There is no such thing in China as a government, as we understand it. There is the outward form, but it is entirely devoid of substance. There are officials but they lick power, and even the imperiors will of the Empress Bownger cannot be impressed on the people at large. The present dis-turbance, if it is at least a popular uprising, indicates the helplessness of the central government to govern or if it is no most naturally supported by the authorities from we say the curione speciale of a government carry ing on a war against the civilize I world in concert with the greater part of its people and the whole of its many standing by apparently anneved.
