A MYSTERY OF THE SEA.

A THE HORS.

In the summer of 1881. I was coming across the Indian Ocean in the eteamship Clemeans, homeward-bound from Shanghal with a cargo of tea. We had passed Caylon, catching a glimpse of the distant island and a whilf of the spicy becore off-hore, and were nearing the treacherous chain of Islands, when I same up from the and twisted, cabin after dinner for a stroll on deck.
