

Southward Ho!

Intelligence from all sources reach us of the concentrating of European attention upon the fair fields of our Southern land, and soon may we be able to repeat much more properly than if the rebellion had succeeded, Southward—the star of empire takes its course. But a little more patient labor on the part of those patriotic men enlisted in the diffusion of knowledge with reference to our greater material advantages than any other section of the country; but a few more months of continuous effort on the part of our immigrant agents and writers on the subject of "land for the million," and all our extended coast will team with the hum of debarking thousands. We predict for the fall and coming winter an activity among our South Atlantic and Gulf ports such as never seemed possible since the speculative days of '37 and '38 when we were all to grow rich and even swamps and everglades in Florida were laid out in village lots! No great financial convulsions can overset our plans—and the people of the South may soon find in the busy hum of trade and the awakened spirit of enterprise sufficient attraction and profit to permit no time to be wasted in party strife and bickerings over paltry offices never to be wished for had the work of reconstruction gone on quietly. Again an opportunity is to be granted our people to turn to account the mines of wealth to be found at our doors. Perhaps the super-abundant fully still smouldering in narrow souls may burst out in a general raid on all strangers so that the tide may be stemmed while longer, but we look on the bright side, and prefer not to acknowledge the existence of such idiots as the ones we quoted in our last issue—people who refer to the national flag as "the tyrants' ensign," and console themselves for their well merited obscurity that they can scatter venom through the columns of sympathetic journals. We do not think these people sufficiently numerous or influential to injure greatly the prosperity of the State; that they will do this to the extent of their limited capacity for mischief—we have no manner of doubt—but it is a toothless dog whose bark is no longer feared or heeded. To our shores then, we expect to welcome the myriads from the old world, and for this let all wise, provident, and intelligent citizens prepare.

We are happy to announce that the pioneer men are already at work and land is now being offered to actual settlers at rates within the reach of any willing worker. The example of Col. Brink we hope will be followed by many other excellent citizens and large tracts of land be brought under intelligent culture as he proposes in his circular annexed:

The undersigned having a tract of fine land, and being desirous of introducing into this section of the State a thrifty agricultural element, offers the following inducements to emigrants, or those desirous of settling in the old North State. This tract comprises from eight to ten thousand acres of the best soil in the State, one thousand acres of which are under cultivation, and much more easily put in good condition. The soil is suited to the culture of cotton, corn, potatoes, wheat, oats, pea nuts, vegetables and fruits.

The land is well watered with living streams, and has a mile of fine water power upon it. It contains several thousand acres of the finest timber in the State. The tract is situated in New Hanover county, and parallel to and within one and a quarter to two and a half miles of the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad, and opposite two stations on the road. It is within one and a quarter hours of Wilmington, ten hours of Norfolk, twenty-two hours of Baltimore, by rail, and fifty-five hours of New York, by water. The tract is bounded by a stream navigable for large flats and rafts, which can be brought down to Wilmington, any season of the year, where a first class market can always be found.

I propose to cut this tract up into farms of eighty acres and upwards, to suit settlers, and on the following terms:

- One dollar per acre, cash.
Fifty cents " " in one year.
Fifty cents " " in two years.
One dollar " " in three years.
One dollar " " in four years.
One dollar " " in five years.
One dollar " " in six years.

Thus it will be seen that a man with from one to two hundred dollars can put himself in possession of a good farm, which at once places the means within his reach of making himself independent.

These lands were worth before the war from $120 to $300 per acre, and as soon as the country has fully recovered from the effects of the late war they will go up to or beyond their former value. There are houses on the different farms for the comfortable accommodation of two hundred persons.

The advantages herein offered to emigrants may be summed up as follows:— 1st. Cheap lands, and the best climate in the world—with but three months of mild winter in the year—during all of which time the farmer can prepare his lands for the early Spring crops. Summer not warmer than in the Northern States.

2d. These lands are situated near, and easy access to all the best markets in the States, and being twenty days earlier than Virginia and forty-eight hours nearer markets than Charleston enables the producer to get his early vegetables to the Northern markets in advance of any other section, thereby receiving the extra prices for the "first of the season."

ability and energy. The class of men now leaving England, and Germany is of such a character that the governments losing this valuable material are getting alarmed and are endeavoring to check a movement as natural as the flow of the tides. Southward they will come, now that republican institutions are assured to them, and soon we may be able to chronicle an inundation of brain and muscle such as the good old North State so greatly needs.

