying a word and she handed in her ballot and got away so quickly that she was nearly home by the time the Teasly for $150, and for nine years teller had shouted out: "Name,

CHILIANS DEFIANT.

CURT REJOINDER TO THE DEMANDS OF THE U. S. GOVERNMENT.

WASHINGTON, October 29.-There was little or no excitement in official circles here this morning over the Santiago press cablegram announcing receipt of an unsatisfactory response from the Junta to representatives of the United States, and saying that the Baltimore's crew were practically "boycotted" at Valparaiso. Naval official discredit the latter statement, and believe its foundation lies in the prudent course adopted by Commodore Schley, respecting the granting of liberty to his sailors during the present condition of excitement. No word has been received at the Navy Department from the Commodore reporting any new phase in the situation. At the Department of State a cablegram from Minister Egan was received this morning, but it has not yet been translated. So officials are in gnorance of its contents. LATER.-The cablegram was translated and laid before the President about noon. Secretaries Blaine and Tracy were immediately summoned and there was a long conference. 6P . M .- The following official statement of the contents of Minister Egan's

"The State Department received this dispatch was made public:

morning a telegram from Minister Egan, dated Santiago, October 28, in which he gives the following as the reply of the Chilian Government to the President's telegram of Oct. 23, asking reparation for the recent murder of American sailors in the streets of Valparaiso. The Minister of Foreign Affairs replies that the Government of the United States formulates demands and advances threats that without being cast back with acrimony are not acceptable. Nor could they be accepted in the present case or in any other of like nature. He does not doubt the sincerity, rectitude or expertness of the investigation on board of the Baltimore, but will recognize only the jurisdiction and authority of his country to judge and punish the guilty in Chilian territory. He says the administration and judicial authorities have been investigating the affair; the judicial investigation under Chilian law is secret and the time has not yet arrived to make known the result; when that time does - arrive. he will communicate the result, although he does not recognize any other authority competent to judge criminal cases than that established by the Chilian people. Until the time arrives to disclose the result of the investigation we cannot admit that disorders in Valparaiso or the sitence of this department should appear as an expression of unfriendliness toward the government of the United States. which might feel in peril of the friendly

No reply has been made to this dispatch yet. What will be it nature is altogether conjecture. The most plausible theory advanced is that the suggestions courteously and diplomatically conveyed in acting Sccretary Wharton's dispatch that this Government had no doubt investigation would be made and reparation offered, will now be renewed in the shape of a stern and formal demand for some assurance of proper action on the part of the Junta, and that if these be not forthcoming Minister Egan will take passage on the Baltimore for the United States, thus severing the diplomatic relations between the relations between the two countries.

WASHINGTGN, Oct. 30.—Senor Pedro Moutt, official representative of the Chilian Government in Washington, has just received the following dispatch from the Chilian Minister of Foreign Affairs; SANTIAGO, CHILI, Oct. 30.—Investigation instituted immediately and continues with all diligence and is not yet finished. The trouble began in Clave street, and it became a tumult at 7 p. m. Regular soldiers, police and the special guard of the Intendente restored order. Of the combatants, thirty Americans and eleven Chilians were committed before the judicial authorities. They fought with knives, stones and every thing they could lay their hands upon. There was one killed and several wounded. It is estimated that there were one hundred and sixty. American sailors from the Baltimore on shore at the time of the tumult."

The Chilian friend of Senor Moutt sugnumber of arrests of Americans and Chilians was perhaps due to the readiness with which the latter found concealment, whereas the American sailors, wearing uniforms and being strangers, were readily apprehended.

