A Legal Argument.—In the good times now gone, Johnse Hooper reported the following case, the speech in which he pronounced to be the greatest he ever heard. Its logic is certainly as exhaustive as Abe Lincoln's:

A fellow was indicted up in the Old Ninth, when Tom G—t was solicitor, for gambling, to wit: playing "short cards," at a certain locality known as Frog Level. Col. —— defended him, and contended before the jury that though the State's evidence "tended" to show that his client, with a bottle of liquor in his pocket, accompanied the crowd, who, it was shown, did actually play, yet it never did, with actual certainty, locate him as one of the players. Said he, by way of peroration:

"Gentlemen of the jury, the witness have told you that Peter Wyatt was thar, and a playing; for he noticed his hand and it was a full on queens. Harry Snow was thar, and he war a playing, for he hilt two little par. William Upson was thar, and he played; cause witness noticed in particular that he had nothin' but an ace. Bill Conner was thar, and he played, gentlemen; and he had the bully hand—four high-heeled jacks!

"But, gentlemen, when I come to ask him about Abraham Pitkin, my client's hand, what did he say, gentlemen? Why nothing, gentlemen, except that if Abe hilt any hand, he disremembered what was in it.

"And now, gentlemen of the jury, because my client was seen going down to Frog Level with a bottle of liquor in his pocket, and the witness can't remember as he hilt any hand at all, when bully hands was out, and him the best player in the crowd, is that—is that, I say, gentlemen of the jury—is that any reason that my client was guilty of the crime of gamboling?"

Getting a Family.—A German named Hoeflich, residing five miles west of La Crescent, was married in Portage, in November, 1860, to a healthy German girl. The week after they married they moved to Minnesota, on the farm which they now occupy. In August 1861 Mrs. Hoeflich gave birth to three boys, two of whom lived. In June, 1862, she gave birth to three boys and a girl, two of the boys and the girl living. On the 5th of this month she gave birth to two girls and a boy, all of whom were, as late as Tuesday of this week, alive and well. Ten children in less time than three years is pretty good, even for this vicinity. The parents are proud of their success in the family line, and point with pleasure to their company of German infantry. Government cannot afford to draft the head of that family.

"I'll Rest when I get Home."—While I was walking through a street in the city of ——, a few days ago, I passed a man whose head was white and body bowed by the hardship of not less than sixty years. His limbs trembled under their heavy burden, and with much apparent effort he advanced but slowly. I overheard him talking in a low and subdued voice, evidently mourning over his weariness and poverty. Suddenly his tone changed, and his step quickened, as he exclaimed, "I'll rest when I get home."

Even the thought of rest filled him with new life, so that he pursued with energy his weary way. To me it was a lesson. If the thought of the refreshing rest of home encourage the careworn laborer, so that, almost unmindful of fatigue and burdens, he quickens his step homeward, surely the Christian, journeying heavenward, in view of such a rest, should press onward, with renewed vigor.

This little incident often comes to mind amid the perplexing labor of the day, and stimulates me to more constant and earnest effort. Each laborer toiling in his Master's vineyard, bearing the heat and burden of the day, can say, "I'll rest when I get home." Here let us be diligent in the services of our Lord, remembering that our rest is above. Fellow traveler, are your burdens grievous to be borne, so that you are ready to faint in the way? Jesus says, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." To rest from toil is sweet; to rest from sin is heaven.—Christian Miscellany.

The Christian Soldier.—The Rev. A. W. Mangum of Goldsboro, N. C., in a letter to the North Carolina Christian Advocate, speaks of the death of two Confederate soldiers at the Hospital in Gettysburg. He says:

"One of them, when told by the physician that he must die, spoke eloquently to the comrades who gathered around him. It was a touching scene. It must have been a terrible ordeal to him and yet he made it magnificent—he made it victory. Far from home—in a land of foes—in the midst of strangers—a captive, wounded, suffering, dying. What were his words? "I am sorry that I must die before our independence is gained; but it will be gained if we fight on and put our confidence in God. We have fought together on the battle-field; let us meet together in Heaven!"

This was grand. Such scenes alone can display the sublimity of a christian hero's spirit. Sergt. Stegar sleeps in his grave at Gettysburg, but he built his monument before he died.

Another young soldier, when dying, exclaimed, "All is well," and became speechless. When asked, "are you happy and are you prepared to die," he could only nod his head—that was enough. Perhaps it was a salute to the swift angels that greeted him.
