

LOCAL RECORDS.

Today is the last day of the winter months, but not the last day of a wintry weather.

Fires are particularly dangerous while the March winds blow. A hint to the wise is sufficient.

The quarterly conference of the Pittsboro circuit will be held at this place on Saturday of next week.

Some one at Gravel Spring post office sent 25 cents for the Digest last week, but forgot to send his name.

Brand! Brand! Molasses! Molasses! Corn! Corn! Guano and Chemicals at BRYAN & HEADEN'S CHEAP FOR CASH!

Dogwood and Persephone in great demand at the stable block factory. But no more Hickory can be wanted at present.

The attention of our mercantile readers is called to the fact that the old and reliable firm of Worth & Worth, wholesale grocers.

Mr. L. H. Mann, of Cape Fear township, steps to the front with his big hog, which he killed a few days ago, and it weighed 327 pounds.

The attention of our farmers is called to the fact that the Raleigh Standard Guano, which is not only one of the very best fertilizers, but is also a home made one. Use it and get a premium of $50 to $60!

A former citizen of our town was tried last week at Greensboro court and condemned to be hanged. He is a negro, named Edna Moore, and was a slave of Mr. James Moore, of this place. He was convicted of the murder of a negro woman.

Spring is almost here and Spring goods are arriving at London's. Will receive this week a large lot of beautiful Spring Calicoes, Ginghams, Cambrays and other Spring Wares. A nice lot of White goods. The cheapest prices you ever saw. If you need anything, London's is the place to go to.

W. L. Linn, a young fellow offering a large lot of cat, cream, Flour, Meal, Molasses and other heavy groceries as cheap as can be had for the market for two weeks. Two more car loads of A-1 Flour, and other heavy groceries. High Grade Guano, and other goods. Before you buy your Guano, look at the Chatham Record value given by N. C. Department of Agriculture.

PERSONAL ITEMS.—Dr. J. C. Goodwin, of this county, graduated last week at the Vanderbilt Dental College, at Nashville, Tennessee, and will practice his profession in the present at Merry Oaks.

Dr. J. C. Kirkwood, of Mt. Vernon, Springs, has returned from the State Normal Medical College, at Greensboro, having been attending a special course at lectures.

Our young countryman, Mr. E. H. Eubanks, has accepted a position as salesman with Mr. Frank T. Linton, of Fayetteville, where he will be pleased to see an old friend, his friends in Chatham. He is quite attentive to his duties and makes a capital clerk.

Mrs. William P. Taylor, of Greensboro, Texas, is visiting her many friends at her old home.

WINTER WEATHER.—Who will now doubt the truth of the groundhog sign? Is not the groundhog ever before seen since winter weather during the last week of February? One of the dearest and best of us in this section fell on last Thursday night, being about 10 or 12 inches deep in a hole. It was very soft, and melted rapidly. A few sledges were out at this place, but the sleighing was not good. Many of the young folks enjoyed snow falling. The snow storm was quite general, extending as far as Athens, Augusta and Columbia. A cold wave followed soon after, and last Sunday was decidedly the coldest day of the winter, at midday the thermometer indicating a temperature of 25 degrees above zero. At Minneapolis to Minnesota, it was 52 degrees below zero.

AUDITOR'S REPORT.—We have received a copy of the State Auditor's Report for the year ending November 30th, 1898, and from it we have compiled some statistics that may be of interest to our readers. We find that only seven counties—Robeson, Sampson, Cumberland, Columbus, Wake, Moore and Tyrrell—lost for taxation a larger number of acres of land than Chatham. Our county lists for taxation 2,415 farms, and Guilford, Davidson, Iredell, Rowan and Randolph are the only counties that list a larger number. Chatham has 2,322 mules, and the counties that have a larger number are Mecklenburg, Wake, Edgecombe and Wayne. Our county can boast of a larger number of cattle and sheep than any other county in the State, having 42,965 cattle and 16,437 sheep. But in nearly every money on hand—Chatham falls away behind, listing only $22,181, while 55 counties list a larger sum.

The assessed value of all the real estate in North Carolina is $125,438,769, of which Chatham owns $2,129,263, while twenty counties have more than Chatham. The assessed value of all the personal property in North Carolina is $71,398,875, and Chatham's share is $1,001,001, which is less than that of twenty-two other counties.

Over 30,000 men, women, and children are employed in the tobacco industry of New York city, of whom about 10,000 are cigar makers proper. The rest are cigar makers, strippers, bunchers, packers, pesters, box makers. More than 6,000 cigar makers are women, girls, and small children.

The population of the city of New York according to the report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics is 1,555,691.

State News.

Taylorville Journal: Rev. Mr. Hunsicker, a former resident of our town, has got himself into trouble in Catawba and has landed in the Reformatory. It appears that Superintendent Hunsicker gave him a second grade teacher's certificate, but it was not good enough for the State, so he was sent to the "house" to "study" until he was good enough to "teach" in Catawba and get a school. He was soon caught up with, and now Hunsicker says that "a little learning is a dangerous thing."

