THE WILMINGTON POST.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

Opinions of Prominent Democrats on the Convention Question - Read and Circulate.

In response to calls we lay before our readers the following letter from Judge Fowle on the Convention question:

RALEIGH, Oct. 26, 1874.

Maj. John W Dickson:

SIR: In reply to your letter asking my opinion in regard to the calling of a convention by the next General Assembly, for the purpose of amending the Constitution of North Carolina I have to say:

That in my opinion a call of a Convention or the purpose indicated would be unwise, inexpedient and productive of great harm to the material interests of the State.

The defeat of the Conservative party in North Carolina in 1870 would be a public calamity. The defeat would, in my opinion, be instant if the proposed action is taken.

A very cursory examination of the Constitution and history of North Carolina will satisfy the enquirer, that of the two methods provided for amending the Constitution, to-wit: the legislative and conventional, the intention was, that for ordinary times, and for the correction of ordinary evils, it was thought wise by our father that the legislative mode should be adopted and that the mode of amendment by the convention was only to be resorted to when the exigency of the occasion was extreme, and when the state and Democratic and Republican form of government might be in question, and was not to be exercised only. The exact time when

We find according to that after the adoption of the constitution of 1868 there was no convention of the people of North Carolina until the year 1875 except the convention of 1875 and 1871 which were called for the purpose of ratifying the Federal constitution, and that since that time there has been no convention of the people which has been called for the purpose of amending the constitution and but a few amendments have been made, and those so until the year 1868.

The convention which was called in 1868 was for the purpose of taking North Carolina out of the Union, and the convention of 1875, being called under Presidential Reconstruction, and its conditions being repudiated by the people are not to be considered in this connection.

The policy of the State in being well settled not to call a Convention of the people except upon extraordinary occasions, is there anything in the political condition of the State that will justify such action at this time?

A very earnest and able advocate of the convention movement in reply to an interrogatory from me as to the necessity for a convention, stated that he desired a convention in order that the constitution should be amended in three particulars:

1. Requiring the Judges of the Superior Courts to be elected.

2. Disqualifying a person who has been convicted of an infamous crime from voting.

3. Requiring the payment of a poll tax as a qualification of a voter.

In regard to the first and second of these amendments, after considerable enquiry I have found that they would meet with but very little opposition from the people.

I have heard at least two of the Republican Judges express themselves in favor of the first proposed amendment, and one of them expressed it as his opinion that every member of the Judiciary would give his personal influence to the proposed amendment. As to the second, the mere introduction of the proposed amendment is enough to secure its passage before any Legislature that can now be elected, regardless of its political complexion.

As to the third proposed amendment, it is believed by many that its adoption would be opposed by the Republican voters in the State even to the extent of a three to one majority in a Conservative triumph.

The objection to the calling of a convention at this time is not a small one, for besides the enormous expense of the convention which will be required to be borne by a people already overburdened with taxation, the very fact of the calling of a convention will be regarded by capitalists as an indication that the people of the State are not satisfied with the present condition of affairs, and will be unwilling to invest their money in the State, and will withdraw that already invested.

But aside from all this, it would be a political blunder to call a convention.

In 1870 the people of North Carolina voted the Conservative ticket. Not a word was said about convention during the canvass. The Legislature was conservative by nearly two thirds majority. Taking advantage of its majority, notwithstanding the warnings of many of our wisest leaders, a bill was passed submitting the question of calling a convention to the people. It was defeated by more than 9,000 majority. But more than this, of the delegates elected, a majority, I have been informed by a well posted friend, were Republicans.

The people were again without party and charged in many localities that we could not have carried the election in 1870 if our purpose had been avowed. It was regarded by many of the them as a fraud upon the people. Many members of the Legislature of 1870 who voted for the bill, would never have been elected if their constituents had known at the time that they would have done

In [illegible] to the decision of Judge Merrimon for reference and we see that the Legislature to meet North Carolina pardoned the application to Grant, and his re-election was due more to the result in North Carolina in August than to any other cause.

In 1876, there will be another great contest for the Presidency.

Pennsylvania, by the change of its State election from October to November, will no longer be the key-note State North Carolina has the substantial honor of being the Key-stone State in that controversy. Every effort will be made by both parties to carry the State.

Requiring the poll tax to be paid in advance and it will be [illegible] by many from beyond the limits of the State. Every voter that can be induced to go to the polls will be carried there. And if North Carolina falters we will have four years more of Republican rule at Washington.

The advocates of the convention insist that although it may be inexpedient as a party measure, it is right in itself. If inexpedient, it is because it is unpopular. If unpopular, it will fail. Failure will not disgrace, but greatly injure our party. Besides there is no moral question of right or wrong involved and if unexpedient, it is politically wrong. My deliberate judgment is that if this convention scheme is passed that the Republicans who voted with us in August last will return to the Republican party, and many conservatives will, I fear accompany them.

