Have you received a bill for subscription to the WEEKLY STAR recently? If so, is it correct? If correct, why not pay it? Is there a man on earth who can print a newspaper for nothing, and pay the postage besides? Can a farmer give away his corn, and cotton, and wheat, and carckens, and eggs, and keep out of the poor-house? If so, let us have the recipe. It will be valuable to us just now.

DOES FARMING PAY?

The question "Does farming pay?" has been asked so often in this country, North and South, that it has become a stereotyped one. It depends very much, and almost altogether, on how it is done whether it pays or not. Like any other business it must be conducted intelligently and with thrift, aud when this is done it will pay. There are men who make it pay while many around them drag along and come out at the end of the year very little better off if not worse than they began it, but these men understand their business and farm instead of making a pretence of farming. We know farmers in this State who have succeeded and become independent, when scores of others in the same neighborhood with substantially the same kind of land have failed, simply because the one farmed right and the other

What intelligent culture and thrift will do on the farm is shown by the following statement of the product, cost and profit of a one-horse farm, for which Col. M. McRae, of Robeson county, was awarded the premium at the Border Exposition of the Carolinas, held at Maxton Oct. 31st and Nov. 1st and 2d:

Net profit $781 17 Here is a net profit of $731.17 as low as the price of cotton is, on a one-horse farm. The secret of the profit will be found, outside of thrifty management, in the diversified crops every one of which added to the increase and profit of the worker. If he had confined himself to cotton he could have made no such satisfactory exhibit as this, however hard he might have worked or well he might have managed.

According to the law of the Ashantees the King shan't have more than 3,333 wives. These wives have a street all to themselves and no man save the King dare look at any of them at the peril of his life, which is forfeited even if he sees one of them by accident.

About 75,000 women voted in the recent election in Colorado. Most of them voted against Gov. Waite. They were afraid he might take a notion some time to ride around in blood up to the bridle bit. That kind of bridal business isn't popular with the women.

Li Hung Chang, or the other fellow in China who corralled the Chinese fleet in Port Arthur just in time to let the Japanese squadron close the gate, ought to lose all his feathers and jackets, too.

Commenting on the statement by Ambassador Bayard that in all his sojourning in England he had never heard a story that would offend the most delicate ear, the London Globe suggests that this may be due to Mr. Bayard's deafness.

That was a ruthless pick-pocket who in Nashville took advantage of Senator Harris' unsophisticated innocence and nibbed his gold watch, the only one he had.

On its face, it would be difficult to determine the meaning of the decision of the Board of Canvassers, printed elsewhere, so far as the case of Mr. French is concerned; but it is supposed, from statements made by some of the members, that they were divided on the question of Mr. French's eligibility, but that a majority thought that question ought to be determined by the Legislalure.

modest and much-maligned North Caro-

The law requires the Board of Canvassers to decide who is legally elected to each office, to sign the returns, and to proclaim the result at the Court House door; and the outcome will probably be that a majority of the Board will to day declare Mr. French legally elected, while a minority will refuse to concur in this action and will sign a protest to be forwarded to Raleigh. At least, this is the clearest statement of the situation that the STAR can give under the circumstances, and is based on statements made by members of the Board.

Mr. Neil has some reputation as a cotton statistician, but if he stakes it on the foregoing estimate it will all be lost on one turn. It is not likely that the cotton crop will be so large as Mr. Neil predicts; but if it is, it will be a bad thing for the Pop-Replican party, as it would convert five-cent cotton into four-cent cotton, and thus spoil all their claims of better times under their benignant rule.

MACON, GA., November 8.-Lee Lawrence, a negro, who assaulted a Mrs. Polk in Jasper county a few weeks ago, and had been caught in Caltyon county and brought to this city for safe-keeping, was carried to Monticello this morning. He was tried at the September term of the Superior Court and sentenced to be hanged November 30. The neighbors of the injured woman were not satisfied. however, and taking the negro from the officers, carried him to the outskirts of the town and hanged him, riddling his body with bullets. Lawrence's crime was a very aggravated one, as he subected his victim to nameless indignities and stabbed her because he said she was not submissive. Under orders from the Governor one of the local military companies was held in readiness to go to Monticello, but later they were notified that their services were not needed as the lynching had already taken place.

ROCKY MOUNT FAIR

and Running Baces, [Star Correspondence.]

ROCKY MOUNT, Nov. 10. Yesterday closed the Fair. The crowd in attendance was not very large -about 2,500 to 3,000 were on the grounds Thursday. The Fair was a success, notwithstanding the dull times and the low price of cotton. There being no money in the country, prevented many from attending. Congratulations can be extended to the management for the success of the occasion.

The agricultural exhibit was very good, indeed, but small. Specimens from the farm were very good and some things extra fine. In the musical department four or five planos were on exibition and things were lively; beautiful ladies vieing with each other as to who shall play the best, and it was hard to distinguish which was the best per-

In the Floral Hall were some of th prettiest ladies' handiwork ever exhibited; it really was exquisite and greatly admired by all who saw the exhibits. In the Art Department was a fine display of many handsome oil paintings and beautiful crayon work.

The pantry supplies were very fine and showed the superiority of domestic work to store goods.

The racing was very fine, and some of the finest running ever seen on the The low price of cotton and Main's big circus here a few weeks previous (taking away a good deal of money) had very material effect in lessening the attendance. MARKETED RAPIDLY.

Cotton Picking in the Pee Dee Section

Nearly Over-Most of the Crop Sold. A correspondent of the News and Courier, writing from Dilton, S. C., says: I have just completed a canvass of Marion, Marlboro, Chesterfield, Darlington, Florence and Horry counties, and never before have I seen the cotton crop so nearly harvested at this season of the vear. I talked with a number of farmers in these counties and the consensus of opinion was that 90 per cent. of the crop had been gathered, and that it had been sold as fast as ginned.

One of the largest buyers at Bennetts-ville said that he had never seen the farmers hold so little cotton as they were holding this season, and that he believed that 85 per cent, of the Marlboro crop had been sold by November 1. An old farmer said to me that he had never seen the crop open so early nor labor more satisfactory in gathering it. One of the largest and most successful planters in the Little Rock section sold about half of this year's crop before the price got below six cents. These facts are given in support of the advice you gave the farmers some time ago to hold their cotton. The farmer who sells cotton at prevailing prices, unless forced to do so to meet his obligations, is throwing away

Raleigh and Augusta Air Line, The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad was held at the office of the company in Raleigh Thursday. Mr. Moncure Robinson and Mr. Charles Chancey, of Philadelphia; Mr. R. C. Hoffman, of Baltimore; Mr. W. W. Chamber ain and John H. Sharp, of Norfolk; Judge Leigh W. Watts, of Portsmouth, were in attendcity and State-two-thirds of the stockholders of the company were present in person, or by proxy. The annual report of the president and directors was read and was satisfactory. The business of the road suffered from the general depression of business in the country during the past year. The old by-laws of the company were repealed, and new ones adopted.
