

THURSDAY, JUNE 24, 1880.

H. A. LONDON, Jr., Editor.

FOR GOVERNOR:
THOMAS J. JARVIS, of Pat.

FOR DEPUTY GOVERNOR:
JAMES L. ROBINSON,
of Mason.

FOR SECRETARY OF STATE:
WILLIAM L. SAUNDERS, of Orange.

FOR TREASURER:
JOHN M. WORTH, of Randolph.

FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL:
THOMAS S. BENAN, of Wilson.

FOR AUDITOR:
WILLIAM P. ROBERTS,
of Gates.

FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS:
JOHN C. SCARBOROUGH, of Johnston.

FOR JUDGE SUPERIOR COURT:
JOHN A. GILMER,
of Guilford.

FOR CONGRESS—FOURTH DISTRICT:
WILLIAM R. COX,
of Wake.

OUR NOMINEES.

We hoist at our mast head the names of the nominees of our Judicial, Congressional and State Conventions, that were held last week, and we pledge them to our country's hearty and earnest support. Our readers are doubtless familiar with nearly all these names, and certainly will be with all before the campaign closes.

The name of Jarvis has become a household word in North Carolina, and it is rather remarkable that he who occupies the first place on our ticket, should have been of the humblest origin and has had the greatest difficulties to overcome in attaining so high a position. His life is a fitting example to encourage the boys of North Carolina, and should be held up for their emulation. This man, who is now Governor of this great Commonwealth, and who has been renominated for that high office, was twenty-five years ago a poor boy following the plow-handle, just as thousands of our boys are doing today. Arriving at man's estate just as the late war began, he promptly volunteered as a private in the ranks, fought bravely for the "lost cause," was badly wounded, and the end of that four-year struggle found him poor, burdened with a debt contracted in obtaining an education, encumbered with disease, and maimed with wounds. Yet he did not despair but with that indomitable perseverance characteristic of him, he set to work and struggled on and on until he attained the highest position within the gift of the people of his State. May we not then commend his example to the emulation of the poor boys of North Carolina? To have risen as he has, to have attained so high honors in the face of such adverse circumstances, surely proves that Thomas J. Jarvis is no ordinary man, and entitles him to the suffrages of his fellow citizens.

But we do not intend at this time to sketch the lives of our nominees, reserving that for subsequent issues. The remainder of the State ticket is composed of the gentlemen who now occupy the positions to which they have been re-nominated, except that Gen. W. P. Roberts is nominated for Auditor in the place of the present incumbent. Gen. Roberts is the youngest man on the ticket, and was the youngest General in the Confederate army, and his nomination is a fitting recognition of the young democracy.

Our nominees are all "good men and true," and well deserve the undivided support of the democratic party. Of course, all were not the first choice of every man, but then everybody's choice could not be nominated for every office, and some were doomed to disappointment. We appeal to all such to rise above personal preferences, and give to the need the same hearty support that they would have claimed from others for the candidates of their choice. The nominees are honest, are competent, are true democrats, and are fully entitled to the votes of all true democrats, and if we do our duty, they will be elected by a majority of not less than twenty thousand. Then let us march shoulder-to-shoulder, with unbroken ranks and a solid front, and in November next the bright-eyed bird of victory will perch on our banner!

Our District Convention.

The convention of the Democrats of this the Fourth Congressional District was held on the 16th inst. at Metropolitan Hall in the city of Raleigh. The attendance of delegates was very large, and so great was the harmony of feeling and unanimity of sentiment that prevailed that it was agreed to call to order by Senator Barnum, the chairman of the executive committee, and Judge Headley, of Cincinnati, was appointed temporary chairman, who made a stirring and eloquent speech. After the appointment of the committee the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday, so that the nomination will hardly be made before today. It is useless to speculate as to whether the nominees will be. Seymour has reluctantly declined to accept the nomination, and Tillman has withdrawn his name. Tilman's letter is a manly and statesmanlike document, and is creditable alike to himself and to the party that elected him President four years ago.

The convention is composed of 738 delegates, and, as the two-thirds rule prevails, 492 votes are necessary to secure the nomination. We sincerely hope that this convention will not be disgraced by such disorderly proceedings as were witnessed at the few words about Gen. Cox because of his gallantry on the field of battle.

Never can we forget that scene at Appomattox Court-House when Cox's brigade fired the last volley. But he is remembered as a soldier has become a part of our State's proud history. As a democrat no one has exceeded Gen. Cox in his zeal and efficient services for the party. For many years we were associated intimately with him on the State Executive Committee of the democratic party and therefore know whereof we speak, when we assert that no man in North Carolina has contributed more freely of his time and money, and worked more faithfully for the success of our party than Gen. W. R. Cox. His unanimous nomination by the Metropolitan District is a fitting recognition of his eminent services to his State and party.

The State Convention.

