

TOWNSHIP MEETINGS.

In order that our approaching State and district conventions shall truly reflect the wishes of the people and nominate the candidates whom the voters of the party wish, it is necessary that there should be full township meetings. Of course it is impracticable for every voter to attend the State, or district, or even county convention, and the only practicable method of expressing his choice of candidates is by attending his township meeting and selecting a limited number of delegates to represent him. These township delegates attend the county conventions and there appoint other delegates to represent their respective counties in the State and district conventions. The starting point is, as it should be, with the masses of the party in their township meetings, and thus is illustrated the democratic doctrine that the people are the source of all power. It is therefore of the highest importance that the democratic voters in every township in North Carolina should attend their township meetings and there give a full and free expression as to their preferences for the various candidates. If this is not done, the voice of the people will not be heard nor their wishes be made known, and nobody will be to blame but themselves. Those who stay away from their township meetings have no right to complain of the selections made by those who do attend, for they ought to have gone there and made different selections. We are aware that in some townships a few irresponsible persons attempt to influence the appointment of delegates and to pack conventions in the interests of some political trickster, and the only way to prevent this is by having full meetings attended by the best citizens.

According to the democratic plan of organization each township shall be entitled to cast in the county convention one vote for every twenty-five democratic votes, and one vote for fractions of fifteen democratic votes cast by that township at the last gubernatorial election. For the purpose of electing the delegates to the convention of this county, the several townships of Chatham will hold meetings at their usual voting place, at 10 o'clock on Saturday, the 14th day of June, as we have heretofore announced. The afternoon of Saturday was appointed, because it was thought to be the most convenient time for our farmers to attend a meeting. In addition to electing delegates, every township will also then elect an executive committee of five active democrats, and all these township committees will meet here on the day of the county convention (June 17th) and elect a county executive committee of five. The election of these township committees is a very important matter, and none but the most zealous, working men should be elected. Organization is essential to success in any undertaking, and especially in the management of a political campaign, and, as every township should be thoroughly organized, it can only be done by an active executive committee.

PROBABLE CANDIDATES.

The democratic party in North Carolina is to be congratulated upon the fact that the friends of those gentlemen, who have been suggested for nomination by our State convention, are conducting their canvass in so proper a spirit. While the adherents of each aspirant are warmly advocating the merits and peculiar claims of their particular favorite, yet they do not traduce or assail other aspirants, and thus perfect peace and harmony prevails throughout our ranks, and all will be prepared to give a united and enthusiastic support to whomsoever may be nominated. All good democrats deeply deplored the unseemly and embittered contest that unfortunately took place four years ago between the adherents of Gov. Jarvis and Judge Fowle, and we sincerely rejoice that this year there is no pleasant and striking contrast.

Who our nominees will be, of course no man can now with certainty foretell, but it seems more than probable that General Seales will be our gubernatorial candidate. Judge Gilmer, whose name has been warmly urged, has published a letter in which he expressly states that he wishes his name not to be presented to the convention. The three most prominent names suggested for Lieutenant-Governor are Maj. C. M. Stedman of Wilmington, Major John Hughes of Newbern, and Col. H. B. Short of Columbus county, and it is fortunate for the party that every one of them is eminently well qualified for the position. Of course Chatham county will warmly support Major Stedman, a son of whom she has cause to be proud. No one seems to have the tenacity to oppose the re-nomination of Col. W. L. Saunders for Secretary of State. Dr. Worth is again urged to allow his name to be presented for re-nomination for Treasurer, and the friends of Messrs. J. S. Battle of Nash, Donald Bain of Wake, and S. McD. Tate of Burke, are also pressing their claims. For Attorney-General, the present incumbent, Col. Kennan, and Messrs. T. F. Davidson of Beaufort and R. B. Peebles of Northampton are strongly urged. More names are suggested for Superintendent of Public Instruction than for any other office, among them being the present incumbent, and Messrs. A. H. Merritt of Chatham, J. L. Tomlinson of Forsyth, J. E. Dugger of Warren and S. M. Fincher of Catawba. It seems to be generally conceded that Judge Merrimon will be unanimously nominated as Justice of the Supreme Court.

Judge Gilmer Declines.

From the Raleigh News and Observer we copy the following letter from Judge Gilmer:

Greensboro, N. C., May 21.

Please give a place in your column to the subjoined statement, which would have been publicly made weeks ago but for the importance of personal friends. In view of the near approach of the Democratic State Convention and for the information of friends in other parts of the State who have talked and written to me on the subject, and of other papers which have favored my nomination for Governor, I feel it my duty to say that, while deeply sensible of the distinguished honor thus proposed to be conferred on me, and deeply grateful for and proud of the many kind and flattering words of commendation, yet, for reasons unnecessary to be mentioned here, and many of a private nature, it is my decided wish that my name be not presented to the convention as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. I am not and never have been a candidate for such nomination, and have read with pain recent unauthorized statements in some papers about my withdrawing from such candidacy. My wish and position in this matter have always been as stated above.

