MOUNTAIN HOTEL,

MORGANTON, N. C.

The liberal patronage heretofore received, would inform the travelling public, that his large is now completed, in connection with his row of offices for professional gentlemen, all of which are entirely new; and that he is fully prepared to receive a large amount of company, who are respectfully solicited to patronize his establishment, under the assurance that he will incur no pains to render all who favor him comfortable.

COMMODIOUS HOTEL,

All who have visited this delightful town, must agree that the scenery cannot be surpassed; indeed, none can compare with it in Western North Carolina.

The climate of Morganton is salubrious, the temperature less fluctuating than any portion of the mountain country, and in mid summer the heat much less oppressive than even more northern regions.

The Mountain Hotel, in its elevated location, commands the finest view in the place of the mountain scenery, possessing the advantage of being remote from the noise and uproar of the Court-yard and public square, and yet sufficiently near for all the purposes of business.

To the invalid it offers a desirable summer retreat, and to persons of pleasure and business, a pleasant Boarding Place.