The contest for the nomination for that high office, was twenty-five years ago a poor boy following the plow-handle, just as thousands of our boys are doing today. Arriving at man's estate just as the late war began, he promptly volunteered as a private in the ranks, fought bravely for the "lost cause," was badly wounded, and the end of that four-year struggle found him poor, burdened with a debt contracted in obtaining an education, encumbered with disease, and maimed with wounds. Yet he did not despair but with that indomitable perseverance characteristic of him, he set to work and struggled on and on until he attained the highest position within the gift of the people of his State. May we not then commend his example to the emulation of the poor boys of North Carolina? To have risen as he has, to have attained so high honors in the face of such adverse circumstances, surely proves that Thomas J. Jarvis is no ordinary man, and entitles him to the suffrages of his fellow citizens.

The officers of the convention were John W. Graham, of Orange, President, and H. A. London Jr., of Chatham, Secretary, with one Vice-President from each Congressional District. The present incumbents of the various State offices were re-nominated, except for Auditor. Messrs. J. M. Leach and P. H. Bass were appointed Editors for the State-advertiser. Messrs. Thomas Ballin, W. P. Dorris, John S. Henderson and Alfred M. Weddell were elected as delegates to the Cincinnati convention. Capt. Octavus Cox, of Raleigh was elected Chairman of the State Executive Committee.

The Chairman of our State Executive committee occupies a very responsible and laborious position. The most eminent men of the State have held that position, within the past twelve years, among them Thomas Bragg, Daniel M. Barringer, Daniel G. Fowle, A. S. Merrimon and W. R. Cox, but no one of these distinguished gentlemen has discharged the delicate duties of that place with greater ability or more efficiently than Samuel A. Ashe. As a party leader and organizer thoroughly posted, no one of his predecessors was the superior of this gentleman, who for the past three years has been the trusted leader of the democratic party in North Carolina, and whose retirement from that position in the coming campaign will be a serious loss to our party. The democrats of this State owe to him a debt which we hope to see paid.

The Chairman of our State Executive committee occupies a very responsible and laborious position. The most eminent men of the State have held that position, within the past twelve years, among them Thomas Bragg, Daniel M. Barringer, Daniel G. Fowle, A. S. Merrimon and W. R. Cox, but no one of these distinguished gentlemen has discharged the delicate duties of that place with greater ability or more efficiently than Samuel A. Ashe. As a party leader and organizer thoroughly posted, no one of his predecessors was the superior of this gentleman, who for the past three years has been the trusted leader of the democratic party in North Carolina, and whose retirement from that position in the coming campaign will be a serious loss to our party. The democrats of this State owe to him a debt which we hope to see paid.

Cincinnati Convention.

The Democratic National convention assembled at Cincinnati on the 22d inst. for the purpose of nominating candidates for President and Vice President. The convention was called to order by Senator Barnum, the chairman of the executive committee, and Judge Headley, of Cincinnati, was appointed temporary chairman, who made a stirring and eloquent speech. After the appointment of the committee the convention adjourned until 10 o'clock Wednesday, so that the nomination will hardly be made before today. It is useless to speculate as to whether the nominees will be. Seymour has reluctantly declined to accept the nomination, and Tillman has withdrawn his name. Tilman's letter is a manly and statesmanlike document, and is creditable alike to himself and to the party that elected him President four years ago.

The convention is composed of 738

CORRESPONDENCE.

Death of Sutter.
Treasurer of California.

MARSH, June 19, 1880.

Mr. EDITOR.—We are all pleased at the State nominations, and will do our best for them.

We have just had the census of our little town completed, and find that we have 400 inhabitants, who are all well and hearty and doing a very good business.

We would beg of your Chatham farmers to come down and give us a call with their farm produce, for which we will at any time give them good prices. I saw a load of oats sold to day for 80 cents per hundred.

The house of Messrs. Nimmick & Co., under the management of Mr. Harry Olson, is the largest of any we have in town. Respy. J. S. B.

Mr. EDITOR.—I discharge the duty of the Republican party to place before the people the name of a suitable person for the vacant judgeship, created by the death of Judge Knobell.

I desire to call the attention of our friends to a man of eminent ability, of high integrity, and of great learning who is elected to that position which will give satisfaction to the people. I refer to the Hon. James Hunter Holden, of the county of Chatham. This gentleman is as well known to us as any man of the state, and his record is a credit to the party of this convention. A graduate of Chapel Hill and a pupil of Judge Pearson, law-giver class, he held the first rank, he has for many years filled a variety of important appointments, and distinguished himself as a champion of freedom. He represented the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress, will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina. At home he is universally respected and esteemed as a faithful and just man, and his political opinions in no respect would be regarded as objectionable. His nomination by the Republican party to represent the Chapel Hill in the National Congress will be remembered, and his gallant and determined fight under the difficulties created by the groundless charges raised by the Civil Rights Bill.

Mr. Holden deserves well at the hands of the Republicans of North Carolina.