Schools.-It is pleasant to note the increase in the number of Schools of high grade throughout the State, and especially in our own neighborhood. The readers of the Observer on Monday last could scarcely fail to note the large number advertised. In addition to others previously inserted, there were notices of no less than six inserted for the first time on that day.

There are now advertised in the Observer "The Oxford Grammar School," conducted by Mr. J. $20 00 H. Horner; "Rockingham Academy," by Messrs. D. W. & J. M. Johnson; the "Mt. There are many schools under the care of the Conference. We notice in the proceedings, as the Kansas-Nebraska Law. CRUEL PROSCRIPTION .- Of all the forms as sumed by the detestable principle of proscription on account of political opinions, which was fastened upon the country by Gen. Jackson, the most cruel is that practised by the Republican Commissioners of the Central Park in New York. The city employs many hundred laborers and mechanics in work upon the great Park about to be opened there, and the Commissioners in charge of it have catechised all applicants for work as to their nolitical opinions, and refused work to all who were not Republicans. In the present condition of the poor laboring people of that city, this is outrageous. Yet so little is it regarded there-so accusthat the Commissioners boldly and unblushingly admitted the fact. The life of the deceased exhibited a rare combinaion of every good and ennobling quality of mind and neart. As a friend, she was sincere and affectionate; as a wife, devoted and obedient; as a mother, loving nd faithful; as a Christian, earnest and truthful; in leed in every relation of life, she was excellent and rue. Society has lost an ornament; her friends, a sattern; her household, an angel. In a long and pain-ul illness, she illustrated the beautiful perfection of ner character, by gentleness, patience and resignation. She was not afraid to die, but calmly and quietly, while yet she had strength, prepared for the change No claim of duty or affection was forgotten; and when all was done, full of courage, thankfulness and faith, with a heart overflowing with love to God and man, she gently quitted the earth to take her place in Heaven.