Following the publication in the morning papers of the text of Mr. Egan's cablegram from Santiago, there was great speculation among departmental officials as to the next step to be taken in the matter. Calmer judgment was reflected in the general belief that a peaceful soution of the difficulties that have arisen between the Junta and the Government of the United States will be reached. It is a matter of remark that in their reply to Minister Egan the Junta officially stated that two separate inquiries, i. e., by the administration and the judicial authorities, had been initiated by them into the matters of which he complained. So, while there is reason to question the spirit in which Egan's communication was received by the Junta, it appears that the first point aimed at by the United States Government, namely, prompt investigation, has been reached. As to the second point, reparation-if the facts are as reported-it can hardly be expected that they will be pressed in advance of the conclusion of the official

There is every reason to believe that in the treatment of the case the Government, while preserving its dignity and the rights of its citizens, will act with that degree of indulgence that is becoming in the case of a great power looking for justice at the hands of a smaller, less wealthy and distracted nation. It is borne in mind that the Junta is a temporary form of Government; that internal affairs in Chili are still more or less disturbed, and that the mass of the Chilian people are still elated at their victory over Balmaceda's forces. These considerations may operate in shaping the course of the United States, and it is probable that the incoming administration in Chili, which will take the y relations with the United States by speedy adjustment of the pending case; provided, it is not disposed of in the

At the Navy Department to-day there were no signs of disturbance. LONDON, Oct. 80 .- According to the Pall Mall Gasette, there is "no doubt that much of the Chilian excitement in the United States is due to the elections." "Nobody," says the Gazette, "seriously believes that President Harrison will push matters to extremities. Neither the sympathies of other countries nor the majority of Americans will Chilians," the St. James Gazette continues, "are not now in a mood to submit to bullying. If Americans have a grievance for which they can legitimately demand redress, Chili has equal reason to complain of the conduct of Egan. Possibly if the republics would be much more easily incredible the United States should go to war with Chili, however much it may enjoy the preliminary bluster. It is even more incredible that Chili should court irretrievable disaster. A weak government will always find plenty of reasons for yielding to a strong government without loss of dignity." SANTIAGO, DE CHILI, October 81 .--Though there are no new developments to-day in the state of the diplomatic strain existing between the United States and Chili, the political atmosphere shows no signs of clearing. The members of the American colony are expecting any moment to hear that the United States Government has sent an ultimatum to the Junta. The only slight change in the situation lies in the fact that the Junta, through its organs and by its representatives, is now claiming that the police of Valparaiso were in no way at fault in arresting the sailors of the Baltimore or in their subsequent treatment of them.

The possibility of serious trouble with the United States has led the Chilians into what may turn out to be a danperously delusive belief. They seem to be of the opinion that should Chili become involved in hostilities with the United States an alliance with Great Britain could be formed, and are already gravely discussing possibilities and probabilities of such an alliance. The United States legation is again closely watched by the police in the manner adopted some weeks ago, when the egation's right of asylum was questioned No reason, so far as can be learned, has been assigned for this renewed surveillance. It is not unlikely the Government takes this means of keeping fully advised of all who enter or leave the egation. Possibly, also, it is intended, by keeping the legation under constant observation, to make the right of asylum as difficult and trying as possible. This espionage is annoying to members of the United States legation as well as to the American colony at large. That the police on duty near the American legation are under instructions to make arrests of persons leaving that place in certain contingencies is manifested from the fact that two ladies who had been calling at Minister Egan's, were placed under arrest last night as they came out into the street. The ladies were questioned by the officer in charge who appears to have satisfied himself that this was not a case where his instructions justified him in holding them prisoners so they were al lowed to proceed on their way without carriage was driving past the legation, when the police made an attempt to stop it, on what pretext is not known. The driver, however, whipped up his horses and drove away before the police could capture him or see who was in the carriage. These incidents, though almost nothing in themselves under ordinary circumstances, are magnified by the condition of public feeling here and by the status of negotiations between the United States and Chili. So it is not to be wondered that Americans feel uneasy and apprehensive that something serious may happen.

SANTIAGO DE CHILI, October 31 .-Members of the Junta continue to express the strongest feeling against the United States.

A prominent member of the new Government, who holds a position in the Cabinet, in an interview to-day in regard to the dispute between the two countries, spoke in the most unfriendly manner concerning America and Americans. He was particularly severe on Minister Eagan, whom he bluntly accused of trying to provoke war between the United States and Chili in order to secure glory for himself. On the other hand, however, it is asserted by many persons conversant with particulars of the difficulty between the two countries, that Minister Eagan has done nothing whatever in the matter on his own responsibility, all his actions being guided by orders which have been sent to him from the State department at Washington.

