What Becomes of the Newspapers?-The Newburyport Herald has the following inquiry and calculation, which is quite as interesting to the general public as the inquiry, "What becomes of all the pins?" It says: "There are published in this country and Canada nearly three thousand newspapers. More than one half are weekly; the remainder are divided into semi-weeklies, tri-weeklies, and dailies. These papers would more than reach around the globe. We have sometimes heard it asked, how high would all these journals reach, if piled on the top of each other, just the thickness of one sheet. Some have answered, a thousand feet; others two thousand; others a mile. But all are wide of the mark. The newspapers published north of the southern line of the United States are nearly five times higher than the Mount, Blanc in Europea mountain which overlooks a circle whose diameter is four hundred miles. "Paper printed upon cannot be ground over "Paper printed upon cannot be ground over and made anew. Printer's ink spoils paper for wilmington. Wilmington for New York.

"New York for Wilmington. Wilmington for New York."

"New York for Wilmington. Wilmington for New York."

"Paper printed upon cannot be ground over and made anew. Printer's ink spoils paper for re-manufacture, and the great amount of paper which enters into public journals after being which enters into public journals after being perused is not bound up and laid aside, as it should be, for future reference, but goes to waste. A portion is used for wrapping paper, but, sad as is the reflection, newspapers, containing so much that has cost mind-labor, sleepless nights and weary days, goes to waste—'hurries on to indis-tinct decay.' Let each one, after reading these figures, do his own moralizing."

A Dark Country .- The London correspondent of the National Intelligencer writes on the 28th

"If Richard Third's question to his officers on the day of the battle of Bosworth, " Who saw the sun to-day?" had been asked generally of the people of England every day during the months of May and June-when the sky is poetically said to be full of sunshine and the earth covered with AND E. J. HALE & SON, FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. flowers-the answer would generally have been, as it was to King Richard, "Not I." About three inches more rain has already fallen during these two months than does in the average of seasons and the consequent want of sunshine and general warmth has had a most unfavorable effect upon the crops of grass and grain."

Benedict Arnold and the Law of Libel .- Everett, in the thirty-ninth number of his Mount Vernon Letters, says of Arnold: "I cannot refrain from repeating another anec lote of him, recorded by Mr. Sabine, which throws a dismal light upon the repute in which it was held where it might be kindly viewed. After the revolutionary war, he established himself in some sort of business at St. John, New Brunswick. which was principally settled by American loyalists. His workhouse and the merchandise being tully insured, were destroyed by fire, and Arnold was charged in a newspaper with having himself MONTETH and FRANCIS McNALLY. (The standard of New Orleans, New York, Buffalo, Milwaukes, Newark, ance, which was largely beyond the value of the ance, which was largely beyond the value of the property. He prosecuted the publisher of the paper The National Series of School Histories. By for libel, laid the damages at thousands, and recovered by the verdict of the jury two and sixpence! Such was the estimate formed by a St.

John jury of his probity." The war of the Dictionaries has taken a new The National Series of School Readers and form. In view of the criticisms to the disparage-Spellers. By RICHARD G. PARKER and JAMES M. ment of Webster, the publishers of that work have warson. Recommended wherever they are known as the most beautiful and the most practical Readers and the number of words in Worcester and Webster, respectively. According to their showing, there are 140,056 words in Webster, and 132,406 in Worcester; being a difference of 7,650 in favor of the former. Not content with this, the number of ems of printed matter in both works have been Brookfield's First Book in Composition. For Be-14,747,352; Worcester 13,273,532. Those who are partial to statistics will be edified by this information, the publication of which does not in the least affect the question of the comparative value of the two Dictionaries. A Western paper, chronicling the lamentable occurrence of a staging attached to a church being blown down, very feelingly says: "We are happy to state that over twenty persons were brought suddenly to the ground safe, and one man, Mr. Wilkins, got his neck broke. Mr. W. was an estimable young man, and the father of a good many children, besides a large farm well stocked. He was fatally injured." A ludicrous story is told of a New York postmaster. When the news of Douglas' nomination reached his town, he and his friends brought out the big gun to fire a salute. They had got about half through the allotted number of discharges, when a messenger from the telegraph office inform-McIntyre's (of Balt. High School) Astronomy ed them that the Seceders had nominated Breckinridge. "Indeed have they!" said the postmaster Standing a moment in a brown study, he shouted. "Boys! there's no knowing into whose hands we
