

Why not let the next Democratic State convention nominate the United States Senator who is to be elected by the next Legislature?

We favor the election of United States Senators by the people... the wording of a plank in the platform adopted by our last Democratic State convention...

Then, why not let the Senator be nominated by the State convention just as all other high officers are nominated? Why not let the State convention nominate the Senator just as it nominates the Governor and other State officers?

If then, the State convention is a fit and competent body to select candidates for Governor and Supreme Court Judges, why is it not equally fit and competent to name the candidate for the United States Senate?

There are two objections thus far suggested to the convention nominating the Senator... that the choice of the people might not be fairly expressed, because the friends of one aspirant might be better able to attend the convention than the friends of another aspirant.

The other objection is that the defeated Senatorial aspirants would not take any interest in the campaign after their defeat in the State convention.

Such an objection is no fault to and a shander upon the tried and tried Democrats who are said to be aspirants for the Senate.

If the Senator is nominated by the State convention then that question is eliminated from the campaign and there will be no dissensions among Democrats as to whom the Legislature should elect. Then the county conventions may and will nominate their legislative candidates without regard to the choice of Senator, and there will be no dissension in our party ranks.

This is written without the knowledge of any Senatorial aspirant.

rant and without the writer knowing the views of any aspirant on this question. It is not written for the purpose of promoting the interests of any aspirant, but solely for the purpose of promoting harmony in the Democratic party and preventing any possible dissensions, and at the same time give the people in general a suggested right to express their choice for Senator.

The Republican majority in Congress deserves the commendation of all fair-minded men for its persistent refusal to admit Cuban sugar to this country free of tariff duty. It is admitted that the growing crop in Cuba will be at a low price unless this tariff barrier is removed.

The trial of the late Judge Jones has not been widely published, as it should be. The trial was a series of episodes, the witnesses were not sworn, and the proceedings were not published.

The talk in Congress, especially in the House, is full of promises to hold foreign places as a means of increasing the revenue.

William F. Fisher, the able and energetic manager of the North Carolina State Convention, has been elected to the position of Secretary of the State Convention.

A visitor to the State Convention at Raleigh, N. C., has been struck by the fact that the friends of one aspirant might be better able to attend the convention than the friends of another aspirant.