Report of the Intendente of Valpraiso says that there were nearly 1,000 men engaged in the recent fight. It is known that only fifty of this number were Americans. The Intendente claims the police were blameless in the affair, but notwithstanding this assertion there is the best of evidence to prove they were the chief assailants of the American sailors.

Special to the Morning Star. RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 31 .- Some little excitement was caused here yesterday by an announcement in the Evening Visitor, under sanction of Mr. W. C. Stronach, treasurer of the Soldiers' Home in this city. It seems that several days since a person calling himself Col. Beckton, and purporting to be from Kentucky, called upon Mr. Stronach and scraped an acquaintance. He stated, in substance, that he was a man of high social standing and possessed of ample means. In his conversation he claimed to be on the staff of the Governor of Kentucky, and spoke in the most zealfurther molestation. Last night, also a ous manner of the efforts being made to put the Soldiers' home on a firmer financial basis. He backed up his seeming enthusiasm by proposing to Mr Stronach to donate the sum of $1,000 in aid of the home. Mr. Stronach from the man's address and general demeanor took it for granted that he was dealing with a gentleman and thanked him for his supposed generosity. In the statement authorized by Mr. Stronach to be made yesterday afternoon, it now seems that Beckton is not only a most contemptible traud, but most probably an accomplished swindler. It appears that during the past few days, the fellow succeeded in ingratiating himself into the confidence of some of our best citizens, In one instance, it turns out, he went to the house of a gentlemen well known in social and political circles in North Carolina, on an invitation to tea. Here he was introduced to some ladies, and proposed what is termed "a theatre party." This was accepted. Beckton then stated to the gentleman of the house that he had left what ready funds he had in charge of a mercantile friend, and requested the loan of $10 to defray the expenses of the evening. The request was readily complied with, and Beckton in company with the ladies repaired to the Opera House. On arrival at the entrance of the building he made some excuse to separate himself from the ladies, whom he left to await his return. Since then the gentleman has failed to turn up. The above statement, in substance, is made on the authority of Mr, Stronach Who Beckton really is, or from what locality he hails, is not now know, but it is evident that he is an unprincipled scoundrel. For the protection of other communities his true character should not be withheld. If there are any extenuating circumstances, they have not, so far, come to light. IRREGULARITY OF TRAINS. It is undoubtedly true that the irregularity of the trains on the N. C. railroad and its connections are to some extent injurious to the Exposition. This is specially true as to the eastern bound train, which is frequently an hour or so behind time, causing a misconnection, and consequent detention of passengers too, to the mails is very annoying.

BARBECUE AT THE EXPOSITION. The committee having in charge the barbecue to be given at the Exposition grounds on November 11th, in honor of the Fifth Maryland-regiment, have met with great success in the matter of contributions, and funds necessary for a big affair have been secured. An effort will be made to have, at least, three or four companies of our State Guard present, so that the occasion may rank as a "mil itary love feast," The soldier element usually draws, especially when accompanied by substantials for the inner

Your correspondent has every reason to believe. from interviews with leading gentlemen, that the address will be such, in tone and sentiment, as to cause even the most persistent demagogues to take back seats.

COL. POLK IN THE CITY. Col. Polk is in the city to-day. He seems to be an "enigma" the solution of which is hard to decipher. His Elizabeth City speech abounds with the usual non-committal doctrine of "ifs" and "ands," which puzzles the average politicians. In fact, Polk and "Polk's methods" seem to constitute the feature of "unrest" of which Gov. Jarvis so fluently spoke at the late consultation.

COUNDED IN 1864 by the present executive—27 YEARS of continuous and successful management—increased annual attendance—Now occupying four buildings—Stands unrivaled in facilities for educating YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN for success in life. In deciding upon a school for their children, PARENTS should send them to THE BEST, because it pays. If may require the expenditure of a few dollar more at first, but it will prove the cheapest in the end. CHEAP tuition is very dear, because it means cheap teachers, cheap surroundings, interior facilities, and offers NO opportunities for securing POSITIONS for its pupils and graduates. This institution, owing to its HICH standard of excellence, has placed in desirable positions more young men and women from Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, than all similar institution. lina and Georgia, than all similar institutions combined.