Warrenton Gazette: On Wednesday morning last an unknown colored man was found lying on the railroad track at Warrenton, his body terribly mangled, and one leg from the knee down gone. Coroner Wainwright is at an inquest over the body, but no facts could be elicited. It is supposed that he was steering a wagon on the tracks or upon the covered way. It is singular that the leg could not be found. The body had evidently been dragged a good distance by the cars.

Louisburg Times: There was a strange sight on the streets this week in the shape of a run mad mule. This mule was taken a few days ago by a man and dog in the lower part of the county. He was brought to the Livery stable, and there was taken in this condition. The tongue was swollen and black, froth in mumps the size of a man's two fists would run from the mouth of the beast at every breath of the stomach, and every time he was taken in the way. The mule would gnaw the fence but show no inclination to hurt any one. He died in a few hours, since then another mule has died in the same way.

State News.

Taylorville Journal: Rev. Mr. Hunsicker, a former resident of our town, has got himself into trouble in Catawba and has landed in the Reformatory. It appears that Superintendent Hunsicker gave him a second grade teacher's certificate, but it was not good enough for the State, so he was sent to the "house" to "study" until he was good enough to "teach" in Catawba and get a school. He was soon caught up with, and now Hunsicker says that "a little learning is a dangerous thing."

Warrenton Gazette: On Wednesday morning last an unknown colored man was found lying on the railroad track at Warrenton, his body terribly mangled, and one leg from the knee down gone. Coroner Wainwright is at an inquest over the body, but no facts could be elicited. It is supposed that he was steering a wagon on the tracks or upon the covered way. It is singular that the leg could not be found. The body had evidently been dragged a good distance by the cars.

Louisburg Times: There was a strange sight on the streets this week in the shape of a run mad mule. This mule was taken a few days ago by a man and dog in the lower part of the county. He was brought to the Livery stable, and there was taken in this condition. The tongue was swollen and black, froth in mumps the size of a man's two fists would run from the mouth of the beast at every breath of the stomach, and every time he was taken in the way. The mule would gnaw the fence but show no inclination to hurt any one. He died in a few hours, since then another mule has died in the same way.

Ashville Citizen: A negro man, 45 years of age, named Storey, was recently killed by the electric trolley in Charlotte. A mule broke down on the trolley, and Storey was thrown from the car. He was killed by the electric current. His body was found in the street, and he was taken to the hospital, but he died before he could be operated on.

Winston-Salem: Epin Caldwell, a colored man, from the town of Housh, was out on a boat of wood and not returning was found and found dead upon the banks of the river. He was killed by the electric trolley. His body was found in the street, and he was taken to the hospital, but he died before he could be operated on.

Wilmington Herald: A correspondent of the Herald, writing from Rockingham, N. C., says that possibly the first case of cholera in this section of the State was reported last night. The patient was a colored man, and he died before he could be operated on.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

State News.

Taylorville Journal: Rev. Mr. Hunsicker, a former resident of our town, has got himself into trouble in Catawba and has landed in the Reformatory. It appears that Superintendent Hunsicker gave him a second grade teacher's certificate, but it was not good enough for the State, so he was sent to the "house" to "study" until he was good enough to "teach" in Catawba and get a school. He was soon caught up with, and now Hunsicker says that "a little learning is a dangerous thing."

Warrenton Gazette: On Wednesday morning last an unknown colored man was found lying on the railroad track at Warrenton, his body terribly mangled, and one leg from the knee down gone. Coroner Wainwright is at an inquest over the body, but no facts could be elicited. It is supposed that he was steering a wagon on the tracks or upon the covered way. It is singular that the leg could not be found. The body had evidently been dragged a good distance by the cars.

Louisburg Times: There was a strange sight on the streets this week in the shape of a run mad mule. This mule was taken a few days ago by a man and dog in the lower part of the county. He was brought to the Livery stable, and there was taken in this condition. The tongue was swollen and black, froth in mumps the size of a man's two fists would run from the mouth of the beast at every breath of the stomach, and every time he was taken in the way. The mule would gnaw the fence but show no inclination to hurt any one. He died in a few hours, since then another mule has died in the same way.

Ashville Citizen: A negro man, 45 years of age, named Storey, was recently killed by the electric trolley in Charlotte. A mule broke down on the trolley, and Storey was thrown from the car. He was killed by the electric current. His body was found in the street, and he was taken to the hospital, but he died before he could be operated on.

Winston-Salem: Epin Caldwell, a colored man, from the town of Housh, was out on a boat of wood and not returning was found and found dead upon the banks of the river. He was killed by the electric trolley. His body was found in the street, and he was taken to the hospital, but he died before he could be operated on.

Wilmington Herald: A correspondent of the Herald, writing from Rockingham, N. C., says that possibly the first case of cholera in this section of the State was reported last night. The patient was a colored man, and he died before he could be operated on.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

State News.

Taylorville Journal: Rev. Mr. Hunsicker, a former resident of our town, has got himself into trouble in Catawba and has landed in the Reformatory. It appears that Superintendent Hunsicker gave him a second grade teacher's certificate, but it was not good enough for the State, so he was sent to the "house" to "study" until he was good enough to "teach" in Catawba and get a school. He was soon caught up with, and now Hunsicker says that "a little learning is a dangerous thing."

