

The Old Year.

The closing hours of every year have most men to pause in their hurried rush of life's duties, and recall with mingled emotions of joy and sorrow its scenes and incidents.

During the past year many of those who were traveling with us on the journey have stamped by the wayside, and before the new year closes many more will join them.

This expression of the feeling that the year has been a good one, is shown by the fact that the committee appointed by the legislature to examine the accounts of the State Treasurer.

Now, let us turn to the year that is passing. It has been a year of many changes, and many of them have been for the better.

It is a year of many changes, and many of them have been for the better. The year has been a year of progress and of achievement.

Now, what of the future? It is a year of many changes, and many of them have been for the better. The year has been a year of progress and of achievement.

The Supreme Court has rendered its decision, and it is a decision that will be a landmark in the history of the country.

One was the decision in the railroad commissioners' case, being in favor of Pearson and Caldwell, the Governor's appointees, and their first official act was to draw each, for service never performed.

By a strange coincidence (it happens that all three of these decisions were in favor of the Republicans.

The reputation of an honest politician by any city or county is subversive of public morals and impairs confidence in all contracts.

It seems that in 1891 a special election of 8 county, at a public election, voted for an issue of $100,000 in county bonds to aid in the construction of a railroad to their county seat.

One of the most interesting features of the year has been the fact that the year has been a year of progress and of achievement.

With the new year begins a new city—the second largest city in the world in population and wealth.

New York City has an area of 100,000 acres, or 307, square miles. This makes it the largest city in the world in area.

New York City has a population of 3,500,000. This population is made up of many different races and nationalities.

There is now a large number of people who are coming to New York City to live. This is because of the many opportunities that are available here.
