NEW MARKETS FOR AMERICAN PRODUCTS.

When Mr. Blaine implored the framers of the McKinley tariff bill to incorporate his reciprocity feature into it, his purpose was to open up new markets for American products by offering inducements to other countries to purchase American products. The fact that Mr. Blame did this and contended so stoutly for it showed that he appreciated the necessity for new markets much more than the framers of that bill did, al though the method he proposed was but a short step in that direction, and had but little effect in neutralizing the handicapping results of the Mc Kinley tariff.

High tariffs have played a conspicuous part in closing the ports of countries which were large purchases of American foodstuffs, and the result has been an agricultural depression in this country, until the calling of the farmer, which should be one of the best, has become one in which there is little encouragement, and but little prospect of profit. Some farmers make money, but they are those who devote themselves to the cultivation of specialties, or pursue methods that put the cost of produc tion down to a very low figure.

The farmers of this country raise, under normal conditions, enough in two years to supply the needs of home consumers for three years, which means a surplus of every third year's crop. There can never be real prosperity while there is a large surplus on hand, for a large surplus means low prices, unless there be an extraordinary foreign demand to clean the surplus up. The buyer in this and in other countries takes advantage of a surplus to cut prices, and the farmer, who is generally in need of money, must take the conse quences, for the necessities of most of them compel them to sell whether the prices offered be remunerative or

When this country produces ordinarily one-third more than it can consume then there are but two ways to prevent a glut. One is to reduce production to limits within the demand, the other is to find new markets that may take the surplus, or more, and thus prevent the glut. The first of these is not altogether practicable because it requires the concerted action of too many people, even if they could all be pursuaded to see it in that light, and even with concert of action it might not always prove effective, because with favoring seasons a reduced acreage might yield a larger product than a larger acreage under less favoring conditions. Reduction of production might be practicable in some years in a limited territory, raising crops peculiar to to it, but it can never become general, or be systematically carried, out in a country as large as the United States. But the second is practicable, and can be carried out without any concert of action between large numbers of men, whom it would be necessary to persuade without any assurance that they would follow up any plan agreed upon and carry it out in good faith after being persuaded.

There is but one new market within the reach of the American producer, but it is a magnificent one of unbounded possibilities. It is to of Debs and his counsel without be found among the 800,000,000 of making heroes out of them by going people who live between and on both sides of the Pacific Ocean. This would be to all intents and purposes a new market, for we have with these countries comparatively little trade now. We buy from them much more than they buy from us, not because they do not want to buy from us but because there extirpating the Russian thistle, is a barrier in the way which which has taken possession of a makes direct and cheap transportation impossible. If this were removed and the way opened for quick and cheap transportation between this country and those there would be a demand for American farm products that would not only take the surplus but immensely more.

Senator Morgan, published in last week's Manufacturers' Record, by ex-Governor Hubbard, of Texas, who during Mr. Cleveland's first adminislates on the possibilities of the growth of American trade with the done by the States and the people countries of the Orient when the directly interested. Literally speak-Nicaragua Canal is constructed and ing this would be the correct posiopens a short route between our tion, but this is an exceptional case, ports and theirs. He had frequent and this thistle which has already nterviews with the representatives of the Japanese Government, and with the Chinese Minister to Japan, and represents the interest which they then took in the project so keen that they gave him assurances that if this Government would guarantee the interest on the bonds issued to construct it capitalists in those countries would take $100,000,000, or $500,000,000, if necessary, so anxious were they to open up direct trade with this country and escape the commercial thraldom to which they were subjected by England, and they also assured him that within one year after the completion of the canal they would take 3,000,000 bales of American cotton and pay for it one and three-quarter cents a pound more than English buyers pay

As a result of his investigations and conferences with these representative Japanese and Chinese, he believes that with this canal open instead of 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 bales being the limit of remunerative production the South could profitably raise, as trade increased with these countries, 20,000,000 bales, while they would afford a market also for other Southern products and immense quantities of Western grain and meat, which would be shipped by the way of Southern ports.

The more we study this question and its possibilities, the more convinced we are that the policy of American statesmanship should be to look to the East and get there through the Nicaragua Canal.

MINOR MENTION.