Licentious Literature. Men's minds are formed by reading, and the daily or weekly intellectual food influences the intellect, thoughts, and desires even as the physical frame is affected by the amount, quantity or quality of nutriment taken into the system. Careful ourselves of the character and tone of the articles and selections we publish, and careful to jealousy lest our craft and profession be dishonored by dishonorable publishers, we have from time to time in the course of our editorial career, attacked the ribald; the coarse; and the vulgar who by some misfortune became masters of a printing press. So careful are we of the character we have established, and the high standard we have ever before us in the masters of our art; that even the acerbity of political strife seldom tempts us into personalities or to forget for a moment that "the thoughts of the people follow us even as the waves follow the breath of God."

Again we seldom fail to cultivate friendly relations with our brethren of the press, and save one of two instances in the last decade we have never missed personal favor from our political opponents. As in all trades, callings or professions there will be "black sheep"; there must while God withholds that "millennial light" of which the poet speaks—be some so base; so mean, and soulless that each drop of honorable blood we hold from an unstained source, revolts at friendly or other than antagonistic relations, and we would be false to our faith, our race and our country did we fail to denounce the "licentious literature" now permitted to issue from those vast cess-pools of iniquity where "corrupt regens and honor long has fled." We refer to the class of papers profusely illustrated and entitled Days Doings, Sporting Times, etc. If there be any old time statute our excellent judiciary may be able to use, we implore them to use, or direct its use for the suppression and prevention of the sale of the papers mentioned. The young; the unformed minds of our community must be protected and he who offers to the public "poisons" must be held responsible for injuries done.

Yes this is Wilmington one of the oldest settlements upon the Atlantic coast, once represented in her legislative halls by men of learning, and of wisdom and patriotism, now represented (alas! for the word) by her former slaves and by aliens.

Yes, this is Wilmington, "one of the oldest, &c.," that is destined under the rule of "her former slaves" and the "aliens" to be that which her squatters—for they lived like squatters—we mean her "ancient and honorable" citizens who were said by our contemporary to be "men of learning," etc. Now the term "squatters" we apply in its proper sense to people who squat on a piece of land; never improve the same, except to get sufficient to feed on—and finally die and leave the pleasant memory behind of doing that which any other beast could do—"ate, drank, died." The record of the "oldest inhabitants" have given them the epithet we write, and "her former slaves" with the "aliens" from more prosperous sections of the country—living here as missionaries—seek to build up the waste place and make them blossom like the great North and West. Had the writer of the article referred to ever travelled beyond the precincts of his chicken coop; had he mingled among his fellow citizens whom he is pleased to term "aliens"—his ignorance and narrowmindedness would have flown away in company with his prejudices. Unfortunately the Journal instructor of the people wants instructing himself, and the sad spectacle of a man presuming to lead public opinion is presented to the world—who cannot define the word "alien," and imagines the "glories of the future," are fastened to the editorial joggle board he rides.

The praise the Journal offers to the mere faction of vagabonds who seek to divide the Republican party is exceedingly appropriate. We rejoice that Messrs. Price and Larkins have at last found an organ—and a man to play the same.

The melancholy swain, who for his sins is condemned to grind out wearisome balderdash for the Journal of indigestion; "wonders" where Judge Cantwell received compliments—proceeding to quote from the Sentinel. The fact that Judge Cantwell was a good soldier while he believed in his "lost cause" is no dishonor; that he possessed wisdom and honor sufficient to accept the situation and observe his oath of allegiance is something even the editor of the Journal might imitate without injury to his reputation for sense or decency.

It is stated in a Mississippi paper that a "young lad" was flying a kite when a storm took him and kite several miles—landing the youth in a tree-top. "Kite flying" is dangerous in more places than one on the banks of the father of waters.

One of the emigrant agents of the State of Minnesota has just returned from Europe, and reports that he has succeeded in inducing seventy-five thousand Swedes to come to that State this year.

We are cheered and encouraged by the letters of such good men and true Republicans as our friend J. T. S. sends from Smithville. Would there were more like him.