With assurances of the highest appreciation of the kindness and partiality of all friends who would have had it otherwise, I am, sincerely yours,

J. A. Gilmer.

Heavy Rains.

A dispatch to the New Orleans Picayune from Chattanooga, Tenn., says the heaviest rain on record has fallen there during the past ten days. The total rainfall since the 1st instant has been nearly thirteen inches. The river is also high for a number of years. A rose seven inches during the past twenty-four hours, covering pantaloons and wetting stock to the hilt. The crops are suffering from the continuous rains, and lands are unable to work. The prospects are more gloomy than for years. All of the crops and hayens of any consequence are soaking into numerous places. Farmers and business men are much discouraged.

A Serious Joke.

A Newark, Connecticut, paper published Friday a lengthy article, relative to a song and weekly run on one of the oldest banks in that town, which was intended as a joke, the article referring to a gravel bank in the village. The article was headed "A Newark Savings Bank in Trouble." Stories of excited depositors who had lost their money, and of the bank's collapse in the vicinity, and drew their deposits. The run continued during the day, and between $25,000 and $30,000 was taken out before the character of the article became generally known.

In a difficulty last week between Dr. Leese and Mr. A. C. Higgins, clerk of the court in Onslow county, the latter shot and killed the former.

Near Seneca City, S. C., there lives one of the largest families in the United States. Mr. Joel Vaughan has been married four times. His last three wives were widows, all of whom had children by previous husbands, respectively six, seven, and four, a total of nineteen. These four wives bore Mr. Vaughan twenty-seven children, which, added to the nineteen step children, gave Mr. Vaughan a total of forty-six children. There are thus seven different sets of children. The old man is now 80 years of age and his youngest child is an infant.

Charlotte Observer: At Monroe yesterday morning a little ten-year-old daughter of Mr. G. C. McLarty, not knowing the danger, poured kerosene oil from a can on the fire in the cook stove, when an explosion occurred which scattered the burning fluid all over the child and burned her very severely, if not fatally. During Sunday afternoon's thunder storm a large green poplar tree on the farm of Mr. Fred Sims, near Fort Mill, was struck by a bolt of lightning with very remarkable results. The tree was green and full of sap, yet it instantly blazed up and burned as if it had been dry pine. A heavy rain was falling, yet the tree burned steadily for two hours and was almost entirely consumed. A large crowd of neighbors witnessed the strange occurrence.

Our Washington Letter.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 21, '84.

When Mr. MacVeigh writes such a letter to Mr. Bristow as Mr. Bristow has received from Mr. MacVeigh, and when Mr. George Bliss causes to be published such a letter as he wrote to Mr. Arthur when Mr. Arthur held the throttle valve of New York politics, you may depend upon it there is going to be some lively shaking up among the distinguished patens in the Republican household. Bliss is the same fellow whom Brewster employed to prosecute the Star Route thieves to a triumphant acquittal, for which the Government paid him $150 per day, traveling expenses, hotel fare, and coupe pleasure drives. He knows all about Arthur, but he doesn't want to tell as much now, as he was disposed to tell four years ago. The upshot of this little quarrel is going to be a great big one, because the half-breed portion of the family have had the cold shoulder of Arthur during three long years. What with Blaine and his immense boom, Logan with his boomlet, and Edmunds with a sort of boom-cranlet, I hardly think that Arthur is going to worry through. They and their friends are not firing blank cartridges at Arthur just now, but each means business for himself. The National News Bureau here, the largest concern of its kind in the country, holds correspondence with several thousand of the leading daily and weekly newspapers of the United States. I had an interview with its manager to-day, who told me that in response to a circular that the Bureau issued a month ago, he had received replies from a majority of them. The almost unanimous sentiment from Democratic editors was for Tilden and the old ticket, and righting the wrong of 1876. Upon the question of tariff they seem about equally divided between free trade outright and a tariff of revenue only, with now and then a spirit of protection from the Eastern press. On the Republican side of the house the sentiment of the editorial fraternity was overwhelmingly for Blaine, with the proclivities of the Eastern newspapers divided up between Edmunds, Arthur and Lincoln. Not a few of the Democratic newspapers are mentioning the name of Russell P. Fower, of New York, whose chances from his standpoint are quite as good as were those of James K. Polk, at this time of the year forty years ago.

The death of Sam Ward, the noted Washington lobbyist, revives many recollections of the career of one whose connection with the lobby and intimacy with public men, has resulted in more vicious legislation in the past twenty-five years, than had ever before been gotten through since the foundation of the Government. It may be said that he was the foster parent of every one of the land grant subsidies—measures that were prepared in the interest of railroads alone and as now appears, were intended specially to throttle the Government. Sam was a power here during Mr. Johnson's administration, and Welcker's table night, during a session of Congress, were surrounded by the Senators and Representatives whom Sam had invited to partake of his lavish hospitality, knowing that the effectual way of getting a Congressional job done through a Congressman was through a direct appeal to the Congressional stomach. I am sorry to say that Sam's example in the way of big dinners is still followed, and by them a great deal of national necessity is hidden from public gaze.

