

THE WILMINGTON POST

WILMINGTON, N. C., JULY 1, 1899.

A CONTENTED LIFE.

(At Thirty.)
Five hundred dollars I have saved—
A rather moderate store.
No matter; I shall be content
When I've a little more.

(At Forty.)
Well, I can count ten thousand now—
That's better than before;
And I may well be satisfied
When I've a little more.

(At Fifty.)
Some fifty thousand—pretty well.
But I have earned it sore.
However, I shall not complain
When I've a little more.

(At Sixty.)
One hundred thousand—sick and old.
Ah! life is half a bore.
Yet I can be content to live
When I've a little more.

(At Seventy.)
He dies—and to his greedy heirs
He leaves a countless store.
His wealth has purchased him a tomb—
And very little more.

Colored Men Stand by the Republican Party.—Remarks of Hon. A. H. Galloway, delivered in the City Hall, Wilmington, N. C.

THURSDAY, May 13th, 1899.
MR. PRESIDENT:—If I understand the resolutions just read they propose to put some very severe, and in my opinion, unjust strictures upon certain parties. I wish, in the beginning of whatever remarks I propose to make, to say here now, and have it understood for all time to come, that I brand some portions of them as being untrue, and other portions unjust, unparliamentary and beyond any precedent heretofore established in any Convention, Committee, or Meeting, I ever mingled in.

It seems to be the disposition of the Committee who reported these resolutions to drive them through with a rush, but sir, I believe I can prove to this intelligent audience that there are breakers ahead, and that it is best to make haste very slowly.

Mr. President, to pass these resolutions without giving the accused party a hearing (though I cannot conceive wherein the meeting is to prove effectual, except to doom the callers to their political graves) would be in itself a very untoward way of transacting business.

Sir, every man whom you seek to injure by your resolutions is a Republican—and were Republicans long ere any negro in this hall had his freedom. (Applause.) They are Northern men—and they came here when circumstances would admit of their coming. They found you, sir, this meeting and myself slaves; they have remained with us; they have fought the good fight, and together we have achieved a more glorious victory than the most hopeful ever dreamed of. (Applause.) It was these men whom these resolutions would attempt to insult that have, shoulder to shoulder, worked with the negro to place him where he stands to-day, and now we find that some of the very men whom they have done so much for are (I so call it) stabbing them in the back, and for what? I do not know, but I can suppose, that somebody wants an office, and they commenced their appliance by this indignation (so called meeting.)

Mr. President and Fellow Citizens: It is a source of regret to me that such a meeting as this has been called. I fear not the damage it will do to the Republican party, because that will not be worth a passing notice; but, sir, I tremble to think that black men who were yesterday chaffed property and to-day men, should be here this evening to prove how ungrateful they were for the favors extended by the Republican party.—There is not a colored man in this State who can afford to remove one grain of the foundation of the Republican party. There is not a black man in the State who does not owe his freedom to that party, and what do we place ahead of the gift of freedom? Why is one section of those resolutions so severe upon Mr. French? What is his crime? What has he done to be censured for? Why is he to be ostracized? Why is he to be singled out and held up here with such scorn and mean contempt? But I can answer these questions. I presume it is because Mr. French has done so much towards the internal improvement of the State, and probably because he fought for the school bill, and probably some of the parties who were instrumental in the calling of this meeting were jealous because Mr. French had for a long time proven how worthy he was to be one of the leaders of the party; and I presume they have forgotten that he has never spared either pains or money for the forward march of the Republican cause here in North Carolina. And so it is with the other gentlemen who are mentioned—they have alike done their whole duty toward consummating the work. But there is something else about the Committee's report which demands of me all the rebuke I can possibly give. It says that E. J. Pennypacker has acted in such a way as to forfeit the esteem, confidence and respect heretofore reposed in him by the Republican party, and to make this a live subject let me add that you, sir, as presiding officer of the meeting, denounced Captain Pennypacker as not being entitled to such a lucrative office. Now just let us for one moment ask what is the necessity for such strictures?—The gentleman aimed at, Captain Pennypacker, has been a strict Republican, is now, and there are none present who would doubt that. He has been a soldier in the glorious cause, and had the first claim for official patronage, which is the policy of our government, and it was being duly carried out by General Grant as well as by our Executive Governor Holden. (Applause.)

Mr. President: I said a moment since that this meeting would do no good that I knew of, but at the same time it is a good opportunity to show up some of the ingratitude of persons, and I would if I thought the occasion worthy of it, enter into a detailed statement of hidden facts, which if this audience knew, they would frown down both the authors and object of this meeting. I have confidence in my people and I trust to their integrity, intelligence, and I trust they will be as charitable as is consistent with the circumstances that surround the occasion.

Fellow citizens: Forget not that one year ago to day not a black man in the State held an office. Look and see where you stand to-day. You have a representation in each branch of the State government and in all offices of trust, honor and profit, where they were competent, colored men were occupying positions. Will you look right here in your own city, where there was in everything in the shape of office, an equal division of the spoils. (Applause.) But every man could not have an office, for there were not enough offices for all the applicants, and to the disappointed parties he could only say, abide your time.

Through the Republican party seventy-five thousand men in the State were made a part of the body politic, and by that party were they denominated citizens and through the principles of that party, could colored men still expect benefits, privileges, and immunities, and I hope never to see the day when the negro will be tardy in his support to that party and its vital principles.

I am looking for the rising generation, for if they fail then the cause so far as it pertains to us is dead. I care not for the living present, but there must be a deep foundation laid for the coming generation, and if those of us who are denominated leaders do nothing to advance their cause, who will do it?

Tickets will be sent anywhere in the United States at the Company's risk upon the receipt of $2 and postage stamp.

The plan of drawing shall be as follows: there shall be two wheels, one a prize wheel and one a number wheel, arranged in some public place in the city, where any one holding a ticket may be present on the day of drawing. In the number wheel there shall be 73,347 tickets, corresponding in number to those which have been sold. In the prize wheel there shall be 3,000 tickets. These tickets will be deposited in the wheels by a board of supervisors, who shall be appointed by the Directors, after which the wheel shall be sealed up and placed in the bank in this city, until the time of drawing, when the supervisors shall bring them to the place of drawing, break the seals and the drawing shall be disposed of by taking a ticket from each wheel at the same time, and the prize taken from the prize wheel shall designate the prize drawn by the ticket corresponding in number to the one taken from the wheel at the same time. The wheel shall be well shaken after each ticket is drawn.

The supervisors will be gentlemen well known and noted for honesty and integrity, who will not be allowed to purchase tickets or own any stock in the Company. The numbers and prizes will be drawn from each wheel by two blind boys will be published in some prominent newspaper immediately after the drawing.
