Noon Report.

Congressional Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, March 27.-House.-Mr. Hutchins, of New York, rose to a question of personal privilege on a ques tion which involved the dignity of the House. The New York Evening Post had published an article headed "A cowardly Congress," which, after referring to the action of the gentleman from Illinois (Townshend), in committing his bitl to the Committee on the Revision of the Laws, stated that Congress was working in a dishonest and indirect way in not adopting the resolution directing the Committee on Ways and Means to report back several tariff bills to the House. The Speaker-The chair does not think that is a question of privilege. Mr. Huchins-I do. Speaker- Foe chair thinks it is a question of free speech. Mr. Hutchins -I hold a letter from the clerk of the House. Mr. Barrows, of Michigan, rose to question of privilege. Mr. Hatchins, excitedly—I hope the gentleman will not interrupt me. I wish be would keep still. He has been on his feet over a thousand times this session and I in end to be heard. Speaker (severely)-Gentlemen wi conform to the rules of the House. Mr. Barrows made a point of order that the question was not one of privilege. Mr. Hutchins-As the rules are now con stituted it is impossible to offer a resolution to discharge the committee except by unani nous consent.

Speaker-The gentleman has not state anything that amounts to a question of Mr. Hutchins-Is it not against the dignity of the House? I am anxious to vote on those bills, and if the gentleman will allow me I will offer a resolution. No objection was made and the matter was dropped

The special committee of the House on the inter-oceanic canal gave a hearing today to Wm. F. Channing, of Providence, R. L., who advocated a ship railway in preference to a ship canal. He claimed that it could be constructed from half. possibly one third, of the cost of a canal, and averred his belief that even if a cana were constructed across the isthmus by foreign capital, a ship railway would eventually be built by American capital.

The sub-committee of the House Ap propriations Committee are at work today upon the army appropriation bill. The Commissary General was before them to give some information relative to the requirements of his department. It is expected that both the army and navy appropriation bills will be reported to the House Tuesday, or as soon as the consular and diplomatic bill has been disposed of The House Judiciary Committee held another conference to-day upon the Acklen case without reaching a conclusion as to the character of their report.

Midnight Report, United States Marshals.

WASHINGTON, March 27 .- The Senate Committee on Appropriations to day prac tically completed their consideration of the immediate deficiency bill, which in cludes appropriations of $607,600 for United States marshals and deputy marshals, and $400,000 for the government printing office. The latter amount is reduced $100,000 by the committee is consequence of the passage by both houses (since the pending bill was prepared) of the special appropriation of $100,000 for the same purpose. The amount of the House appropriation for marshals and their duputies will not be changed, but the committee decided that an amendmen should be made in the p raseology of the clause relative to the future method of appointing deputy marshals of elections. The House provision on this subject re-Stated Circuit or District Judges, but the constitution provides that all officers shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. with the reservation that Congress may by law vest appointments of such inferior officers as it taluks proper in the President