The knowing ones at the capital say that Congress will be ready to adjourn and go home about the 15th of June. If it does there will be a larger amount of necessary legislation left undone than ever before. Since the house has passed but 149 bills out of more than 7,000 introduced and the business now on the speaker's table would send the session clear into August. The Senate has done little better than the House, having passed 226 bills and left lying over 2,167 for the next session. Congress has gone into the business of erecting public buildings at this session by wholesale. So far no less than 97 have been ordered, ranging in price from $50,000 to $2,500,000, and the end is not yet. But there are some things about this public building business that should be ventilated, and this very week two bills were adopted in the Senate that never should have been. One is the giving of $250,000 for the new custom house at Portland, Oregon, a place of 30,000 inhabitants, which already has a building that cost the Government $200,000. The other is the appropriation of $100,000 for a public building at Saratoga, a little watering-place of 10,000 population, which has not half the need of a public building of this cost that it has for missionaries during the gambling season.

Wilson Advance: We have it from good authority that a certain man who has been accustomed to buy his whiskey by the drink or measure, has hit upon a new plan, which he thinks will work well. On Mondays he contracts with some vender of the ardent for a week's drunk, and gives his contract to the lowest bidder. He thinks he can keep drunk on this plan cheaper than any other. He is to have enough of a good brand of whiskey to keep him drunk all the time, whether it requires a pint or a barrel. On Friday of last week a negro, who gave his name as E. A. Howard, took several of our shrewdest citizens "by ways that are dark and tricks that are vain." He represented that he had $11,000 in the State National Bank, at Raleigh, and stated that he desired to buy a farm and stock it. He purchased a farm from Mr. E. Barnes Jr., for $5,000, bought four horses from W. W. Edwards, and a buggy from J. P. Allen, retained Conner & Woodward as his legal advisers to look into the title of property purchased, and made other purchases amounting in all to $37,000. He paid for everything with forged checks. While our people were "taken in" by the negro's big talk, they were sharp enough not to deliver the property until they telegraphed to Raleigh to see if his checks would be honored. Cashier White replied that he had never heard of the negro. Of course this put a stop to the negro's trading and he was arrested and sent to the penitentiary Monday, it being ascertained that he was an escaped convict. He is the same negro who represented himself as a cotton buyer from Liverpool, and cheated the Wilmington people some months ago, and was sent to the penitentiary. He was a shrewd negro and those of our people who had business transactions with him are sore about the matter, and dislike to admit that the negro deceived them so badly.

Saturday Examiner: The wheat and oat crops in Davidson county are unusually fine. An attempt was made Thursday last to murder Mr. Love McCairns, at his farm near Gold Hill, by two colored boys in his employ. They laid a plan to murder him and throw his body into an axe shaft near by, as they have since confessed. The older boy, who was cutting sprouts off stumps with an axe, worked around and near enough to Mr. McCairns to give him a blow on the back of the neck with the thick part of the axe. Mr. McCairns, when the young fellow threw the axe at Mr. McCairns, they were arrested and lodged in jail. Mr. McCairns was quite seriously injured.

The opinion of the general public in regard to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is confirmed by clergymen, lawyers, public speakers, and actors. All say it is the best remedy that can be procured for all affections of the vocal organs, throat, and lungs.

Commercial Travelers at a Wayside Inn—Something to Put in a Grip-sack.

Travellers, I cannot express you the position you fill, your experience of the world, your knowledge of the human mind, your ability to see and tell the truth, and your ability to do so in a way that is both interesting and instructive. This is a rare quality, and one that is not to be found in many of the so-called "commercial travelers" of the day. I have known many of them, and I have seen them in action, and I can tell you that they are not what they seem. They are not the "gentlemen" that they pretend to be, and they are not the "business men" that they claim to be. They are simply a class of men who are engaged in a trade that is both dishonest and unbecomingly vulgar. They are the "snake-oil" men of the road, and they are the "quack" doctors of the travel. They are the men who are engaged in a trade that is both dishonest and unbecomingly vulgar. They are the "snake-oil" men of the road, and they are the "quack" doctors of the travel.

An Old Soldier's Experience.

"I wish to express my appreciation of the valuable qualities of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral as a cough remedy. While with Churchill's army, just before the battle of Vicksburg, I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a dangerous cough. I found no relief till on our march we came to a country store, where, on asking for some remedy, I was urged to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. "I did so, and was rapidly cured. Since then I have kept the Pectoral constantly by me, for family use, and I have found it to be an invaluable remedy for throat and lung diseases." J. W. WALKLEY.

Thousands of testimonials testify to the prompt cure of all bronchitis and lung affections, by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily.
