The Charlotte Terrors

Lightning seems to be unusually destructive this summer. In nearly every paper is published [illegible] of its fatal [illegible] are killed by lightning in the vicinity of [illegible] and valuable property destroyed nearly every day, and it is no wonder that so many persons are greatly frightened when a storm approaches. And the fact is that lightning seems to be a deadly danger that no human precaution can certainly provide against.

We congratulate our progressive neighbors at Raleigh upon the very large majority by which they voted on last Monday, an issue of $[illegible] worth of bonds for street improvements and $50,000 for school purposes.

Special Correspondence of the Courier.

Morehead City, June 12.—Mr. W. J. Edwards and Mr. D. E. Mebane, of Scotland, have been spending a week about the line of the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad, consulting with the business men in question relative to the Edwards proposition to lease the State's interest in the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad to them. The interested meetings between Morehead City and Beaufort [illegible] Mr. McLean what the Edwards [illegible] to buy the State's interest in the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad to the Edwards syndicate for the State's interest in the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad. The interested people almost unanimously favor the sale of the State's interest in the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad to the Edwards syndicate on the terms offered by the State.