Political daring is sometimes the best policy, but we know an experiment which has already proved costly would be suicidal.

DANIEL G. FOWLE.

Be it enacted by [illegible] of Representatives [illegible] assembled, That all citizens of the United States who are or shall be otherwise qualified by law to vote at any election by the people in any State, Territory, district, county, city, parish, township, school district, municipality or other territorial subdivision, shall be entitled and allowed to vote at all such elections, without distinction of race, color, or previous condition of servitude; any constitution, law, custom, usage or regulation of any State or Territory, or by or under its authority to the contrary notwithstanding.

[illegible]

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That if any person shall prevent, hinder, control or intimidate, or shall attempt to prevent, hinder, control or intimidate any person from exercising or in exercising the right of suffrage, to whom the right of suffrage is secured or guaranteed by the fifteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, by means of bribery, threats or threats of depriving such person of employment or occupation, or of ejecting such person from rented house, lands or other property, or by threats of refusing to renew leases or contracts for labor, or by threats of violence to himself or family, such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, on conviction thereof, be fined not less than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned not less than one month and not more than one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That if any person, by force, bribery, threats, intimidation, or other unlawful means, shall hinder, delay, prevent or obstruct, or shall combine and confederate with others to hinder, delay, prevent or obstruct any citizen from doing any act required to be done to qualify him to vote or from voting at any election aforesaid, such person shall for every such offence forfeit and pay the sum of five hundred dollars to the person aggrieved thereby, to be recovered by an action on the case, with full costs, and such allowance for counsel fees as the court shall deem just, and shall also for every such offence be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction thereof, be fined not less than five hundred dollars or be imprisoned not less than one month and not more than one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That if any person shall prevent, hinder, control or intimidate, or shall attempt to prevent, hinder, control or intimidate any person from exercising or in exercising the right of suffrage, to whom the right of suffrage is secured or guaranteed by the fifteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, by means of bribery, threats or threats of depriving such person of employment or occupation, or of ejecting such person from rented house, lands or other property, or by threats of refusing to renew leases or contracts for labor, or by threats of violence to himself or family, such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, on conviction thereof, be fined not less than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned not less than one month and not more than one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That if any person shall prevent, hinder, control or intimidate, or shall attempt to prevent, hinder, control or intimidate any person from exercising or in exercising the right of suffrage, to whom the right of suffrage is secured or guaranteed by the fifteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, by means of bribery, threats or threats of depriving such person of employment or occupation, or of ejecting such person from rented house, lands or other property, or by threats of refusing to renew leases or contracts for labor, or by threats of violence to himself or family, such person so offending shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall, on conviction thereof, be fined not less than five hundred dollars, or be imprisoned not less than one month and not more than one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That if two or more persons shall band or conspire together, or go in disguise upon the public highway, or upon the premises of another, with intent to violate any provision of this act, or to injure, oppress, threaten, or intimidate any citizen with intent to prevent or hinder his free exercise and enjoyment of any right or privilege granted or secured to him by the Constitution or laws of the United States, or because of his having exercised the same, such person shall be held guilty of felony, and, on conviction thereof, shall be fined or imprisoned, or both, at the discretion of the court, the fine not to exceed five thousand dollars, and the imprisonment not to exceed ten years, and shall, moreover, be thereafter ineligible to, and disabled from holding any office or place of honor, profit or trust created by the Constitution or laws of the United States.

MARSHAL'S OFFICE,

CITY OF WILMINGTON, N. C., April 24th, 1875.

IN ORDER TO ENABLE ME TO CLOSE THE [illegible] on the 1st of May next with as little delay as possible, I have divided the city into four districts, with a health officer assigned to each district.

THE FIRST DISTRICT

In charge of Health officer J. H. Bowen, embraces that portion of the city north of Market [illegible] west of the [illegible].

THE SECOND DISTRICT

In charge of Health officer Taylor embraces that portion of the city south of Market and west of Fifth streets.

THE THIRD DISTRICT

In charge of Health officer A. J. Peggue embraces that portion of the city south of Market and east of Fifth streets.

THE FOURTH DISTRICT

In charge of Health officer S. S. Worrell, embraces that portion of the city south of Market and West of Fifth streets.

The Health officers in charge of districts will be sworn by the City Magistrate, and they are instructed to inspect and report to me all nuisances by [illegible] days notice.

It is hoped that the citizens generally will co-operate with me in the [illegible] work, [illegible] in the interest of [illegible] health.

Any [illegible] refusing the entrance of a Sanitary officer to inspect the premises, [illegible] Health officer of the District in which he resides, or to clean, or at his option, [illegible] shall have the prompt attention.

From the decision [illegible] Board of Health there may be an appeal to the Mayor, who shall hear the matter and decide [illegible] the matter summarily.