Warrenton Gazette: On Wednesday morning last an unknown colored man was found lying on the railroad track at Warrenton, his body terribly mangled, and one leg from the knee down gone. Coroner Wainwright is at an inquest over the body, but no facts could be elicited. It is supposed that he was steering a wagon on the tracks or upon the covered way. It is singular that the leg could not be found. The body had evidently been dragged a good distance by the cars.

Louisburg Times: There was a strange sight on the streets this week in the shape of a run mad mule. This mule was taken a few days ago by a man and dog in the lower part of the county. He was brought to the Livery stable, and there was taken in this condition. The tongue was swollen and black, froth in mumps the size of a man's two fists would run from the mouth of the beast at every breath of the stomach, and every time he was taken in the way. The mule would gnaw the fence but show no inclination to hurt any one. He died in a few hours, since then another mule has died in the same way.

Ashville Citizen: A negro man, 45 years of age, named Storey, was recently killed by the electric trolley in Charlotte. A mule broke down on the trolley, and Storey was thrown from the car. He was killed by the electric current. His body was found in the street, and he was taken to the hospital, but he died before he could be operated on.

Winston-Salem: Epin Caldwell, a colored man, from the town of Housh, was out on a boat of wood and not returning was found and found dead upon the banks of the river. He was killed by the electric trolley. His body was found in the street, and he was taken to the hospital, but he died before he could be operated on.

Wilmington Herald: A correspondent of the Herald, writing from Rockingham, N. C., says that possibly the first case of cholera in this section of the State was reported last night. The patient was a colored man, and he died before he could be operated on.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

State News.

Taylorville Journal: Rev. Mr. Hunsicker, a former resident of our town, has got himself into trouble in Catawba and has landed in the Reformatory. It appears that Superintendent Hunsicker gave him a second grade teacher's certificate, but it was not good enough for the State, so he was sent to the "house" to "study" until he was good enough to "teach" in Catawba and get a school. He was soon caught up with, and now Hunsicker says that "a little learning is a dangerous thing."

Warrenton Gazette: On Wednesday morning last an unknown colored man was found lying on the railroad track at Warrenton, his body terribly mangled, and one leg from the knee down gone. Coroner Wainwright is at an inquest over the body, but no facts could be elicited. It is supposed that he was steering a wagon on the tracks or upon the covered way. It is singular that the leg could not be found. The body had evidently been dragged a good distance by the cars.

Louisburg Times: There was a strange sight on the streets this week in the shape of a run mad mule. This mule was taken a few days ago by a man and dog in the lower part of the county. He was brought to the Livery stable, and there was taken in this condition. The tongue was swollen and black, froth in mumps the size of a man's two fists would run from the mouth of the beast at every breath of the stomach, and every time he was taken in the way. The mule would gnaw the fence but show no inclination to hurt any one. He died in a few hours, since then another mule has died in the same way.

Ashville Citizen: A negro man, 45 years of age, named Storey, was recently killed by the electric trolley in Charlotte. A mule broke down on the trolley, and Storey was thrown from the car. He was killed by the electric current. His body was found in the street, and he was taken to the hospital, but he died before he could be operated on.

Winston-Salem: Epin Caldwell, a colored man, from the town of Housh, was out on a boat of wood and not returning was found and found dead upon the banks of the river. He was killed by the electric trolley. His body was found in the street, and he was taken to the hospital, but he died before he could be operated on.

Wilmington Herald: A correspondent of the Herald, writing from Rockingham, N. C., says that possibly the first case of cholera in this section of the State was reported last night. The patient was a colored man, and he died before he could be operated on.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

Charlotte Chronicle: Mrs. Sap Horn, who lives in Low Creek township, died with an accident on Wednesday morning when she was 70 years of age. She had been ill for some time, and she died peacefully in her bed. Her husband and children were with her at the time of her death.

State News.

Taylorville Journal: Rev. Mr. Hunsicker, a former resident of our town, has got himself into trouble in Catawba and has landed in the Reformatory. It appears that Superintendent Hunsicker gave him a second grade teacher's certificate, but it was not good enough for the State, so he was sent to the "house" to "study" until he was good enough to "teach" in Catawba and get a school. He was soon caught up with, and now Hunsicker says that "a little learning is a dangerous thing."

Warrenton Gazette: On Wednesday morning last an unknown colored man was found lying on the railroad track at Warrenton, his body terribly mangled, and one leg from the knee down gone. Coroner Wainwright is at an inquest over the body, but no facts could be elicited. It is supposed that he was steering a wagon on the tracks or upon the covered way. It is singular that the leg could not be found. The body had evidently been dragged a good distance by the cars.

Louisburg Times: There was a strange sight on the streets this week in the shape of a run mad mule. This mule was taken a few days ago by a man and dog in the lower part of the county. He was brought to the Livery stable, and there was taken in this condition. The tongue was swollen and black, froth in mumps the size of a man's two fists would run from the mouth of the beast at every breath of the stomach, and every time he was taken in the way. The mule would gnaw the fence but show no inclination to hurt any one. He died in a few hours, since then another m