It would be a very easy matter to bring charges enough against Eugene V. Debs and his associates, now in jail, to send them to prison for the remainder of their days, or perhaps to the gallows, if they were pushed and sustained, for there is not a railroad which crosses State lines, which was interfered with which could not become a prosecutor on complaint of its own, as the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe road, which is in the hands of a United States receiver, has done. But this should not be. There should be no disposition shown to persecute these men, now that they have fallen into the hands of the law, and the Government should not permit itself to be put in the attitude of even indirectly being a party to that, and making heroes out of Debs and his associates, while it convicts them as criminals. It has demonstrated its ability to maintain the law, and now all that is necessary is to convince law-defiers that they cannot defy it with impunity, which can be done in this case, if there be conviction, by a moderate penalty as well as by one that might wear the appearance of cruelty or persecution. There will be no difficulty in convicting Debs and his council of contempt of complicity with the mob, which was destroying life and property. The first two can be established by overt acts and the last by orders issued to the strikers in the stock yards by Debs. When dead cattle began to accumulate in the Chicago stock yards, imperilling the public health, Mayor Hopkins requested Mr. Debs to permit their removal, whereupon he issued the following:

"EUGENE V. DEBS, President." This order was obeyed, and this, the original of which is in possession of the U.S. District Attorney, will be used as evidence to show the connection between the head center and the rioters, who recognized its authority and obeyed its orders. There is enough to make an example out to extremes.

Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota, succeeded, Tuesday, in getting his amendment to the Agricultural Appropriation bill adopted. appropriating $1,000,000, or as much of it as might be necessary, to aid in large extent of territory in the Northwest, is spreading there, and is rapidly spreading Eastward and Southward. The vote was somewhat remarkable. Every vote for it, with the exception of four, was a Republican vote, and every vote. against it a Democratic vote, and In a letter recently addressed to yet it was not a party question. It was carried by the votes of the tour Democrats who voted for it. The Democratic opposition was on the ground that extirpating weeds was tration was Minister to Japan, he di- no part of the business of the Government, and that this should be gotten such a start that it is in possession of thirty-five thousand square miles, is threatening the public welfare and becoming a menace to the farms of the country. It is lengthening the radius of the circle it holds several miles a year, and has shown its presence in localities as far east as Wisconsin and as far south as Nebraska. It is an exceedingly difficult pests to cope with, is very tenacious of life, a prolific seed bearer, and scatters its seed far and wide. It has destroyed millions of acres of farming lands in Russia, and unless heroic measures be adopted to suppress it, it is feared it will do the same in this country. But this does not account for the large Republican vote Senator Hansbrough's amendment received. There was politics in that, for the people of the thistle States are pretty solidly in favor of the appropriation. But it will probably be killed in the House.

The first strike on record occurred in Rome 300 years B. C. It was a strike of the flute players who got miffed because they were refused permission to participate in a banquet in Jupiter's temple. They struck and the Romans couldn't get any wind for their religious celebrations which were in progress about that time. That was a bad state of affairs, but the flute players who had gone to the village of Tibur were bamboozled into filling up on wine, and when good boozy were huddled into carts and wheeled back to Rome, where they compromised with them and gave them permission to participate in the banquets on condition that they would play at the sacrifices. So the first strike turned out better than most strikes do now lesult of the Election Held Yesterday for Delegates to the County Convention to Assemble in Wilmington Next Satur-

The Democratic primary elections yesterday absorbed the attention of nearly everybody in the city. Great interest was manifested by the supporters of the two tickets in the field for delegates to the county convention, which meets Saturday, and the excitement at times reached a high pitch. But everything passed off pleasantly.

The most remarkable result, probably, ever known here, is that in the Fifth Ward, which is entitled to 21 delegates. Of these the Reform Democrats elected 13, their vote ranging from 201 to 199; the Regular Democrats elected 6, their vote ranging from 200 to 199, and 14 delegates tied on a vote of 198. So, only 19 delegates are elected, and the question arises, what is to be done about the other 2 delegates in order to give the Ward its full representation of 21 delegates.

Presumably, this question will have to be settled by the County Convention, if an agreement cannot be reached by the Ward delegation.

THE FIRST WARD. elected the following delegates to the BURGAW, July 14. EDITOR STAR :- The Democratic primary of Burgaw township was held here to-day. There was quite a good crowd of Democrats, interspersed with a few Populists and a few of those who are on the fence; the two latter no doubt expecting to hear the Populists villified and ridiculed. But there was no disturbing element upon the placid waters of the political sea, and everything passed off quietly. The following gentlemen were chosen delegates to the County Convention which assembles here on the 21st inst. : J. T. Bland, J G. Stokes, W. D. Croom, W. T. Bordeaux and G. F. Jordan. There is very little said with regard to candidates for the different offices. Mr. Bruce Williams and Gibson James, Esq., are most prominently spoken of for the Legislature. Both of these gentlemen would make good representatives and would carry the strength of the Democratic party.

BOILER EXPLOSION

At the Eccleson-Parmale Lumber Associa tion Mills-Three Men Killed and One Man Fatally Injured.