Wilmington Water Works. The Wilmington Water Works Company, of which Senator Abbott is President, are now called upon by our suffering people to press forward their enterprise. Abundance of water can be had adjacent to the city and of sufficient elevation to carry it to the top of the highest building in Wilmington. We have before referred to the necessity for these works should fire break out in any part removed from the river. With dry wells and tinder like wood workhouses, the citizens might wake up some fine morning homeless and destitute. The city will always be found wanting in attractions to her citizens and to strangers until this very necessary means of cleanliness and comfort are brought home to each one residing within our corporate limits.

Arguments as to the great benefits it will confer upon us are not needed and our necessities are so great that we can but cry to the powers that be "give us water lest we perish."

The enterprising gentlemen who have joined together for the purpose of making Wilmington a city indeed worthy of the name deserve the thanks of the community. That they will receive every encouragement we feel assured, only we ask that the initiation be taken and the reservoir established at once. In the time intervening between harvest and winter laborers may be had at low rates and the weather will better permit of their progress. Let but the public feel assured of the work's advancing towards completion and a rapid rise in property may be looked for.

The energy with which our street railway has been pushed is sufficient guarantee for success of the Water Works and this we shall continue to recall until the work is finished.

When a Bank loses its entire capital, either by legitimate business, or the dishonesty of its officers, as is sometimes the case, it generally suspends business and winds up its affairs. Ought not a political party to do the same? The proposition needs only to be stated to be answered in the affirmative. Now the entire stock in trade, its capital paid in and its capital promised in the future of the Democratic party has been the negro. So long as slavery lived its capital was sure; but when that "domestic institution died," it became a question of just how long the capital would last. It seems to us that the end is reached, and the "bottom dollar," or rather the "bottom nigger" has been paid out. Virginia has done it. The election there last week has demonstrated that he—the inevitable cuffe—is now like a white man in politics, no better and no worse, and hence the bottom of the Democratic political banking capital has been reached. He is no longer an "issue," and cannot be made one.

A good many journals, having nothing else to do, are engaged in President making. On the Democratic side they are trying to run Gen. Hancock for Governor of his State in order to win him for the Presidential race in 1872. On the other side a well known Journal of New England, the Newburyport Herald, nominates George S. Boutwell for the Presidency, and a Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial elaborately echoes the proposal.

The astute bolter Price declares his sympathies are with the "conservatives" of "Wirginny." Did we not tell you so? Larkins declares his sympathies are with anybody who will give him a drink of whiskey! Poor Price—Leaky Larkins!

Hon. JOHN BIGELOW has been offered the position on the New York Times recently vacated by the death of Mr. Raymond. The inducements offered are $10,000 a year, besides a large share of the stock on the most reasonable terms.

Mr. Ohio Flagg states that French grapes are frequently crushed by men stripped naked; the "sweet burgundy" is said to derive its richness from the filthy French who "go their whole figure" on the fender a piece.

The scamps are having a farewell howl, and every time enough hurra donkeys collect to hear—presto! The "chinning" commences and the vulgar Price and the scamp L-e-a-r-k-i-n-s do their best to disgust every decent citizen.

A PENNSYLVANIA "conservative" thirty years ago purchased a wagon loaded with plank, and not getting all the profit he wanted, drove under a shed where the wagon and load still remains!

A FARMER is said to have thrown his vest containing greenbacks on a fence, and a calf seeing the green, gobbled the greenbacks. Our Republican bolters it is said are trying to play calf!

The Price-Larkins bolting faction have attempted two "indignation" meetings and aroused the indignation of the people against—P. L. & Co!

The World thinks that "in Virginia the Democracy have acted with great practical sagacity, and have achieved a most gratifying result."

Low breeding of the Democratic Press. Speaking of that gifted and accomplished christian gentleman, Rev. Mr. James Lynch, a Democratic paper published in Rankin county, Miss., calls him "this sweet-scented plump of perdition, agent for the establishment of Loyal Leagues, Presiding Elder of the Methodist Church North, agent of the Freedman's Bureau, Alderman of the city of Jackson, Superintendent of Education for the State of Mississippi, loud praying hypocrite, drunken vagabond, stirrer up of strife, and dissections, and lying coward!" and winds up by saying "the impudent black scoundrel deserves to be tied up to a whipping post and given one hundred lashes on his bare back."
