

TRIP TO CHICAGO.

Chicago, May 18th, 1893. (EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.) There is an old saying in Italy that "all roads lead to Rome", and so now in the United States it may be said with equal truth that "all roads lead to Chicago", and it would seem that everybody is just now travelling all the roads leading to that wonderful city.

Leaving Pittsboro' on Monday morning, the 15th, I arrived here at 72 a. on the 17th, after a pleasant and comfortable journey. Modern travelling is so very different from the fatiguing journeys of former years, that this journey of 1200 miles was a continued source of pleasure all that distance.

But I will not attempt now to describe anything about the Fair, because a mere glance one afternoon could give anyone an idea of its contents and exhibits. The weather is delightful, clear with bright sunshine. There are 300,000 holiday makers, with as much warmth as in North Carolina, but the nights are quite cool, making wraps very necessary.

Whiskey Insurrection. Along this line are many coal mines, and at frequent intervals were seen long rows of large coke ovens, glowing brightly in the darkness of the night, and suggesting visions of molten and warmer world.

also to attend the annual meeting of the National Editorial Association, which is composed of delegates from every State and Territory in the Union. Among the editors attending this meeting are two ex-Governors, several ex-Congressmen and many of the most prominent men in the United States.

On our second afternoon an excursion was given us on Lake Michigan in a very large and magnificent steamboat. This gave us a most favorable opportunity for obtaining a bird's eye view of the entire city, which extends along the lake many miles.

On our second night we all accepted an invitation to attend the Auditorium theatre, probably the grandest in the United States. It was both immense and magnificent beyond description. The play was chiefly spectacular and was simply gorgeous.

Every morning this far has been occupied with the sessions of the Editorial Association, and very little time has, as yet, been devoted to sight-seeing, but after today every moment will be devoted to that purpose, as the regular business of the Association will be all disposed of today.

Washington Letter. (From our Executive Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, May 19, 1893. Men and brethren, hear ye all! This administration is going to be democratic in fact as well as in name. The overwhelming verdict of the people is to be obeyed, and no republicanism is to be left in a place of responsibility.

On our second afternoon an excursion was given us on Lake Michigan in a very large and magnificent steamboat. This gave us a most favorable opportunity for obtaining a bird's eye view of the entire city, which extends along the lake many miles.

On our second night we all accepted an invitation to attend the Auditorium theatre, probably the grandest in the United States. It was both immense and magnificent beyond description. The play was chiefly spectacular and was simply gorgeous.

Every morning this far has been occupied with the sessions of the Editorial Association, and very little time has, as yet, been devoted to sight-seeing, but after today every moment will be devoted to that purpose, as the regular business of the Association will be all disposed of today.

Washington Letter. (From our Executive Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, May 19, 1893. Men and brethren, hear ye all! This administration is going to be democratic in fact as well as in name. The overwhelming verdict of the people is to be obeyed, and no republicanism is to be left in a place of responsibility.

On our second afternoon an excursion was given us on Lake Michigan in a very large and magnificent steamboat. This gave us a most favorable opportunity for obtaining a bird's eye view of the entire city, which extends along the lake many miles.

On our second night we all accepted an invitation to attend the Auditorium theatre, probably the grandest in the United States. It was both immense and magnificent beyond description. The play was chiefly spectacular and was simply gorgeous.

Every morning this far has been occupied with the sessions of the Editorial Association, and very little time has, as yet, been devoted to sight-seeing, but after today every moment will be devoted to that purpose, as the regular business of the Association will be all disposed of today.

A Charlie Ross Affair. (Special to the Wilmington Messenger.) GREENVILLE, N. C., May 21.—News from Washington, N. C., tells a tale surprising that of Charlie Ross. In 1855 a little 5-year-old son of a Mr. and Mrs. Chaney, near there, mysteriously disappeared. Mrs. Chaney started the little fellow off to his father who was some distance from the house. He never reached him and all efforts to find him proving fruitless, he was given up for dead or lost, but his mother never lost the hope of seeing him before she died.

On our second afternoon an excursion was given us on Lake Michigan in a very large and magnificent steamboat. This gave us a most favorable opportunity for obtaining a bird's eye view of the entire city, which extends along the lake many miles.

On our second night we all accepted an invitation to attend the Auditorium theatre, probably the grandest in the United States. It was both immense and magnificent beyond description. The play was chiefly spectacular and was simply gorgeous.

Every morning this far has been occupied with the sessions of the Editorial Association, and very little time has, as yet, been devoted to sight-seeing, but after today every moment will be devoted to that purpose, as the regular business of the Association will be all disposed of today.

State News. Danbury Reporter: A sixteen year old daughter of Amos Archer in Wayne county, Va., attempted to drink a quart of whiskey and died in a few hours. Charlotte Observer: Concealing that Charlotte has 5000 cigarette smokers, and that each smoker consumes $20 worth of cigarettes, which is putting it quite low, during a year, it will be seen that $10,000,000 annually vanishes into vapor in her limits through the medium of the dangerous and offensive cigarette.

On our second afternoon an excursion was given us on Lake Michigan in a very large and magnificent steamboat. This gave us a most favorable opportunity for obtaining a bird's eye view of the entire city, which extends along the lake many miles.

On our second night we all accepted an invitation to attend the Auditorium theatre, probably the grandest in the United States. It was both immense and magnificent beyond description. The play was chiefly spectacular and was simply gorgeous.

Every morning this far has been occupied with the sessions of the Editorial Association, and very little time has, as yet, been devoted to sight-seeing, but after today every moment will be devoted to that purpose, as the regular business of the Association will be all disposed of today.

MONEY TO LOAN. MONEY TO LOAN upon approved real estate security at 2 per cent. For particulars apply to: A. I. McNEILL, Attorney at Law, Feb. 9, 1893. SANFORD, N. C.

Paul Norwood, Cor. Parrish and Corcoran Sts., DURHAM, N. C., Dealer in purest wines, whiskeys, beer, &c. 607-Mish wine for sacramental use, made at Medoc Vineyard, April 13, 1893.

LUMBER! All kinds of LUMBER for sale at the PITTSBORO SHUTTLE MILL WEATHER-BOARDING, CEILING AND FLOORING, PLANS AND KILN DRIED, ON ROTON. BILLS SAID TO ORDER at short notice. Good Ceiling and Flooring already DRESSED at only $1.20 per 100 feet. B. INCOE, JR., Sept. 17, 1891.

FIRE! FIRE!! EVERYBODY OUGHT TO INSURE THEIR PROPERTY IN THE N. C. HOME INSURANCE CO. This is a Home company and deserves the patronage of all North Carolinians. It was organized in 1868 and has paid over half a million dollars in losses and there is not one contested claim against it!

The object of my visit here is not merely to visit the World's Fair, but