A boiler explosion occurred last Satirday night between twelve and one clock, at the steam saw mills of the Eccleson & Parmale Lumber Association, Jacksonville, N.C. Three employes-Tony McCann, Sherman Edwards and Ned Johnson, colored, were instantly killed. and Gus Daniels, colored, another employe, was so badly scalded by escaping steam that he died yesterday. Tony McCann was the fireman, and the others mentioned were his assistants. The boiler, weighing six tons, was found after the explosion about one thousand feet from the mill. The other boilers three in number, were intact, but the four smokestacks were completely wrecked, and it will take six weeks to repair the damage to the mill. A pine tree, two feet in diameter, was cut down by the explosion. McCann and two of the others killed, were from Wilmington. The engineer of the mill was not present when the accident occurred.

CONDITION OF BUSINESS:

No Material Change on Account of th Disturbances in the West. The annexed extract from the Philadelphia Record's review of trade for the past week is interesting:

Any recovery in general business during the last week has been prevented by the distrust and hesitancy necessarily inseparable from the disturbed conditions caused by the great labor strikes in the West. The physical obstructions to trade have been less serious, as with the suppression of mob violence the railroad companies have made considerable progress in the restoration of normal facilities for transportation. The actual interruption of the freight movement and the temporary check to shipments caused by the withholding of orders in fear of delays or losses, have combined to reduce the volume of new business not only in the localities affected by the strike, but throughout the country. The trouble is now practically over, although the effects of the losses entailed by the destruction of property and by the stoppage of the earnings of the railroad companies and their employes are certain to be felt for some time to dome. Other features o the business situation show little change. Crop conditions, as a rule, are encouraging, particularly for cotton and Winter wheat. The Stock Exchange markets have been much better supported than might have been expected in view of the strikes and the comparative apathy of speculation. Very little gold has been exported, and the outflow is not expected to be renewed now that the labor difficulties have been practically settled. Merchandise exports have continued moderate, and from New York alone for two werks have been $1,252,828 less than they were during the corresponding period last year; while imports, pending final legislation on the Tariff continue to show a comparative decrease of about 40 per cent. Huckleberry Cake. NEW YORK BUTTER MARKET.

Arrival of Delayed Stock Depresses Prices The New York Journal of Commerce gives the following review of the wholesale butter market:

Received to-day, 8 386 pkgs. Most of the delayed stock has now come forward, and with the strikes practically over and the railroads receiving freight again as usual, the large accumulations West will be promptly forwarded, and very heavy receipts expected during next week, and buyers are naturally holding off, the market presenting a very dull and holiday-like appearance, with prices weak and unsettled. Some holders are not inclined to urge sales of fancy fresh creamery below 171/20, but others are freely offering at 17c, and not attracting any attention at that. Under grades of creamery are almost entirely neglected, and prices little more than nominal at the moment. State dairy butter is in moderate supply, but the feeling weaker in sympathy with the general depression. Imitation creamery very slow and prices weaker and irregular. Fresh factory has has had a few sales to dealers in bakers' supplies and for South American packng trade, and one exporter has shown a ittle interest and reported to have taken about 500 pkgs, but it was not shipped this week. All of the above business was within a range of 111/0121/c.

A STRONG TESTIMONIAL.

during his short acquaintance.

What a Leading Educator Thinks of th American Encyclopædic Dictionary, The high standing of Capt. Washingon Catlett, Principal of the Cape Fear Academy, both as a scholar and an educator, gives a real value to the annexed testimonial: WILMINGTON, April 11, 1894.

MR. W. H. BERNARD: Dear Sir:-I have examined very carefully the 1st Part of the American Encyclopædic Dictionary. I am really surprised at the excellence of the work, both for its intrinsic merit and its price. have made a parallel comparison with Webster's Unabridged; and with the Century, published also in parts, costing me $2.50 per volume; or, complete, $60. I find the American Encyclopædic Dictionary superior in many respects to purposes equal to the Century. The type is distinct and full, the illusrations numerous, the derivation of words scholarly and accurate, the definitions exceedingly complete and verified by many extracts from leading modern authors, the encyclopædic information very full, the diacritical marks plain, with prominent equivalents at bottom of I unhesitatingly endorse the First Part of this Dictionary as meeting the requirements of the scholar and filling the wants of the general reader and man of business needing general information in a compact and reliable presentation. No one need fear that his money will be misspent, who invests in this work.

> Yours truly. WASHINGTON CATLETT.

Specimen Cases.

S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, his Stomach was disordered, his Liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric bitters cured him. Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill. had a running sore on his leg of eight year's standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawba, O., had five large Fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by R. R. BELLAMY'S Drug Store.
