

THE recent action of the students at the University, that resulted in the expulsion of three of their number, deserves the highest commendation...

It seems that three students, in violation of the college rules, determined to haze some of the Freshmen by blacking them—a brutal system of hazing that, years ago, was indulged in by most colleges with impunity...

That was exactly right and those students should be commended for thus promptly purging themselves of those who would bring disgrace on their beloved alma mater.

With the exception of New York, where it was the subject of the republican administration, the fact remains that the colored people are in a better condition and are treated better than in any other state...

While this fair is creditable to our colored fellow-citizens, it is also a proof, or product, of the kind treatment of the colored people of North Carolina by the Democratic party...

A State convention of the colored Republicans was held at Raleigh last week, and a state organization was effected to be known as the "Lincoln Republican League."

That before any man is nominated for an office we should exact from him a written pledge that he will give one half of his clerical force to colored Republicans.

These colored Republicans seem to think that, as they constitute a majority of their party in this State, they should have at least one half of the small offices, such as clerkships, and they will require written pledges to that effect.

The death of Gen. Thomas L. Clingman deserves more than a passing notice, and his remarkable career may aptly be cited to point a moral and adorn a tale.

Washington Letter.

From our frequent correspondents.

WASHINGTON, Nov 5, 1897.

Today's Cabinet meeting was a somewhat gloomy gathering, and Mr. McKinley was absent. Secretary Sherman looked as if he were the man who had been kicked by the pack...

The Meaning of It.

From the Wilmington Messenger.

What means the recent elections in many States? What shall come of it? Is it mere froth on the passing wave, or is it the deliberate expression of the people as to what they propose and demand?

On August 12th, Senator Pritchard and Congressman White had a competitor lady removed as postmaster at Pocomoke, and a young negro woman appointed in her place.
